World Press Hails As Dynamic, President Kennedy's State Of Union Message

LONDON (UPI) — President Kennedy's State of the Union message generally was hailed as dynamic and historic Friday in Western European newspapers and official circles. One Berlin paper compared it to Franklin D. Roosevelt's New Deal program.

There was scattered criticism in London and Paris, however, mainly on economic aspects of the message.

In Tokyo, Japanese business and trade circles expressed disappointment and anxiety over Kennedy's plan for the United States to strengthen its ties with the European economic community. These officials said such common market ties would have a serious influence on Japan's trade and industries.

Moscow radio gave a generally factual account of the President's message. But it said Kennedy's assertion that the end of 1961 saw U.S. economy on the upgrade was backed up only by a "general outline" and "without reference to any statistics."

Communist bloc radio commentators in Warsaw, East Berlin, Budapest and other satellite capitals, gave prominent attention to the announcement that U.S. defense expenditures had been increased by 15 per cent. They mentioned however, that Kennedy had expressed hope for a peaceful solution to the Berlin crisis through East-West negotiations.

Some of the most enthusiastic comment was in the West Berlin press.

The West Berlin Telegraf said Kennedy's "program of broad liberalization is revolutionary and dynamic. In the history of the United States there has been only one comparable plan, Roosevelt's New Deal. . ."

"Kennedy's proposals in some areas are revolutionary," said the West Berlin paper Der Tag. "If the President succeeds this year in breaking through the greater liberalism in the American trade and tariff policy, it will be one of the few great historic events that will compare with the founding of the common market.

In Bonn, West German government sources said the President's message proved the United States is willing to assert its "leading role" in the world. They said Kennedy laid down a line for a common Western policy which combines strength and willingness to negotiate.

The London Daily Telegraph praised the President's message as 'an inspiring but soberly worded address."

Referring to Kennedy's first year in office, the London Daily Mail said:

"Far too much was expected of him when he entered office but in spite of this handicap his achievement has been notable. The hopes of the world are to a large extent centered on this young, romantic figure. We don't think he will betray them."

A dissenting note came from Paris. The leftist newspaper Combat criticized American policy on Cuba, Laos and Viet Nam but said, nevertheless, Kennedy had "matured in the struggle to keep the United States in the struggle to keep the United States in the forefront of the world."

Washington Views Army Revamping

Expect Military To Voice Strong Disfavor Of Plan

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The administration will announce next Tuesday a shakeup in the Army department so controversial it is certain to bring protests from Army officers and meet criticism in Congress.

Contemplated for years, the reorganization is so touchy that former Defense Secretary Robert A. Lovett once said it would be no more painful for government leaders than backing into a buzz saw. But he agreed it should be carried out.

The final plan was developed by Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara and approved by President Kennedy. Chiefly affected are such old line technical services as the ordnance, chemical, quartermaster, signal and transportation corps.

Asked about the plan, a Defense Department spokesman said the Army would "have something to say about this" Tuesday.

Draws Sharp Protest

Some details of the plan have been leaking out for weeks. The authoritative Army - Navy - Air Force Journal said Friday that the reorganization already had "drawn sharp protests from a number of senior officers."

The office of the chief of engineers, which is responsible for civilian and military construction projects, and the office of the surgeon general, will hold their own. But other technical services will disappear or be absorbed in new commands.

The plan calls for two new commands—material development and logistics command, and combat and combat developments command. The continental Army command will take over nearly all training including that now conducted by technical services.

A new office of personnel operations in the Army general staff will control career planning and officer assignments.

Concentrate On Planning

The plan is designed to reduce operating functions of the Army general staff and let it concentrate on planning and policy-making.

The offices of chief of ordnance and chief chemical officer will be eliminated. The quartermaster will have little to do except su-

Lumumba Youth Gangs Roving Stanleyville

LEOPOLDVILLE, The Congo (UPI) —United Nations and Congolese troops were reported patrolling the tense Oriental Province capital of Stanleyville Friday night to prevent roving gangs of "Lumumba youth" from taking the law into their hands.

Diplomatic reports reaching here said the U.N. and Congolese forces were operating in joint patrols in Stanleyville, where leftist Deputy Premier Antoine Gizenga remained quartered in defiance of Central government orders.

The reports from Stanleyville said the trouble started when four leaders of the leftist youth group —which retains the name of the late Congolese Premier Patrice Lumumba, were arrested by Gizenga's police Friday morning.

Other members of the group rushed to the army camp where the youths were held and demanded their release, the reports said. The demonstrators were dispersed.

"Lumumba youths" were reported to have "arrested" a British newsman in his hotel room in Stanleyville earlier Friday. He was released unharmed later.

British Broadcasting Corp. correspondent Kenneth MacKenwie messaged Leopoldville that the youths mistook his tape recorder for a "secret radio."

Adm. Hayward To Command Navy Task Force

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Navy Friday named one of its most dynamic and decorated admirals, J.T. (Chick) Hayward, to command a new task force expected to develop eventually into the world's first nuclear-powered flotilla.

Flagship of the unit will be the nuclear-powered aircraft carrier Enterprise, largest warship ever built. The 85,000-ton flattop is now nearing fleet readiness.

To take over the new seagoing unit, Hayward will undergo a reduction in rank from vice admiral to rear admiral. But the 53-year old officer will be on a path that in time could take him to the top of the Navy.

Dominican Youths Burn American Flag

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic (AP)—A band of youths burned the American flag and damaged a U.S. consulate vehicle Friday during a pro-Communist demonstration.

Some 25 to 30 youths demonstrated outside the consulate, then marched to the embassy. They carried placards demanding the release of a pro-Communist Dominican political leader, Maximo Lopez Molina, they said was detained by U.S. authorities at Miami, Fla.

Death Toll Exceeds 2,000 In Andean Area

Officials Declare Emergency Zone; Aid Is Dispatched

LIMA, Peru (AP) — Fearing new icefalls, the government Friday declared an emergency zone in the snowcapped Andean region where a mighty avalanche blotted out 16 villages and settlements in the space of eight minutes Wednesday.

Reports from the stricken death valley 200 miles northwest of Lima told of panic among the few survivors who escaped. The slide crashed from 22,205-foot Mt. Huascaran, setting in motion snow, water, mud and debris.

Estimates of the death toll still ranged from 2,000 up, but these were based on reports of persons missing. Only 50 bodies had been recovered from the yards-deep mud and debris that covered the villages of Ranrahirca and Huarascucho and 14 smaller settlements.

Only about 50 of Ranrahirca's 500 inhabitants escaped. Apparently 800 of Huarascucho's slightly larger population are missing.

A huge block of ice, loosened by Peru's summer suns, crashed into a gorge, gathered up tons of rock and ice and material of every description and with a tremendous roar gushed down a nine-mile course before it dumped its load on the peaceful farming and mining communities below.

It was but eight minutes from the time the residents heard the first crash until the avalanche engulfed the area.

About 7,000 people lived in the immediate vicinity of Huaylas Valley. The exact number of dead may never be known.

Roberto Thorndike, chairman of the Peruvian Red Cross, estimated the missing at 2,300, most of them presumably dead.

Indonesia Reports Infiltration By Fifth Columnists

JAKARTA (UPI) — Indonesia's military chief disclosed Friday a fifth column of Indonesians born in Dutch-held West New Guinea are infiltrating back into that territory in increasing numbers.

Gen. Abdul Haris Nasution denied, however, that any Indonesian regular troops have landed in West New Guinea which Indonesia claims as part of its territory.

U.S. Ambassador Howard P. Jones said he is "cautiously optimistic" about the possibility of a negotiated settlement of the dispute over West New Guinea.

Ribicoff Urges Vigorous Action On School Aid

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Secretary Abraham Ribicoff said Friday he had urged the House and Senate Education Committees to "press vigorously" for enactment of President Kennedy's public school aid bill and legislation to help colleges.

In apparent reply to press reports that the administration had given up on aid to public schools, the secretary of health, education and welfare said he had "reiterated a strong endorsement of the President's entire education program."

Ribicoff's statement was issued after he had met for an hour with Chairman Adam Clayton Powell, D-N.Y., of the House Education and Labor Committee. Ribicoff, who gave Powell details of the program, said he expected better luck with it than the 1961 version.

Powell served notice he would make an all-out fight for the administration bill to help both public and privately - financed colleges build classrooms and provide scholarships for talented but needy students.

But Powell had no plans for an all-out effort on behalf of federal aid for public school construction and teachers' pay

Algerian Economy Is Collapsing

ORAN, Algeria (AP) — Authorities took stock of Oran's crumbling economy Friday and saw no prospect for halting unemployment and the flight of capital in Algeria's second city, where the French administration has lost control to French extremists opposing President Charles de Gaulle.

An estimated 20,000 Moslems of the normal working force of 40,000 were laid off by European employers in the past three weeks, or the Moslems refused to venture into the European quarters to earn their living.

Hunger demonstrations were reported in Moslem areas cordoned off by troops and surrounded by barbed wire.

Despite European crowds chanting slogans of faith in continuation of French rule in Algeria, most merchants and industrialists see the future as black.

Almost all private construction has stopped and the government housing budget for 1962 was cut by 35 per cent.

Sales of household machines and equipment dropped more than 60 per cent. Textiles were even more affected.

Authorities estimate the Oran area's industrial production has dropped 35 to 40 per cent since Moslem terrorist attacks un-

U.S. Restores Economic Aid To Laotians

VIENTIANE, Laos (AP)—The U.S. government restored economic aid to Laos Friday—48 hours after Premier Prince Boun Oum agreed to fly to Geneva for a new Laotian summit meeting.

Boun Oum's pro-Western government was notified a $4-million cash grant for January, held up nearly two weeks, was being deposited for it in the Chase Manhattan Bank of New York.

U.S. Embassy sources, in disclosing the resumption of the allowances, declined to comment on the reason for the delay.

But U.S. Ambassador Winthrop G. Brown had been putting the heat on the premier to get together with neutralist Prince Souvanna Phouma and pro-Communist Prince Souphanouvong ever since the collapse of the Vientiane summit conference last month.

Boun Oum wants to keep the key interior and defense ministries in rightist hands in the unity coalition he promised last summer to help form. Souvanna wants neutralists to hold those jobs. And Souphanouvong, his half-brother, has claimed they should go to the Red Pathet Lao.

The American pressure for an agreement was termed intolerable by Finance Minister Phouangpeth Pahanareth Tuesday. He declared the loyal Laotians would rather tighten their belts than yield.

N.Y. Central, Pennsylvania To Combine

ICC Is Expected To Take Long Look At Consolidation

NEW YORK (UPI) — The nation's two biggest railroads—the Pennsylvania and the New York Central—announced Friday plans to merge, subject to government approval, into a $5.5 billion transportation system.

The Interstate Commerce Commission (ICC), which must pass on all rail consolidations, was certain to take a long and hard look at a merger that would create by far the largest rail network in the country.

A joint announcement by Pennsy chairman James M. Symes and Central president Alfred E. Perlman said that the two carriers would formally seek IIC approval of the merger "probably within 30 days."

The merged company would operate from Boston to Washington and as far west as St. Louis and Chicago. It would also have terminals at Detroit, Cleveland, Indianapolis, Cincinnati, Buffalo and Pittsburgh.

The stockholders will vote on the merger proposal at the annual stockholders meeting May. The name of the merged company would be "Pennsylvania New York Central Transportation Company," headquartered in the state of Pennsylvania.

Terms Of The Proposal

Under terms of the proposal, New York Central shareholders would receive 1.3 shares of common stock in the merged company for each share of stock now held and Pennsylvania stockholders would receive 1 share of common stock for each share now held.

Currently there are 6,521,838 shares of Central stock and 13,167,754 shares of Pennsylvania common stock outstanding.

Under the stock exchange terms, the present Pennsylvania shareholders should have 60.8 per cent of the shares of the new company and the present New York Central shareholders 39.2 per cent.

The board of directors of the unified system, the joint announcement said, would include 11 members of the Central's

Thompson, Gromyko Have 3-Hour Meet

MOSCOW (UPI) — U.S. Ambassador Llewellyn E. Thompson and Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko held their second sparring round on Berlin Friday and indications were the three-hour session was a tough one.

The two men met in Gromyko's office in the skyscraper building housing the foreign ministry. This session was 40 minutes longer than Thompson's first probe of Soviet intentions on Berlin Jan. 2.

There was no official statement after the meeting. Asked whether he was optimistic or pessimistic, he commented: "I don't think I can say anything."

Thompson said he would send a report on the meeting to Washington at once.

Three U.S. Ex-Presidents To Be Kept Fully Informed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The three living ex-Presidents of the United States will be kept abreast of developments pertaining to the nation's defense posture and relations aboard.

On direct orders of President Kennedy, former Presidents Dwight D. Eisenhower, Harry S. Truman and Herbert Hoover will be given periodic intelligence briefings by high government officials, it was learned Friday.

The directive already has been put into effect. New Central Intelligence Agency director John A. McCone visited Eisenhower's winter retreat in Palm Springs, Calif., Friday to give him a rundown.

The White House said the Eisenhower briefing consisted generally of a review of developments in the past year and an intelligence evaluation of problems facing the nation this year.

Next week end, McCone is scheduled to visit Truman at Independence, Mo., for a similar briefing. A date is being arranged for the first resume for Hoover.

The idea of keeping ex-Presidents up to date on crucial issues is not new with the Kennedy administration, although the President has now chosen to make it more regular policy than a now-and-then situation.

Cold Takes Soaring Toll Of Lives, Crops

By United Press International

All-time low temperatures froze millions of dollars' worth of citrus fruit in the frigid lower Rio Grande Valley Friday and a wintry blast plastered freezing rain and snow on Dixie's Atlantic seaboard from North Florida to Virginia.

The week-long cold wave took a soaring toll in lives and crops as it clung to the South and threatened south and central Florida's citrus and vegetable crops for the first time.

The cold eased in the West and North. But freezing temperatures still chilled all the nation except the Florida peninsula and the West Coast. The mercury fell to 38 below at Fraser, Colo., and 18 below at Big Piney, Wyo.

Gumbo froze on a table at Morse, La., water iced in Galveston Bay 100 feet from shore, and for the first time in history a bridge was closed in Jacksonville, Fla., because of ice.

Suffering spread through usually balmy areas of the South. Texas counted six children among its cold wave dead.

A woman froze to death in the Virginia mountains as she went for aid for her husband, stricken with a heart attack. Another Virginia woman froze to death as she walked through woods near her home.

In one full week of wintry ordeal, the nation counted at least 202 deaths blamed on the weather. Texas alone had 32 and Illinois 26.

The lower Rio Grande Valley was one of the hardest hit sections. The mercury dropped to an all-time low of 10 above zero in the sub-tropical citrus - growing area.

An estimated 7.5 million boxes of oranges and grapefruit froze on the trees. Many growers feared that even their trees were lost.

"Everything is gone except the fence posts," one farmer said.

The state agricultural commissioner ordered growers to stop shipping fruit for seven days until the full damage could be assessed. Farmers already had marked off thousands of acres of tomatoes, lettuce and other truck crops as a total loss.

Two dozen water mains broke at Corpus Christi, Tex., water pipes burst by the hundreds and 3,300 homes and businesses in Edinburg were without gas on the coldest night in the town's history until service was restored early Friday.

An off - shore storm dumped heavy snow on the lower Eastern seaboard. Five to six inches of snow piled up on the North Carolina coastal plains. Businesses in Norfolk, Va., began closing before noon when 5 inches of snow piled up, with about 7 inches expected.

By 7 a.m. EST Pensacola, Fla., had endured its 54th consective hour of freezing temperatures. The cold moved south through the Florida Peninsula. For the first time in the current cold wave, citrus and vegetable crops in central and south Florida were threatened with frost.

Nation's Users Of Steel Building Up Inventories

NEW YORK (UPI)—The country's steel users are building up inventory at such a rate that if there is no steel strike this year the steel business may be very quiet in the second half of 1962, experts said Friday.

This forecast was made by several speakers at a meeting of the executive committee of the Steel Service Center Institute.

The 900 steel service centers inventory a wide variety of steel products for 500 companies to fill small orders. They handled over six million tons in orders last year averaging around half a ton. Sales from the service centers in 1961 ran about 10 per cent ahead of 1960 and individual dealers expect increases ranging up to 20 per cent this year.

But executive vice - president Robert G. Welch of Cleveland told a news conference that the service centers' inventory accumulation in anticipation of a possible steel strike this year already has been accomplished.

"We all hope there will be no steel strike this year, and excessive inventory accumulation now can only lead to dislocation for the whole steel industry and the country's economy if we don't have a strike," Welch said.

NEW YORK (UPI) — The nation's two biggest railroads—the Pennsylvania and the New York Central—announced Friday plans to merge, subject to government approval, into a $5.5 billion transportation system.

The Interstate Commerce Commission (ICC), which must pass on all rail consolidations, was certain to take a long and hard look at a merger that would create by far the largest rail network in the country.

A joint announcement by Pennsy chairman James M. Symes and Central president Alfred E. Perlman said that the two carriers would formally seek IIC approval of the merger "probably within 30 days."

The merged company would operate from Boston to Washington and as far west as St. Louis and Chicago. It would also have terminals at Detroit, Cleveland, Indianapolis, Cincinnati, Buffalo and Pittsburgh.

The stockholders will vote on the merger proposal at the annual stockholders meeting May. The name of the merged company would be "Pennsylvania New York Central Transportation Company," headquartered in the state of Pennsylvania.

Terms Of The Proposal

Under terms of the proposal, New York Central shareholders would receive 1.3 shares of common stock in the merged company for each share of stock now held and Pennsylvania stockholders would receive 1 share of common stock for each share now held.

Currently there are 6,521,838 shares of Central stock and 13,167,754 shares of Pennsylvania common stock outstanding.

Under the stock exchange terms, the present Pennsylvania shareholders should have 60.8 per cent of the shares of the new company and the present New York Central shareholders 39.2 per cent.

The board of directors of the unified system, the joint announcement said, would include 11 members of the Central's

Thompson, Gromyko Have 3-Hour Meet

MOSCOW (UPI) — U.S. Ambassador Llewellyn E. Thompson and Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko held their second sparring round on Berlin Friday and indications were the three-hour session was a tough one.

The two men met in Gromyko's office in the skyscraper building housing the foreign ministry. This session was 40 minutes longer than Thompson's first probe of Soviet intentions on Berlin Jan. 2.

There was no official statement after the meeting. Asked whether he was optimistic or pessimistic, he commented: "I don't think I can say anything."

Thompson said he would send a report on the meeting to Washington at once.

Three U.S. Ex-Presidents To Be Kept Fully Informed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The three living ex-Presidents of the United States will be kept abreast of developments pertaining to the nation's defense posture and relations aboard.

On direct orders of President Kennedy, former Presidents Dwight D. Eisenhower, Harry S. Truman and Herbert Hoover will be given periodic intelligence briefings by high government officials, it was learned Friday.

The directive already has been put into effect. New Central Intelligence Agency director John A. McCone visited Eisenhower's winter retreat in Palm Springs, Calif., Friday to give him a rundown.

The White House said the Eisenhower briefing consisted generally of a review of developments in the past year and an intelligence evaluation of problems facing the nation this year.

Next week end, McCone is scheduled to visit Truman at Independence, Mo., for a similar briefing. A date is being arranged for the first resume for Hoover.

The idea of keeping ex-Presidents up to date on crucial issues is not new with the Kennedy administration, although the President has now chosen to make it more regular policy than a now-and-then situation.

Cold Takes Soaring Toll Of Lives, Crops

By United Press International

All-time low temperatures froze millions of dollars' worth of citrus fruit in the frigid lower Rio Grande Valley Friday and a wintry blast plastered freezing rain and snow on Dixie's Atlantic seaboard from North Florida to Virginia.

The week-long cold wave took a soaring toll in lives and crops as it clung to the South and threatened south and central Florida's citrus and vegetable crops for the first time.

The cold eased in the West and North. But freezing temperatures still chilled all the nation except the Florida peninsula and the West Coast. The mercury fell to 38 below at Fraser, Colo., and 18 below at Big Piney, Wyo.

Gumbo froze on a table at Morse, La., water iced in Galveston Bay 100 feet from shore, and for the first time in history a bridge was closed in Jacksonville, Fla., because of ice.

Suffering spread through usually balmy areas of the South. Texas counted six children among its cold wave dead.

A woman froze to death in the Virginia mountains as she went for aid for her husband, stricken with a heart attack. Another Virginia woman froze to death as she walked through woods near her home.

In one full week of wintry ordeal, the nation counted at least 202 deaths blamed on the weather. Texas alone had 32 and Illinois 26.

The lower Rio Grande Valley was one of the hardest hit sections. The mercury dropped to an all-time low of 10 above zero in the sub-tropical citrus - growing area.

An estimated 7.5 million boxes of oranges and grapefruit froze on the trees. Many growers feared that even their trees were lost.

"Everything is gone except the fence posts," one farmer said.

The state agricultural commissioner ordered growers to stop shipping fruit for seven days until the full damage could be assessed. Farmers already had marked off thousands of acres of tomatoes, lettuce and other truck crops as a total loss.

Two dozen water mains broke at Corpus Christi, Tex., water pipes burst by the hundreds and 3,300 homes and businesses in Edinburg were without gas on the coldest night in the town's history until service was restored early Friday.

An off - shore storm dumped heavy snow on the lower Eastern seaboard. Five to six inches of snow piled up on the North Carolina coastal plains. Businesses in Norfolk, Va., began closing before noon when 5 inches of snow piled up, with about 7 inches expected.

By 7 a.m. EST Pensacola, Fla., had endured its 54th consective hour of freezing temperatures. The cold moved south through the Florida Peninsula. For the first time in the current cold wave, citrus and vegetable crops in central and south Florida were threatened with frost.

Nation's Users Of Steel Building Up Inventories

NEW YORK (UPI)—The country's steel users are building up inventory at such a rate that if there is no steel strike this year the steel business may be very quiet in the second half of 1962, experts said Friday.

This forecast was made by several speakers at a meeting of the executive committee of the Steel Service Center Institute.

The 900 steel service centers inventory a wide variety of steel products for 500 companies to fill small orders. They handled over six million tons in orders last year averaging around half a ton. Sales from the service centers in 1961 ran about 10 per cent ahead of 1960 and individual dealers expect increases ranging up to 20 per cent this year.

But executive vice - president Robert G. Welch of Cleveland told a news conference that the service centers' inventory accumulation in anticipation of a possible steel strike this year already has been accomplished.

"We all hope there will be no steel strike this year, and excessive inventory accumulation now can only lead to dislocation for the whole steel industry and the country's economy if we don't have a strike," Welch said.

Organized Plan For Sit-Ins Is Ready Today

Students Protest Segregation In Cambridge Area

BALTIMORE (AP) — The Civic Interest Group of Baltimore announced Friday that at least 50 students from Maryland State College will take part in Saturday's sit-ins and picketing at Cambridge restaurants.

Leo Burroughs Jr., publicity chairman for the anti-segregation organization, said about 50 students of the college at Princess Anne already have signed up to take part in the demonstration, planned as a protest to racial discrimination.

The group will assemble at 11 a.m. Saturday at the Douglass Memorial Community Church in Baltimore and leave at 12:15 p.m. by car for Cambridge, he said. The anticipated time of arrival in Cambridge is between 2:30 and 3 p.m.

Burroughs said the "Freedom Riders" would assemble at the Waugh Methodist Church, Pine and High Streets, upon arrival in Cambridge, to receive their assignments.

"They will then divide up into inter-racial groups of six or seven persons and fan out over the town to their respective destinations," he said.

"Demonstrations will be conducted against the 12 restaurants which continue to refuse service to Negroes," Burroughs' statement said.

Afterward, he said, the Freedom Riders and townspeople will meet at the Waugh Methodist Church again "to generate additional community enthusiasm and support. It is felt that such a rally will create a greater awareness among the populace of Cambridge as to the dangers in inherent in continued racial discrimination."

Cambridge will be the third city on the Eastern Shore to be the scene of anti-segregation demonstrations. Crisfield and Easton were visited twice each earlier.

Burroughs said there were no advance plans for arrests.

"We're not designating anyone for arrest," he said. "If any occur they will be wholly spontaneous — a result of individual conscience of the demonstrators.

DiSalle Enters Gubernatorial Race In Ohio

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Democratic Gov. Michael V .DiSalle got back into this year's race for governor Friday. The campaign—which has all the earmarks of a slam-bang affair—was under way inside 15 minutes.

DiSalle's decision to run was not entirely unexpected since President Kennedy last Saturday night braved the foulest kind of flying weather to come to Columbus to speak some kind words on behalf of DiSalle, on the occasion of the governor's 54th birthday.

DiSalle said he would run for a second four-year term, despite his Oct. 20 announcement that he intended to bow out, because a Republican-contolled legislature met in an extraordinary session Nov. 14 and "again refused to meet the needs of this state" and he is now convinced that the "fight for a program cannot be conducted by halfway measures."

Atty. Gen. Mark McElroy of Cleveland, who announced his candidacy for the Democratic nomination for governor a month after DiSalle dealt himself out, handed out a prepared statement almost before the applause died down in the governor's Cabinet meeting where his re-entry into the race was announced.

McElroy had written: "I welcome the fumbling, faltering reentry of the governor in the primary election race. We are happy that the governor has finally discovered a candidate that he can truly embrace—with deepest affection. The governor, after many weeks of wrestling with his conscience, I am sure, believes that he has slected the best available candidate."

DiSalle, onetime U.S. price stabilizer during the Korean conflict, glanced through the two-page McElroy statement and commented: "After reading the statement, I am more firmly convinced than ever that I made the correct decision today."

GOP Head Charges Pollyanna Attitude By Administration

OKLAHOMA CITY (UPI) — Republican National Chairman William E. Miller Friday night accused the Kennedy administration of a "Pollyanna attitude" on foreign policy that is aiding America's enemies and confusing its friends.

Miller, a congressman from New York, joined Rep. Bob Wilson, R-Calif., in attacking the Kennedy administration. Both spoke at a meeting of the Republican National Committee here.

The administration is expected to receive another lashing Saturday from Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz. He will deliver the closing address of the two-day conference.

Miller, in an address prepared for delivery Friday night, attacked the Kennedy administration's policies in Laos, Cuba and the Congo.

Miller charged that Communists are moving toward control in Southeast Asia and that our relations with NATO have deteriorated because of our policies in the Congo.

"Even the existence of Cuba was not acknowledged," Miller said, in a reference to the President's State of the Union message.

"The Pollyanna attitude and strategy of the ostrich may serve the purposes of the administration in domestic policies, but abroad they can only serve to increase the recklessness of our enemies and the confusion and despair of our friends."

Wilson, who heads the party's congressional campaign committee, predicted not much of Kennedy's domestic program will get through Congress and accused the administration of being dominated by left-wingers who want to socialize the country.

Wilson charged that Americans for Democratic Action have moved into the Kennedy inner circle and "are responsible for the left turn in American government."

"The ADA has a program to socialize this country and they have found the welcome mat out at the White House," Wilson said.". . .You can work to defeat this socialistic scheme the new frontier is advocating. You can help sell the Republican philos-xphy for what it stands for — good old Americanism."

Wilson also charged that the Kennedy administration had "muzzled" Admiral Arleigh Burke, and Maj. Gen. Edwin Walker, both retired, "for being anti-Communist."

"I don't think Mr. Kennedy is going to get much of his program through and I think it's going to boomerang against him in the 1962 elections," Wilson said.

Representatives from all 50 states attended the national committee meeting. They set their sights of regaining control of Congress and winning other offices in the 1962 elections.

Kennedy's State of the Union message came under heavy fire.

Rep. William E. Miller, R-N.Y., GOP national chairman, said he opposes giving the President stand - by authority to decrease taxes or increase public works spending, because it could be abused in an election year.

"If all of the things Kennedy asked for should become law, that will be the last State of the Union message," Miller said, "because there won't be any more union."

He charged that Kennedy had lost touch with what the people want.

"We think our chances are very good for winning a majority in Congress," he said.

"We sense a trend right now toward conservatism and republicanism, sensing in the wind this is a Republican year."

Party leaders heard a three-hour long report on how to gain votes in the big cities, where Democratic majorities were credited with electing Kennedy in 1962.

Diplomats Get Warning To Obey U.S. Laws

WASHINGTON (AP) — The State Department publicly advised foreign diplomats Friday that they are expected to respect U.S. laws, including traffic laws, in spite of the diplomatic immunity which shields them from arrest.

The advice, designed also as reassurance to the Washington public, came after an automobile collision here Thursday.

Blake Clark, 53, an editor for Readers Digest; and his wife, Deena, asked the District of Columbia Legal Office to prefer charges against Lt. Col Maurice P. Schwartz, a Belgian Embassy officer attached to a North Atlantic Treaty Organization office at the Pentagon. They said he rammed their compact car twice here Wednesday night, then departed from the scene.

Gordon M. Van Sanford, assistant corporation counsel, said Schwarz is shielded by immunity, and that the Legal Office, therefore, ahd issued no summons for a hearing.

The State Department declared in a public statement — without specifically mentioning the Schwarz case — that diplomatic immunity does not relieve foreign diplomats "from the obligation to respect" American laws.

Press officer Lincoln White said, under persistent questioning by newsmen, that State Department officials were investigating the Clark-Schwarz controversy.

He said the public statement on respect for the law had not been called officially to the attention of the Belgian Embassy, but it was understood U.S. officials were annoyed by a Belgian spokesman's comment that the embassy "considered the affair closed."

The remark came after Schwarz was quoted as saying he thought he had only "touched" Clark's car with his own, and that he had pushed Clark's car as a "joke."

leashed a wave of European reprisals last fall.

Each week an average of four industrial firms transfers operations to France.

"Who can make plans in this hell?" bitterly complained the head of one company.

All merchants and industrial firms are forced to contribute to the rightist organization fighting De Gaulle—the European Secret Army Organization, whose monthly revenue in this city is estimated unofficially at two million new francs or $40,000.

Small shopkeepers pay around $50 a month. Doctors, dentists and lawyers pay $100. Commercial firms are taxed according to the volume of business. All of them pay, for fear of having business or apartment blown up.

Many French settlers are leaving the city. The administration says about 40,000 have left western Algeria since Oct. 1, or roughly 10 per cent. Oran has a European population of 200,000 and about 200,000 others live in smaller towns of western Algeria.

Only grocery stores are doing booming business in Oran. Prompted by appeals of the secret army, housewives have been stocking up on food in expectation of a new uprising.

Periodic strikes are another difficulty.

Carl M. Estep Sentenced To Life For Rape

Montgomery Co. Woman Judge Imposes Penalty

ROCKVILLE, Md. (AP) — Carl M. Estep, 19-year-old soldier, was sentenced to life imprisonment Friday on a charge of raping a 60-year-old widow at Ashton, Md., last April.

Circuit Judge Kathryn Shook pronounced sentence after a sharp exchange with the defendant.

When the judge asked Estep, a Negro, if he had anything to say, he said in a low voice:

"There's no sense in saying I'm sorry, because I know Montgomery County is a prejudiced county."

Judge Shook replied:

"For you to stand there and say that this is a prejudiced county shows your ignorance. In God's sight, you are the same as I or a red man or an oriental.

"You have been ably defended by one of the most competent attorneys in Maryland. Every right you have as a citizen has gone with you from the moment of your arrest. All our laws have safeguarded you without consideration for your race, color or religion.

"In justice's sake, a judge's responsibility is for the protection of society. Carl M. Estep, you will be confined to the Maryland Penitentiary for the period of your natural life.

"If and when there should come a time when you are considered for parole, the record of this court will be attached to your record to show the type and brutality of your crime. Right now, it is this court's opinion that you should never be returned to society."

The sentence could have ranged from 18 months in prison to death in the gas chamber.

Estep's attorney, Bernard T. Welsh, made a plea against capital punishment.

Judge Shook said she had delayed sentencing for more than a month since Estep's conviction because "this case has caused the court a great deal of concern.

"The court here has considered the nature of the crime . . . A rape in the night-time . . . The terror which the victim must have felt . . . The brutality of the assault . . . The fact that the defendant had a gun in his hand and that the victim said that she prayed for him . . . The fact of the defendant's youth and his previous record, which was clear except for a burglary . . . The court has reviewed all these facts."

In the courtroom was Estep's mother, who appeared relieved that the death penalty was not imposed.

Estep was on leave from the Army at the time. He had lived with his grandmother, about a quarter mile from the widow's home.

board and 14 members of the Pennsylvania's board.

Pennsylvania directors under the consolidation plan would nominate a chairman of the board to be chief executive officer and a vice chairman of the board. The Central directors would nominate a vice chairman of the board and a president to be chief administrative officer.

Economic Necessity

"The merger of the New York Central and the Pennsylvania Railroad is an economic necessity which will benefit the nation's economy," the two railroads' officers said. "Improvement of service and more efficient utilization of facilities and the economy of a joint operation will place the merged railroad in a better position to serve the public."

Studies are continuing, the announcement said, but have not reached the point where a final decision can be made as to the merged railroad's organizational structure, plans of operation or other details.

The announcement said that the exact amount of savings from the merger had not yet been determined but present indications are that they "would be substantial."

Even after approval by the ICC and shareholders of both roads it is believed that unified operations still would be as much as two years away.

Marks Largest Consolidation

If the merger of the two systems is accomplished it would mark the biggest corporate consolidation ever. It would result in the eleventh largest corporation in the United States. The two roads now operate more than 20,000 miles of track, or approximately 10 per cent of all the rail mileage in the nation.

The board of directors of the combined system would include these members of the Central's board:

Those from the Pennsylvania would be: Richard K M.ellon, C. Jared Ingersoll, James E. Gowen, Symes, Joseph H. Thompson, R. George Rincliffe, Otto N. Frenxel, William L. Day, Gaylord P. Harnwell, Thomas L. Perkins, Edward J. Hanley, A. J. Grennough and Howard Butcher.

Although Loeb said the disaster was "like a shipwreck, there were no survivors," Capt. Fernando Paezaniri of the army reported 1,000 persons—including survivors and curious—were milling around Ranrahirca requesting food and shelter. A crew of about 100, mostly police and civilians from Huaraz, 30 miles away, searched for bodies, he said.

Health Minister Eduardo Watson Cisneros established aid headquarters at Yungay, a town of 3,000 which escaped only because two hills blocked the avalanche.

Army engineers landed with supplies of medicine, food and clothing and tackled the job of reopening roads and communications.

Gen. Luis Errelo was named by President Manuel Prado to head a disaster committee, and Parliament unanimously appropriated eight million soles—$320,000 — for rebuilding the destroyed towns.

Jesse A. Fisher, 76 Dies At Annapolis

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — Funeral services will be held here Sunday for Jesse A. Fisher, longtime Annapolis alderman and firemarshal and more recently a member of the Maryland Tidewater Fisheries Commission.

Fisher, 76, died unexpectedly Thursday at Anne Arundel General Hospital.

He was appointed to the TFC by Gov. Tawes June 24, 1959, and was an active member of that agency at the time of his death.

Services will be held at St. Anne's Episcopal Church at 2:30 p.m. Sunday with burial in Cedar Bluff Cemetery.

A sister, three daughters, 10 grandchildren and eight great grandchildren survive.

No Collapse Seen In Red China

TAIPEI, Formosa (UPI) —Authoritative sources Friday said U.S. intelligence officials have found no signs that point to a collapse of the Chinese Communist regime in 1962 in spite of unrest over food shortages and other conditions on the China mainland.

The sources said the conclusions were relayed to President Kennedy. They were based on information gathered in various Asian capitals, including the Nationalist Chinese capital of Taipei.

Dental Care Insurance Is Launched

WASHINGTON (AP) — A group insurance plan covering dental care has been announced by the District of Columbia Dental Society. The premium amounts to about $7.50 a month for a family.

The plan provides up to $1,000 in benefits a year for each employe and each member of his family, with a $5,000 lifetime maximum for any one person.

Rothstein Dental Laboratories Inc., has inaugurated the plan for its 100 employes and their families. Metropolitan Life Insurance Co. is the underwriter.

The plan is the first for dental care in the Washington area and only the sixth in the nation, the dental society said.

At Rothstein's, an employe pays $4 a month and the company pays $3.50. Each person may then receive 75 per cent of any year's dental costs over $25.

The only major services not covered are the cleaning of teeth and expenses resulting from war, and cosmetic surgery or treatment. The insured employe may go to the dentist of his choice.

Diplomats Get Warning To Obey U.S. Laws

WASHINGTON (AP) — The State Department publicly advised foreign diplomats Friday that they are expected to respect U.S. laws, including traffic laws, in spite of the diplomatic immunity which shields them from arrest.

The advice, designed also as reassurance to the Washington public, came after an automobile collision here Thursday.

Blake Clark, 53, an editor for Readers Digest; and his wife, Deena, asked the District of Columbia Legal Office to prefer charges against Lt. Col Maurice P. Schwartz, a Belgian Embassy officer attached to a North Atlantic Treaty Organization office at the Pentagon. They said he rammed their compact car twice here Wednesday night, then departed from the scene.

Gordon M. Van Sanford, assistant corporation counsel, said Schwarz is shielded by immunity, and that the Legal Office, therefore, ahd issued no summons for a hearing.

The State Department declared in a public statement — without specifically mentioning the Schwarz case — that diplomatic immunity does not relieve foreign diplomats "from the obligation to respect" American laws.

Press officer Lincoln White said, under persistent questioning by newsmen, that State Department officials were investigating the Clark-Schwarz controversy.

He said the public statement on respect for the law had not been called officially to the attention of the Belgian Embassy, but it was understood U.S. officials were annoyed by a Belgian spokesman's comment that the embassy "considered the affair closed."

The remark came after Schwarz was quoted as saying he thought he had only "touched" Clark's car with his own, and that he had pushed Clark's car as a "joke."

Algerian

leashed a wave of European reprisals last fall.

Each week an average of four industrial firms transfers operations to France.

"Who can make plans in this hell?" bitterly complained the head of one company.

All merchants and industrial firms are forced to contribute to the rightist organization fighting De Gaulle—the European Secret Army Organization, whose monthly revenue in this city is estimated unofficially at two million new francs or $40,000.

Small shopkeepers pay around $50 a month. Doctors, dentists and lawyers pay $100. Commercial firms are taxed according to the volume of business. All of them pay, for fear of having business or apartment blown up.

Many French settlers are leaving the city. The administration says about 40,000 have left western Algeria since Oct. 1, or roughly 10 per cent. Oran has a European population of 200,000 and about 200,000 others live in smaller towns of western Algeria.

Only grocery stores are doing booming business in Oran. Prompted by appeals of the secret army, housewives have been stocking up on food in expectation of a new uprising.

Periodic strikes are another difficulty.

Carl M. Estep Sentenced To Life For Rape

Montgomery Co. Woman Judge Imposes Penalty

ROCKVILLE, Md. (AP) — Carl M. Estep, 19-year-old soldier, was sentenced to life imprisonment Friday on a charge of raping a 60-year-old widow at Ashton, Md., last April.

Circuit Judge Kathryn Shook pronounced sentence after a sharp exchange with the defendant.

When the judge asked Estep, a Negro, if he had anything to say, he said in a low voice:

"There's no sense in saying I'm sorry, because I know Montgomery County is a prejudiced county."

Judge Shook replied:

"For you to stand there and say that this is a prejudiced county shows your ignorance. In God's sight, you are the same as I or a red man or an oriental.

"You have been ably defended by one of the most competent attorneys in Maryland. Every right you have as a citizen has gone with you from the moment of your arrest. All our laws have safeguarded you without consideration for your race, color or religion.

"In justice's sake, a judge's responsibility is for the protection of society. Carl M. Estep, you will be confined to the Maryland Penitentiary for the period of your natural life.

"If and when there should come a time when you are considered for parole, the record of this court will be attached to your record to show the type and brutality of your crime. Right now, it is this court's opinion that you should never be returned to society."

The sentence could have ranged from 18 months in prison to death in the gas chamber.

Estep's attorney, Bernard T. Welsh, made a plea against capital punishment.

Judge Shook said she had delayed sentencing for more than a month since Estep's conviction because "this case has caused the court a great deal of concern.

"The court here has considered the nature of the crime . . . A rape in the night-time . . . The terror which the victim must have felt . . . The brutality of the assault . . . The fact that the defendant had a gun in his hand and that the victim said that she prayed for him . . . The fact of the defendant's youth and his previous record, which was clear except for a burglary . . . The court has reviewed all these facts."

In the courtroom was Estep's mother, who appeared relieved that the death penalty was not imposed.

Estep was on leave from the Army at the time. He had lived with his grandmother, about a quarter mile from the widow's home.

board and 14 members of the Pennsylvania's board.

Pennsylvania directors under the consolidation plan would nominate a chairman of the board to be chief executive officer and a vice chairman of the board. The Central directors would nominate a vice chairman of the board and a president to be chief administrative officer.

Economic Necessity

"The merger of the New York Central and the Pennsylvania Railroad is an economic necessity which will benefit the nation's economy," the two railroads' officers said. "Improvement of service and more efficient utilization of facilities and the economy of a joint operation will place the merged railroad in a better position to serve the public."

Studies are continuing, the announcement said, but have not reached the point where a final decision can be made as to the merged railroad's organizational structure, plans of operation or other details.

The announcement said that the exact amount of savings from the merger had not yet been determined but present indications are that they "would be substantial."

Even after approval by the ICC and shareholders of both roads it is believed that unified operations still would be as much as two years away.

Marks Largest Consolidation

If the merger of the two systems is accomplished it would mark the biggest corporate consolidation ever. It would result in the eleventh largest corporation in the United States. The two roads now operate more than 20,000 miles of track, or approximately 10 per cent of all the rail mileage in the nation.

The board of directors of the combined system would include these members of the Central's board:

Those from the Central will be Don Carter, R. Walter Graham Jr. M.D., Isaac B. Grainger, Allan P. Kirby, Fred M. Kirby, Seymour H. Knox, Frank E. McKinney John D. Murchison, Alfred E. Perlman, Eugene C. Pulliam and Daniel E. Taylor.

Those from the Pennsylvania would be: Richard K M.ellon, C. Jared Ingersoll, James E. Gowen, Symes, Joseph H. Thompson, R. George Rincliffe, Otto N. Frenxel, William L. Day, Gaylord P. Harnwell, Thomas L. Perkins, Edward J. Hanley, A. J. Grennough and Howard Butcher.

who flew over the valley, reported estimates of missing and dead at 4,000. He reported only 20 injured had been hospitalized at Huaraz, the nearest city 30 miles to the south.

The Ministry of Development, whose representative made a survey, said the dead may reach 2,000.

Although Loeb said the disaster was "like a shipwreck, there were no survivors," Capt. Fernando Paezaniri of the army reported 1,000 persons—including survivors and curious—were milling around Ranrahirca requesting food and shelter. A crew of about 100, mostly police and civilians from Huaraz, 30 miles away, searched for bodies, he said.

Health Minister Eduardo Watson Cisneros established aid headquarters at Yungay, a town of 3,000 which escaped only because two hills blocked the avalanche.

Army engineers landed with supplies of medicine, food and clothing and tackled the job of reopening roads and communications.

Gen. Luis Errelo was named by President Manuel Prado to head a disaster committee, and Parliament unanimously appropriated eight million soles—$320,000 — for rebuilding the destroyed towns.

No Collapse Seen In Red China

TAIPEI, Formosa (UPI) —Authoritative sources Friday said U.S. intelligence officials have found no signs that point to a collapse of the Chinese Communist regime in 1962 in spite of unrest over food shortages and other conditions on the China mainland.

The sources said the conclusions were relayed to President Kennedy. They were based on information gathered in various Asian capitals, including the Nationalist Chinese capital of Taipei.

Dental Care Insurance Is Launched

WASHINGTON (AP) — A group insurance plan covering dental care has been announced by the District of Columbia Dental Society. The premium amounts to about $7.50 a month for a family.

The plan provides up to $1,000 in benefits a year for each employe and each member of his family, with a $5,000 lifetime maximum for any one person.

Rothstein Dental Laboratories Inc., has inaugurated the plan for its 100 employes and their families. Metropolitan Life Insurance Co. is the underwriter.

The plan is the first for dental care in the Washington area and only the sixth in the nation, the dental society said.

At Rothstein's, an employe pays $4 a month and the company pays $3.50. Each person may then receive 75 per cent of any year's dental costs over $25.

The only major services not covered are the cleaning of teeth and expenses resulting from war, and cosmetic surgery or treatment. The insured employe may go to the dentist of his choice.

Training School For Machinists Planned Here

Two federal governmental agencies have authorized funds that will set up a training school for machinists in Cumberland, Rep. Harley O. Staggers, Keyser, (D-2nd W. Va.), announced yesterday in Washington.

The project spearheaded by the Upper Potomac Industrial Development Corporation will come under the Area Redevelopment Act.

Plans for the training were set up by J. D. Lonnholm, supervisor of vocational, industrial and adult education for the Allegany County Board of Education, in cooperation with Francis A. Kenney, manager of the Cumberland branch of the Department of Employment Security.

The project will be for increasing the skilled labor pool and add to the economy of the area including Allegany and Mineral counties.

Rep. Staggers said 25 machine tool operators will be trained in the Allegany Trades School on Paca Street.

The U. S. Department of Labor will allocate $12,400 to pay weekly subsistence benefits to trainees while they are taking their course.

The Department of Health, Education and Welfare will allocate $6,950 to pay for the training courses.

Residents of Allegany County who are interested may contact the local Employment Security office, while those in Mineral County can apply to the West Virginia State Employment office in Keyser, Rep. Staggers said.

Rep. Staggers added that: "This action will mean much in helping to alleviate the present economic situation in Mineral and Allegany counties."

Charles R. Wheeler, who was division storekeeper here until 1951, when he was promoted to regional storekeeper at Baltimore, has been named as purchasing agent for the B&O with headquarters at Baltimore.

He succeeds Howard A. Lockhart, who was division storekeeper in Cumberland for a number of years starting in 1937. Lockhart is retiring Monday after 45 years service with the railroad. Wheeler will have jurisdiction and supervision of the Purchasing Department of the B&O starting Monday.

Wheeler was named storekeeper at the Mt. Clare shops in Baltimore in the mid 1950s and then was named special assistant to the vice president of operations later. He had been assistant purchasing agent for some time prior to his latest promotion.

The family resided here in the Johnson Heights section and a daughter, Mrs. Hugh Miller, resides here. There are also a number of other relatives of the family living in the Cumberland area.

Lockhart began his career with the B&O at Garrett, Ind., in 1917 as a clerk. He was promoted to storekeeper in 1920 and in 1922 was named storekeeper at Akron, Ohio. He later held responsible positions in Chicago and then was promoted to the Cumberland Division storekeeper's post.

Lockhart and his wife will continue to reside in Baltimore.

Bids Sought For Detention Quarters

Bids for the construction of detention quarters at the Allegany County Infirmary are being sought by the Board of County Commissioners.

Bids on a previous construction program were rejected by the board as being excessive, and the project dropped until it was agreed to appropriate $10,000 more for the work several months ago.

The invitation for bids includes the stipulation that a lump sum proposal be offered by contractors, covering all general construction, plumbing, heating and electrical work.

It is also instructed that workmen be paid the prevailing wage rates, and that each bid must be accompanied by a certified check or surety bond in the amount of five per cent of the base bid.

The commissioners reserve the right to reject any or all bids. Sealed bids will be accepted until 10:30 a. m. Friday, February 2.

County Grants $200 Increases To Workers

Upon motion by Commissioner Louis V. Shinnamon and seconded by Commissioner John J. Rowan, the Allegany County Board of Commissioners yesterday voted to utilize $50,000, which was placed in the budget last April, to grant a $200 across-the-board annual pay increase to all county employes.

Commissioner John Tucker Mason voted against the proposal. He said that "it is ridiculous to take such action as almost a year was spent in having a survey made by the State Department of Employment Security on re-classification of the county employes to correct inequities and now it is being thrown into the waste basket."

A similar motion made at last Tuesday's meeting by Commissioner Rowan for the $200 pay raise lost for want of a second. At the time Commissioner Shinnamon indicated he wanted to study the idea before making a decision.

The pay increase will be made retroactive to January 1.

Charts were received at last Tuesday's meeting of the proposed classification setup as recommended by the state agency to the Civil Service Commission of the county.

Training School For Machinists Planned Here

Two federal governmental agencies have authorized funds that will set up a training school for machinists in Cumberland, Rep. Harley O. Staggers, Keyser, (D-2nd W. Va.), announced yesterday in Washington.

The project spearheaded by the Upper Potomac Industrial Development Corporation will come under the Area Redevelopment Act.

Plans for the training were set up by J. D. Lonnholm, supervisor of vocational, industrial and adult education for the Allegany County Board of Education, in cooperation with Francis A. Kenney, manager of the Cumberland branch of the Department of Employment Security.

The project will be for increasing the skilled labor pool and add to the economy of the area including Allegany and Mineral counties.

Rep. Staggers said 25 machine tool operators will be trained in the Allegany Trades School on Paca Street.

The U. S. Department of Labor will allocate $12,400 to pay weekly subsistence benefits to trainees while they are taking their course.

The Department of Health, Education and Welfare will allocate $6,950 to pay for the training courses.

Residents of Allegany County who are interested may contact the local Employment Security office, while those in Mineral County can apply to the West Virginia State Employment office in Keyser, Rep. Staggers said.

Rep. Staggers added that: "This action will mean much in helping to alleviate the present economic situation in Mineral and Allegany counties."

Shriners To Honor Ladies

The largest social gathering in the history of Ali Ghan Temple will close out the temple's most successful year with 800 reservations already made for the annual Ladies Night program to be held at the Shrine Country Club at 6 p. m. today.

Associate Judge W. Earle Cobey will deliver a farewell message to Illustrious Potentate Lewis J. Ort, under whose regime Ali Ghan has inaugurated a $250,000 expansion and consolidation program.

Orchids are being flown from Hawaii for the ladies who are honored annually by the temple, a Shrine spokesman said, in appreciation for their cooperation and support of Shriners who put in long hours on projects to aid 17 Shriner hospitals for crippled children in North America and Hawaii.

"The Drum Dancers of Tahiti," a South Seas dancing group with a wide background of television and night club performances, will be featured in the entertainment, along with Dick Reed, cartoonist, who will entertain with caricatures. Toastmaster for the occasion is Mike Hurst, former local radio announcer now associated with Litzenburg and Hurst Associated.

J. Wallace Close, chief rabban, will deliver the invocation, and Byron Kight will provide dinner music at the organ. The menu will feature shashlik oriental flame, a colorful dish prepared especially for the occasion by Gerd Ortmann, the new club manager.

Janis Paige Fights Comedy Typecasting

JANIS PAIGE

NEW YORK (NEA) — "Every week," says Janis Paige, "somebody sends me a script for a situation comedy. Invariably, it offers me a role as an ex-comedienne who sings I pick the thing up and say, 'Well, here we go again'."

Hollywood has Janis nicely pigeon-holed as the comedienne who sings, dances, makes jokes and looks pretty. And she is excellent in this role.

What she would like, though, is a TV series with some meat in it, something she can sink her teeth into.

"Nobody gives me a series with anything to it," she says. "I'd like something like Route 66 for a girl, except a girl can't drive around like those fellows. At least, people think a girl who would do that isn't very nice."

But who says a TV series must be about "nice" people? Look at the success of those legalized hoods, The Untouchables.

'Flintstones' Has Suggestion Plan

"The Flintstones" are a gold mine for the people who help create the Friday night series. Any one of the more than 200 employes can drop an idea, either in sketch form or in writing, on the boss' desk.

If accepted, and many are, a check for anywhere from fifty to one hundred dollars is in the immediate offing. Some of the idea people have fattened their bankrolls to a large extent this past season.

Local Glass Plant Topic Of TV Show

The story of making mirror quality plate glass at PPG's Cumberland plant will be featured on "The Port That Built A City and State," over the Baltimore station, WMAR-TV, at 5 p. m. on Sunday, January 14. The 30-minute program will be carried over Channel 5 on Cable TV as a service to residents of the Cumberland area.

The glass manufacturing story was recorded on film recently especially for the telecast by Ed Eisenmeier and Ray Ratajczak of the WMAR-TV staff. Helen Delich Bentley is the producer and hostess of the show.

The local plant was constructed by the Consolidated Engineering Company, one of the co-sponsors of the telecast. The Western Maryland Railway was active in helping to get the plant located and built near Cumberland and is also mentioned in the film.

A number of Cumberland area citizens, employes of the plant, will be seen "on the job" as they perform their part in the plate glass production processes.

Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company began rolling glass on September 8, 1956, at its newest and most modern plate glass facility. Presently the Cumberland plant employs 710 area people.

Janis Paige Fights Comedy Typecasting

JANIS PAIGE

NEW YORK (NEA) — "Every week," says Janis Paige, "somebody sends me a script for a situation comedy. Invariably, it offers me a role as an ex-comedienne who sings I pick the thing up and say, 'Well, here we go again'."

Hollywood has Janis nicely pigeon-holed as the comedienne who sings, dances, makes jokes and looks pretty. And she is excellent in this role.

What she would like, though, is a TV series with some meat in it, something she can sink her teeth into.

"Nobody gives me a series with anything to it," she says. "I'd like something like Route 66 for a girl, except a girl can't drive around like those fellows. At least, people think a girl who would do that isn't very nice."

But who says a TV series must be about "nice" people? Look at the success of those legalized hoods, The Untouchables.

'Flintstones' Has Suggestion Plan

"The Flintstones" are a gold mine for the people who help create the Friday night series. Any one of the more than 200 employes can drop an idea, either in sketch form or in writing, on the boss' desk.

If accepted, and many are, a check for anywhere from fifty to one hundred dollars is in the immediate offing. Some of the idea people have fattened their bankrolls to a large extent this past season.

Local Glass Plant Topic Of TV Show

The story of making mirror quality plate glass at PPG's Cumberland plant will be featured on "The Port That Built A City and State," over the Baltimore station, WMAR-TV, at 5 p. m. on Sunday, January 14. The 30-minute program will be carried over Channel 5 on Cable TV as a service to residents of the Cumberland area.

The glass manufacturing story was recorded on film recently especially for the telecast by Ed Eisenmeier and Ray Ratajczak of the WMAR-TV staff. Helen Delich Bentley is the producer and hostess of the show.

The local plant was constructed by the Consolidated Engineering Company, one of the co-sponsors of the telecast. The Western Maryland Railway was active in helping to get the plant located and built near Cumberland and is also mentioned in the film.

A number of Cumberland area citizens, employes of the plant, will be seen "on the job" as they perform their part in the plate glass production processes.

Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company began rolling glass on September 8, 1956, at its newest and most modern plate glass facility. Presently the Cumberland plant employs 710 area people.

Actress Is Midget Racing Enthusiast

Women drivers have invaded one of the last remaining male strongholds—midget car racing—and one of Southern California's most enthusiastic distaff drivers is Ann Doran, who plays Lori Martin's mother in "National Velvet," Mondays (8-8:30 p. m., EST).

Miss Doran became interested in the sport when she began filming the family series at MGM and met the company's propman, Anthony E. Lorette.

According to Miss Doran, Lorette invited her to a racing meet in San Bernardino, Calif., where the racing bug hit her.

Actress Is Midget Racing Enthusiast

Women drivers have invaded one of the last remaining male strongholds—midget car racing—and one of Southern California's most enthusiastic distaff drivers is Ann Doran, who plays Lori Martin's mother in "National Velvet," Mondays (8-8:30 p. m., EST).

Miss Doran became interested in the sport when she began filming the family series at MGM and met the company's propman, Anthony E. Lorette.

According to Miss Doran, Lorette invited her to a racing meet in San Bernardino, Calif., where the racing bug hit her.

OLD HANDS AT THIS

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . .
ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

A man who knows nothing about trees may admire a forest. But he'll never make a living in the timber business.

The Bible is like our other resources. It can fill any man with a sense of awe . . . but its rich treasures are for the earnest and patient seeker.

As you've held the Book and leafed its pages, you could almost feel its sacredness. And yet, when you began to read, perhaps it was like plodding an unfamiliar path.

Try again, today. But try with the zeal of the apprentice who counts experience itself a valuable reward. And turn to the Church for the inspiration that its worship and Bible study can provide.

Soon, like the timberman's forest, your Bible will be a friendly place of familiar trails, rich in God-given treasure. For, remember, even old hands once groped to find the Way.

Claim Scroll Of Scripture Oldest Book In World

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
Associated Press Religion Writer

Three times, the Samaritan priest repeated the words, "The oldest book in the world." His eyes shone and pride was in his voice.

Unveiled beside him was a bronze-bound scroll of parchment containing the first five books of the Old Testament, called the Torah or Pentateuch.

The scroll is the treasured possession of a tiny remnant of an odd and ancient people, the Samaritans.

Only 350 still survive, most of them in the little town of Nablus situated on a mountainside in Jordan about 40 miles north of Jerusalem.

On a visit there last month, this reporter found their menfolk busily engaged in cutting the stone to build a new school. They sat on the ground at their work, using hand chisels and mallets, the dust and chips flying.

"We have no money," the black-gowned priest said, "but plenty of stone."

"We priests do not work," he explained, his smile exposing decayed teeth. "We are of the house of Levi. The others are of the tribes of Ephraim and Manasseh, sons of Joseph."

A quaint and friendly people, they have lived for centuries in strict separation from the rest of humanity, forbidding intermarriage and religious or social mingling.

Their main problem, aside from their low economic state, is to perpetuate their kind without violating the rules against inbreeding.

Throughout their tenuous history, they have preserved the old scroll, which they claim is 3,627 years old, dating back to 1700 B.C., 13 years after the estimated death of Moses.

The British Museum has offered them $28 million for it, the priest said, and although this would turn their poverty into riches, they have refused to sell it.

"It is the only thing we have," the priest said.

The Samaritans maintain that they alone uphold the true, unalloyed teachings of Moses. They accept only the so-called mosaic books—the first five books of the Old Testament—and reject the rest of it.

They were spurned in early times by the main body of Israelites as being of impure stock.

The conflict apparently came to a head around 332 B.C. when the Samaritans built a temple on Mount Gerizim to rival the temple in Jerusalem.

The veneration of Mount Gerizim—in contrast to Mount Zion—has been the distinctive thesis of the Samaritans down through the years.

They face Mount Gerizim—not Jerusalem—when they pray. They make their seasonal pilgrimages to it, and bring their tithes to it.

Among the Samaritans, the women still wear veils.

They look for the coming of a messiah.

While their numbers are small, and their place in the world humble and precarious, their name has been immortalized in the story of the "Good Samaritan," whose heart was bigger than racial or religious conflicts.

OLD HANDS AT THIS

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . .
ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

A man who knows nothing about trees may admire a forest. But he'll never make a living in the timber business.

The Bible is like our other resources. It can fill any man with a sense of awe . . . but its rich treasures are for the earnest and patient seeker.

As you've held the Book and leafed its pages, you could almost feel its sacredness. And yet, when you began to read, perhaps it was like plodding an unfamiliar path.

Try again, today. But try with the zeal of the apprentice who counts experience itself a valuable reward. And turn to the Church for the inspiration that its worship and Bible study can provide.

Soon, like the timberman's forest, your Bible will be a friendly place of familiar trails, rich in God-given treasure. For, remember, even old hands once groped to find the Way.

Claim Scroll Of Scripture Oldest Book In World

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
Associated Press Religion Writer

Three times, the Samaritan priest repeated the words, "The oldest book in the world." His eyes shone and pride was in his voice.

Unveiled beside him was a bronze-bound scroll of parchment containing the first five books of the Old Testament, called the Torah or Pentateuch.

The scroll is the treasured possession of a tiny remnant of an odd and ancient people, the Samaritans.

Only 350 still survive, most of them in the little town of Nablus situated on a mountainside in Jordan about 40 miles north of Jerusalem.

On a visit there last month, this reporter found their menfolk busily engaged in cutting the stone to build a new school. They sat on the ground at their work, using hand chisels and mallets, the dust and chips flying.

"We have no money," the black-gowned priest said, "but plenty of stone."

"We priests do not work," he explained, his smile exposing decayed teeth. "We are of the house of Levi. The others are of the tribes of Ephraim and Manasseh, sons of Joseph."

A quaint and friendly people, they have lived for centuries in strict separation from the rest of humanity, forbidding intermarriage and religious or social mingling.

Their main problem, aside from their low economic state, is to perpetuate their kind without violating the rules against inbreeding.

Throughout their tenuous history, they have preserved the old scroll, which they claim is 3,627 years old, dating back to 1700 B.C., 13 years after the estimated death of Moses.

The British Museum has offered them $28 million for it, the priest said, and although this would turn their poverty into riches, they have refused to sell it.

"It is the only thing we have," the priest said.

The Samaritans maintain that they alone uphold the true, unalloyed teachings of Moses. They accept only the so-called mosaic books—the first five books of the Old Testament—and reject the rest of it.

They were spurned in early times by the main body of Israelites as being of impure stock.

The conflict apparently came to a head around 332 B.C. when the Samaritans built a temple on Mount Gerizim to rival the temple in Jerusalem.

The veneration of Mount Gerizim—in contrast to Mount Zion—has been the distinctive thesis of the Samaritans down through the years.

They face Mount Gerizim—not Jerusalem—when they pray. They make their seasonal pilgrimages to it, and bring their tithes to it.

Among the Samaritans, the women still wear veils.

They look for the coming of a messiah.

While their numbers are small, and their place in the world humble and precarious, their name has been immortalized in the story of the "Good Samaritan," whose heart was bigger than racial or religious conflicts.

Ann Landers . . .

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LADERS: My wife and I are stumped. We need your help. Our 15-year-old daughter is friendly with a girl we never cared for. Just as we predicted, the girl got herself in trouble and had to quit school and get married two months before her 16th birthday.

The girl is in her eight month now and she's enormous. She wears bobby socks and overalls and horses arond with the high school kids at our house. My wife and I think this is revolting. We do not fell that an expectant mother is suitable company for our 15-year-old daughter and we have told her so.

Our daughter claims that we are snobbish. She insists that so long as the girl is married there is nothing wrong with being friendly with her. Please tell us what to do. We are—STYMIED

DEAR STYMIED: You've made too big an issue of this and your daughter is using it as a weapon of rebellion. The more you attack the friendship the more she will defend it.

Keep quiet from now on. Soon your daughter will find that she has little in common with a mother who is busy with diapers and teething rings. She'll then turn to friends whose interests are similar to her own.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: MY husband and I have been friendly with a couple for 12 years. We've gone on weekend trips together and actually they are our closest friends.

The man calls my husband Clyde (which is his name) but he calls me Mrs. ——. My husband has followed his lead and he calls the other woman Mrs. ——. also.

I told my husband last night that after 12 years this Mrs. routine seems terribly formal. He says it is up to the woman to invite the gentleman to use her first name and that since neither of us had done so the Mrs. routine will probably continue.

After 12 years how does one go about making such a request? Do you feel the other woman will think I am being bold if I suddenly ask her husband to call me Josephine? Thanks for your help.

—NOT STUFFY

DEAR NOT: After 12 years I hardly think you could be considered bold if you ask a close friend to call you Josephine.

The other woman will probably be vastly relieved and will then ask your husband to call her Daisy—or whatever her mane is. And I'd say it's about time.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: During our noon hour three or four girls usually have lunch together. One girl is a fast eater. She always finishes before everyone else and immediately lights up a cigarette. This actually makes me nauseated.

I have nothing against smoking, in fact I smoke myself, but therc's something about cigarette smoke blown in my face while I'm eating that is very unappetizing.

I don't care for this girl and I have a hunch the feeling is mutual. Do you think I have the right to tell her off, or does she have the right to smoke while others are still eating?—N. S.

DEAR N. S.: Lighting up while others are still eating is rude, but I suspect you dislike the girl more than the cigarette smoke. Her personality probably irritates you and if she didn't smoke while you were eating you'd find something else to criticize.

Why don't you eat with another group?

If alcohol is robbing you or someone you love of health and dignity, send for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "Help For The Alcoholic," enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Do your words and ways obey the rules of etiquette?

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Family Etiquette, Phone Etiquette

In most social circumstances, you just KNOW the gracious thing to say or do.

When extending an invitation by telephone, for example, it is unfair to ask 'What are you doing Friday night?" or "Have you any plans for the weekend?" You are trapping—though unconsciously—the person at the other end of the line, making it impossible for her to accept or refuse graciously the plans you are about to unfold.

The more courteous way to extend an invitation is to set it forth in detail, such as: "Bob and I are having a dinner party Friday night for the Allens . . . you know they are moving to Cleveland. The Parkers will be here, and we hope you and Tom can join us too." This way you are telling the other person what the occasion is, and who else will be there (if you already know), allowing her to say "yes" or "no" without hedging.

Suppose you are introducing your husband to your own friends or relatives. Refer to him as "Phil" or "my husband." Only in business matters do you include his last name, saying "This is my husband, Mr. Riley." When introducing your husband's mother (or other relative) follow the same pattern. Say "Mrs. Carter, this is Phil's mother."

In conversation, you may disagree with someone else's statement, and be tempted to exclaim "Oh, you're wrong!" When you see the look of bewildered annoyance on the speaker's face at being countered, you'll wish you had said — less flatly and more correctly — "I could be wrong, but . . ."

If you dial a wrong number, do you apologize?

When making a personal call, do you announce yourself, as "This is Grace Hart"? Or when making a business call, do you further identify yourself, as "This is Miss Hart of Smith and Fowler"? It is a great convenience to the person who answers to know who is calling. This business message can be relayed more quickly, and the social call returned — if your friend happens to be in the midst of a task that defies interruption.

Advanced from seaman recruit to seaman apprentice were Roy M. Evans, Roy D. R. Whiteman, Edward R. Honeycutt, James A. Goebel, and Charles J. Stewart.

Moving up from seaman recruit to fireman apprentice was James W. Kline, while those going from seaman apprentice to seaman were Edward P. Batie, Jack H. Rowe Jr., and George M. Tukey.

Charles W. Robinson advanced through fleet examination from yeoman/seaman to yeoman third class.

Cdr. Calhoun also announced that the local division, which conducts drills each Wednesday evening, has openings for commissioned officers.

He said that officers with recent sea duty experience may obtain further information at the training center on McKaig's Hill.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, — Word from New York is that veteran stage producer Gilbert Miller is flirting with the idea of going into active motion picture production. This, if it comes to pass, is a big morale booster for our town. Always associated with the finest of Broadway presentations, it is safe to assume Gilbert plans the same for his films.

I hear his plans are so far along that while he hasn't yet selected a screen story, he has his feminine star picked out. She is the Italian beauty Rossana Schiaffini, currently making "Two Weeks In Another Town" with Kirk Douglas at MGM.

The marriage of Jerry Ohrbach, attractive head of the Ohrbach Stores, to pretty blonde Ingrid Goude, Miss Sweden in the Miss Universe contest a few years ago, will take place possibly in March.

I telephoned Jerry who is in New York, and at first he didn't want anything said about his upcoming marriage, because he said anything could happen. But he finally gave in and told me: "Go ahead and print it, just so you don't make too much out of it."

Jerry's been in New York for some time, and the party he had planned at Christmas time was called off because of his mother's serious illness. She is better now, he said.

Perle Mesta, who voted Republican in the last presidential election, telephoned to say au revoir, and to tell me she's back with the Democrats.

"I was never really out!" she said. "Now I am going to Washington to attend the Democratic dinner to be held Jan. 20.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

Eddie Cantor will be a grandfather again. His daughter Marilyn, married to Michael Baker, is expecting a baby.

The agents of Cliff Robertson are so furious with him for flying in a one motor plane to the air show in Phoenix, Arix., that they tried to get an injunction to stop him.

There hasn't been a film version of "Peter Pan" since Walt Disney made it in 1953. But now British star Peter Sellers is bringing it back and he'll play Captain Hank. He hopes to have Hayley Mills as Wendy.

Peggy Lee, who has been very sick, was cheered by the invitation to do her act at the Democratic dinner in Washington on Jan. 20. She doesn't know yet if her doctor will give her permission to travel.

Richard Gully, who has done such an outstanding job for Romanoff's as public relations man, parted company with Mike after objecting to the obscure seat the maitre d' gave a newspaper woman.

Marge Durante tells me that Jimmy is so crazy about baby Cecilia that when she cries at night he picks her up and walks the floor. That's a picture I'd like to see. And by the way, wasn't Jimmy wonderful on the Ed Sullivan show!

The tall young man lunching with Vincent Price at the Vine Street Derby was his son. In the next booth, Duke Wayne and his son Pat were having lunch.

If Martha Raye and Joe E. Lewis ever did the twist they put on at the Slate Brothers, as part of an act, they'd do a sell-out business.

The Jay Flippens celebrated their 15th wedding anniversary at Chasen's. They were seated at the same table, and served by the same waiters who took care of them on their first anniversary. "The only thing different," said Ruth (Mrs. F.), "is that we are older and the prices are higher."

Congratulations to Dorothy and Bill Pierce, who are celebrating their 25th wedding anniversary.

Woman To Woman

By PATRICIA McCORMACK

NEW YORK (UPI) —Do you believe that there is one chance in 20 that there will be a nuclear war within the next 20 years?

If you answer "Yes" — do you believe schools should prepare students for that eventuality?

The questions were put to a sampling of the nation's school administrators by "The Nation's Schools," a journal for educators.

Sixty-nine per cent of the educators polled said there is a "chance" of nuclear war. Most holding this opinion noted that the schools ought to prepare students for the worst.

Among the 29 per cent who saw no chance of a nuclear war was a Maine superintendent who said —"It is unthinkable."

"Poison gas presented the same problem several decades past, but because it meant destruction, it was avoided," said a Washington state superintendent. He can't see a nuclear war in 20 years either.

A Delaware respondent noting that there is a chance of nuclear war, broke down the needed preparations this way:

—Personal safety, fallout shelters and first aid.

—Public needs in the area of communication and continuation of essential services.

—Long - range survival techniques, including individual instruction for survival.

To a Pennsylvania school superintendent the school's responsibility should involve "a method of evacuating students to their homes or community shelters, since the schools could not take care of all the children over a long period of time."

A Texan pleaded for some good, factural, non - hysterical information for protection against fallout and contamination.

Science courses were designated as the place in the curriculum for informing students about what to do in case of nuclear war. Physical education and health education were other suggested means.

A Wisconsin superintendent, however, suggested schools keep "hands off" in the matter of preparation.

"I believe," he said, "that the military could do a much better job of preparing our young people in this area."

Board Gets Request For Road Repairs

A petition signed by 70 residents of the Charlestown section of Lonaconing was received by the Allegany County Board of Commissioners requesting that a road hazard be eliminated.

It was stated that a roadway known as the Reservoir Road and leading to the old Phillips and Sloan farms has a sharp drop along one side and this poses a danger to cars and school buses and large trucks.

Commissioner John J. Rowan said that he recently inspected this road and a guard rail will be installed as soon as the frost leaves the ground.

Ann Landers . . .

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LADERS: My wife and I are stumped. We need your help. Our 15-year-old daughter is friendly with a girl we never cared for. Just as we predicted, the girl got herself in trouble and had to quit school and get married two months before her 16th birthday.

The girl is in her eight month now and she's enormous. She wears bobby socks and overalls and horses arond with the high school kids at our house. My wife and I think this is revolting. We do not fell that an expectant mother is suitable company for our 15-year-old daughter and we have told her so.

Our daughter claims that we are snobbish. She insists that so long as the girl is married there is nothing wrong with being friendly with her. Please tell us what to do. We are—STYMIED

DEAR STYMIED: You've made too big an issue of this and your daughter is using it as a weapon of rebellion. The more you attack the friendship the more she will defend it.

Keep quiet from now on. Soon your daughter will find that she has little in common with a mother who is busy with diapers and teething rings. She'll then turn to friends whose interests are similar to her own.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: MY husband and I have been friendly with a couple for 12 years. We've gone on weekend trips together and actually they are our closest friends.

The man calls my husband Clyde (which is his name) but he calls me Mrs. ——. My husband has followed his lead and he calls the other woman Mrs. ——. also. I told my husband last night that after 12 years this Mrs. routine seems terribly formal. He says it is up to the woman to invite the gentleman to use her first name and that since neither of us had done so the Mrs. routine will probably continue.

After 12 years how does one go about making such a request? Do you feel the other woman will think I am being bold if I suddenly ask her husband to call me Josephine? Thanks for your help. —NOT STUFFY

DEAR NOT: After 12 years I hardly think you could be considered bold if you ask a close friend to call you Josephine.

The other woman will probably be vastly relieved and will then ask your husband to call her Daisy—or whatever her mane is. And I'd say it's about time.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: During our noon hour three or four girls usually have lunch together. One girl is a fast eater. She always finishes before everyone else and immediately lights up a cigarette. This actually makes me nauseated.

I have nothing against smoking, in fact I smoke myself, but there's something about cigarette smoke blown in my face while I'm eating that is very unappetizing.

I don't care for this girl and I have a hunch the feeling is mutual. Do you think I have the right to tell her off, or does she have the right to smoke while others are still eating?—N. S.

DEAR N. S.: Lighting up while others are still eating is rude, but I suspect you dislike the girl more than the cigarette smoke. Her personality probably irritates you and if she didn't smoke while you were eating you'd find something else to criticize.

Why don't you eat with another group?

If alcohol is robbing you or someone you love of health and dignity, send for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "Help For The Alcoholic," enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Do your words and ways obey the rules of etiquette?

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Family Etiquette, Phone Etiquette

In most social circumstances, you just KNOW the gracious thing to say or do.

When extending an invitation by telephone, for example, it is unfair to ask 'What are you doing Friday night?" or "Have you any plans for the weekend?" You are trapping—though unconsciously—the person at the other end of the line, making it impossible for her to accept or refuse graciously the plans you are about to unfold.

The more courteous way to extend an invitation is to set it forth in detail, such as: "Bob and I are having a dinner party Friday night for the Allens . . . you know they are moving to Cleveland. The Parkers will be here, and we hope you and Tom can join us too." This way you are telling the other person what the occasion is, and who else will be there (if you already know), allowing her to say "yes" or "no" without hedging.

Suppose you are introducing your husband to your own friends or relatives. Refer to him as "Phil" or "my husband." Only in business matters do you include his last name, saying "This is my husband, Mr. Riley." When introducing your husband's mother (or other relative) follow the same pattern. Say "Mrs. Carter, this is Phil's mother."

In conversation, you may disagree with someone else's statement, and be tempted to exclaim "Oh, you're wrong!" When you see the look of bewildered annoyance on the speaker's face at being countered, you'll wish you had said — less flatly and more correctly — "I could be wrong, but . . ."

If you dial a wrong number, do you apologize?

When making a personal call, do you announce yourself, as "This is Grace Hart"? Or when making a business call, do you further identify yourself, as "This is Miss Hart of Smith and Fowler"? It is a great convenience to the person who answers to know who is calling. This business message can be relayed more quickly, and the social call returned — if your friend happens to be in the midst of a task that defies interruption.

The Other Side Of The U.N. Coin

The Sixteenth Session of the United Nations General Assembly, as a British statesman put it just before the Christmas recess, "started tragically and ended on a note of sadness." The references were to the death of Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold and the Indian extirpation of Goa and two other Portuguese enclaves by military force.

But the session, which resumes on Monday, can hardly be considered a complete failure. Teetering on the brink of bankruptcy for several months, the U.N. was assured of at least another year of solvency by the General Assembly's authorization of a $200 million bond issue, half of which the U.S. will take up, with the reluctant support of Great Britain. An $80 million appropriation will cover a further eight months' expenditure in the Congo.

When the session began the U.N. had 99 members. It now has 104, a development which may not be entirely on the plus side. But as the London Economist put it, even though half the General Assembly's seats now are occupied by Afro-Asian delegates, the record shows that they have not "cast all political sense aside."

The two big issues remaining on the agenda are Portuguese Angola and the uncertain future of Belgian-ruled Ruanda Urundi. Action on these will give some clues to the direction the Assembly is likely to take in the future.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

How To Write A Speech

Sherman Adams, in his book, "First Hand Report," tells how he went about preparing a speech for President Eisenhower. It is said that a President has too little time to write his own speeches, that he hires men who lay down the policies of state for him. It seems a very wasteful effort, for if a man really has something to say, he ought to be able to say it. As an example, he shows how a speech was prepared on agriculture:

"I told Hall that I would see what I could do, and immediately summoned the indispensable Hauge and a few experts from the Department of Agriculture to see if we could work out a plan for a speech. In this instance we agreed to steer clear of any partisan approach and work in a world peace theme stressing the contribution of the American farmer. A few days later we met again to study the first draft of the writing and decided that the slant was right but it needed better brushwork and stronger treatment. So it was agreed that I should call a farm expert in Des Moines and ask him to come and help."

Then comes this shocking paragraph:

> "In preparations like this, Eisenhower would not know about the plans in progress. Indeed, until an acceptable working draft had been prepared and tentative plans drawn up by myself and the staff, he would not want to know. I found early in the game that Eisenhower expected anyone who proposed a speech to him to have the reasons for making it thoroughly thought out, a draft on paper and the trip phased into his calendar so that it did not disturb other commitments. 'What is it that needs to be said?' Eisenhower would say. 'I am not going out there just to listen to my tongue clatter!'

Hall and I and the rest of the staff learned that we had to have a finished draft in shape and in the President's hands at least two weeks before it was to be delivered so that he could put it into his desk drawer and brood over it at his leisure. The preparation usually meant days, sometimes weeks, of staff work.

Since, in the meantime, anything could happen to change the picture, we learned to keep our own counsel until we had plans in apple-pie order. Then Hall and I, probably with Persons and Hauge, would tell Tom Stephens that we wanted fifteen uninterrupted minutes with the President. Before such a conference took place, Hall, Persons and I would decide who was going to carry the argument. If I was chosen to take the responsibility for the project I would start out by telling Eisenhower the purpose of our appointment and ask Hall, in the example I have cited, to sum up quickly the state of affairs in the farm belt."

So, we come to the moment when Eisenhower actually sees the speech. This is the way Sherman Adams described it:

"Eisenhower would glance at the speech, read a few lines, and ask a question or two about the reasons why Hall had reported such distress with the Benson farm program. 'I don't believe for a minute the farmer wants the government to be his boss,' Eisenhower would say, tossing the draft into his desk drawer. I knew the discussion was over and that the President wanted to mull it over.

> A few days later, the President would call Hauge or myself into his office. The speech would be on his desk. 'This moves along pretty well,' he would say, handing back the draft, 'but it seems to labor too much in trying to meet a lot of picayune criticism. After all the farmer wants to understand his role in America and in the world today. A farmer is like any other American. When he understands his responsibilities he will meet them as well or better than any other citizen. Can't we get the feel of that more into it?'

"That would mean more hours of brain-racking and writing by Hauge. Finally, Eisenhower would sit down at his desk alone and think about what he wanted to say, marking up the revised draft himself and dictating to Ann Whitman the changes he was making."

Put together, one can only say that these speeches were written by committees. I do not know how President Kennedy prepares his speeches, but I have watched Herbert Hoover do it. He writes the first draft with a yellow pencil on yellow legal paper. The speech is then typed, revised by Hoover and sent ot a printer to be set. When it comes back from the printer, Hoover sends copies to friends and experts who make suggestions. He then sends a revised copy to the printer. This may go on five or six times. But he always wrote his own from beginning to end.

Confessions Of Bernard Goldfine's Secretary Closely Guarded Secret

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — The confessions of Miss Mildred Paperman, secretary of the vicuna coat-giving Bernard Goldfine, have been kept closer to Bobby Kennedy's chest than his undershirt. The Attorney General has had a battery of FBI agents checking Miss Paperman's statement, and a couple of dozen Internal Revenue agents have been summoned to Boston from various other areas to work on the case.

What they are probing is whether Miss Paperman is correct that various political bigwigs received money from Goldfine and whether they filed these gifts as income.

One of those being secrutinized is Sherman Adams, former "imprudent" assistant to President Eisenhower, who, according to Miss Paperman, received considerably more than vicuna coat, a rug, and free hotel accomodations at Boston's Sheraton Plaza Hotel. Agents have also been probing reported income to the relatives of ex-Gov. Foster Furcola, Massachusetts Democrat; the late Sen. Styles Bridges; and Sen. Norris Cotton, attorney for Goldfine.

This column, checking on the manner in which the Boston industrialist placed his money with people where it would count, interviewed John B. Powers, Democratic bigwig in the Massachusetts legislature. According to the Paperman statement, he had received funds from Goldfine through the Kirby Advertising Agency.

Frank Political Boss

Joseph Kirby, head of the ad agency, said he had been directed by government investigators not to discuss any payments. Powers, however, was more frank. He told Jack Anderson, who went to Boston to check the matter, that Goldfine had contributed $11,900 to his 1955 campaign for mayor and that it was handled by the Kirby Agency. The money, he said, was for legitimate campaign expenses.

Powers also admitted that he had received money from Goldfine during his 1959 campaign for mayor, but the money was received direct, not through the Kirby agency.

Powers did not want to go into details on how the money was used, but insisted it had all been spent on campaign expenses, though he said he had made no accounting of it.

"He would occasionally give you $1,000 or $2,000," said Powers. "He gave it to you. If you lost, it was just one of those things."

The money came directly from Goldfine, not Miss Paperman.

"She never gave me 14 cents in her life," said the Democratic boss of the Massachusetts legislature.

Powers explained that the loser in the Boston mayoralty race doesn't have to file his campaign contributions and expenses.

"There is no violation to the loser," he said.

No Dough For Hynes

John Hynes, long-time mayor of Boston, was quite emphatic that he received no money from Goldfine.

"He always wanted to give me the contribution after the election but never before," Hynes told Anderson. "He would meet you some place. He went to every affair in the city. He would meet you and offer a contribution to help your deficit. But I never wanted to get in that position.

"He would send Christmas gifts no matter what you told him," said Hynes.

Then he added: "I never would see Goldfine alone. I was always a little bit wary of seeing him in my office alone."

Featured in the controversial activities of the gift-giving Goldfine was the construction of a garage under Boston Commons. Ex-Mayor Hynes said that he had collected $35,000 penalty payment from Goldfine on behalf of the city for failing to finish the work on time.

Dr. Charles Furcolo, father of the ex-Governor of Massachusetts, a Democrat, was reported to have received $14,000 of Goldfine money for his son. The senior Furcolo admitted he had received funds from Goldfine, but insisted it wasn't as much as $14,000. The doctor swore he received the money for setting up a welfare-and-health plan for Goldfine's companies.

He also insisted that he had endorsed none of the money over to his son, the governor, and had reported all of it to internal revenue. He asknowledged that revenue agents had asked him about it a couple of years ago.

"Whatever I received was for that purpose," he said, referring to the welfare plan.

Dr. Furcolo was most anxious to get off the phone.

This is part—but only part—of the interesting record of the man who once kept President Eisenhower waiting to fill an appointment Sherman Adams had arranged for him and who at one time was able to walk into government offices almost as if he belonged there.

Just what Attorney General Kennedy will do with the hot Paperman memorandum remains to be seen.

Merry-Go-Round

Vice President Johnson gave wristwatches as Christmas presents to close friends. On the dial was printed, "do unto others as you would have them do unto you." . . . Gen. Frank Armstrong, whose heroic raids on Berlin inspired the dramatic movie "Twelve O'clock High," has moved from one extreme to the other. He was commander of the U.S. forces in Alaska, now is an official of the Automatic Merchandising Corp. in Tampa, Fla. . . . Gore Vidal, the Broadway playwright who was related by marriage to the Kennedy family, speaks of dining with his ex-inlaws as "Dining with the royal family." . . . . Sen. Harry Byrd of Virginia, the great economizer, helps to get 93 per cent of all U.S. taxes collected in Virginia back to the State of Virginia in federal grants. The average federal grant to Virginia runs around $36.29 per taxpayer. Sen. Bob Kerr of Oklahoma, who serves on the same finance committee as Byrd, tells his colleague, the great economizer, that he wishes he could do as well for Oklahoma.

JFK Fails To Win Confidence Of Businessmen

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON — Confidence is a many-sided and elusive thing An administration may readily boast of why it has won the confidence of the country, but isn't always so sure of the reasons when that same confidence is lost.

The Kennedy Administration may show up well on Gallup Polls, but the sad truth is that it has failed to win the confidence of the numerically small roster of men who operate every day the economy of the United States. They are the businessmen who must borrow money and risk capital for new plants or for the development of new markets. They are the men who are responsible for attaining profit margins that will attract investors. They are also the men whose ingenuity and planning ability result in the creation of more and more jobs.

Today the unemployment problems — according to figures just released — shows no signs of being solved. The stock market is sagging. Anxiety among businessmen is widespread. There is a prospect of another steel strike and possibly another retardation of the economy as a whole.

Why is President Kennedy not making headway on this front? He is personally cordial to businessmen and to everybody else. He is earnest and sincere. He is trying hard to make good. But when it comes to an understanding of what makes the wheels go round in business, his education as a President has not progressed far enough for him to recognice the true weakness of his own administration.

Mr. Kennedy is often torn between the conflicting viewpoints of his advisers. Most of them are alert-minded and forward-looking, and want to do everything possible to make the Kennedy Administration succeed. But they are novices in the practical field of government operations as well as in the perplexing tasks involved in getting new legislation approved by the people's representatives in Congress.

It seems startling and hard to realize, but there is not a single adviser on economic matters at the President's side, either in the cabinet or in the unofficial cabinet, who has had any experience as the actual head of a really large business.

Secretary of Defense McNamara has had a few years of such contacts, but he is not charged by the President with the responsibility for making economic policy.

The President's words in his many speeches and messages have set forth the desirable goals in eloquent fashion. But the words have become meaningless in the absence of concrete action that is based on the everyday facts of business progress.

Mr. Kennedy has failed signally on the labor-management front. It is not what he has done, but what he has failed to do, that counts.

While the President has been occupying himself largely with foreign-policy matters, he has not perceived the real reason why the challenge of the common market in Europe can wind up in a big failure for the American economy. The reason is simple — the chaos on the labor-management front in America. Bernard Baruch, in a book he wrote a few years ago called "Public Affairs," describes trenchantly the wage-price spiral as follows:

"By abusing its powers, labor injures not only itself but the whole country. While it is the proper concern of union leaders to improve the lot of their followers, they must recognize that their demands must be economically justified. If wage and other demands are not acompanied by increasing productivity, inevitably prices will be driven out of reach, and foreign competition encouraged, to the detriment of the entire economy. American workers will wind up as the highest-paid unemployed workers in the world.

"At present we are already feeling the pinch resulting from the influx of foreign cars, steel, and other products. Unless labor leaders recognize this threat, they may well wind up 'unionizing' unemployment."

Mr. Kennedy has failed also in the matter of tax reform and especially in planning that would stimulate an increased volume of business out of which the government could derive more and more tax receipts. He has failed, moreover, to furnish a comprehensive plan of how he is going to deal with the businesses that would be injured by low tariffs. All this adds up finally to a loss of confidence.

Much of the difficulty is the fact that half-baked plans are launched without being thought through. The proposal to lower tariffs has many champions, even among businessmen, but this doesn't solve the problems of those who are going to be hurt by such action. Likewise, when the Administration is reported to be planning to ask Congress for power to raise or lower taxes at will, there is little thought given to the psychological damage such a proposal can do to public confidence.

Only the President can restore the confidence he has lost. If he fails to win it, then the election next Autumn of another political party to the majority position in Congress would not be surprising. For Mr. Kennedy's leadership or lack of it is bound to be the issue in November, particularly because the economic apparatus which was expected to boom this year isn't getting off dead center as yet. Meanwhile, the stock market, as a forecaster of events to gloomy view of the future. It certainly is a time for some experienced and broad-visioned businessmen to be summoned to help steer the ship of state.

Inside Washington

By Henry Cathcart

LOBBYISTS — Lobbyists in Washington are often termed the "third branch of Congress." And judging by their numbers and varying activities it doesn't appear to be an understatement.

Under law, individuals and organization frankly in the business of influencing legislation must register with the clerk of the House of Representatives and the secretary of the Senate. Last year nearly 350 of them did, an increase of more than 100 over 1960.

Some of the lobbyists are in Washington permanently. They represent all sorts of groups: labor, management, farmers, political parties—almost anything you can think of. Others come to Washington to deal with a specific legislative situation and disappear once it has been resolved.

The reason generally given for the large increase in their numbers last year is President Kennedy's political victory. This brought changes in government concepts, new emphasis on certain programs, particularly medical care for the aged, and changes in top government personnel requiring a greater degree of lobbying activity.

While the word "lobbyist" has fallen into disrepute, many of them serve a legal and honorable function — acquainting legislators with details of specific legislation, particularly from the view of the industry or group they represent.

While the word is often used derisively, lobbyists are notably tough-skinned. On one occasion, one of them was faced with harsh charges of using his influence unethically. He drew himself up to his full height and replied haughtily, but with a gleam in his eye: "I'm no lobbyist, sir. I'm a legislative engineer."

Pinworms Overrated As Disease Producers

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

We have battled pinworms for three years off and on, but the results of the program of cleanliness, carefulness, and medicine seems to last only a month or so in eliminating these pests. My poor children suffer in that I won't allow them in each other's beds or let them invite friends to stay overnight. I nag them constantly to wash their hands and also wash fruits and vegetables.

"I realize cleanliness is good practice at any time but I do get a little ridiculous about it. My children are not living a normal life and I worry constantly over the problem. I have been told many people have pinworms without knowing it." So writes a distracted mother.

Forget the pinworms and concentrate on the physical and emotional needs of your family. Children are more important than these parasites, which are the least serious of all internal worms. Many reputable authorities are convinced these critters are overrated as disease producers and rarely cause symptoms execept for itching.

Consider your problem in its true prospective. You have some insight because you realize that you are being ridiculous about the matter. Some mothers assume an abnormal attitude toward an infestation and make life miserable for all concerned. They are driven by a compulsion to eliminate every egg and worm from the premises. When the house is finally free of worms, it may no longer be a home.

Cleanliness programs are ineffective, no matter how well they are carried out, unless all members of the family, including adults, are treated for pinworms. There are many good remedies. One of the latest, Pripsen, is said to combat pinworms after a single dose. Meanwhile, be reasonable in your efforts and don't take life too seriously.

(Dr. Van Dellen will send leaflet on pinworms if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request.)

RETIRED AND TIRED

S. G. writes: I'm 58 and retired. Moved from Chicago to Florida. Have been tired constantly since coming down here. Do you think it's the climate?

REPLY

No. Boredom, unhappiness, no goals, and being a nobody are the most common psychological causes of fatigue. As a rule, the Florida climate does something for older people; they are invigorated and feel much better. Perhaps your weariness is caused by the same factors that made you retire at 58.

WILLING ONE'S BODY

G. L. W. writes: A few months ago I attempted to will my remains to a medical school and was told this could be done only by the next of kin at the time of death. Please discuss this question.

REPLY

Twenty-four states recognize a will of this type. I suggest that you contact a medical school or a local memorial association for details.

BASAL CELL CANCER

G. E. C. writes: Will removing a basal cell cancer on the nose cause it to spread?

REPLY

No. The object of removal is to eliminate the skin cancer so it won't spread.

X-RAYS AND EMPHYSEMA

W. E. H. writes: Will a mobile chest X-ray show emphysema?

REPLY

Severe emphysema, yes, but not the mild type. The regular, large size chest films show more of the details needed to make this diagnosis.

To the limit of space questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

Try And Stop Me

A great motion picture star, fond of referring to himself as a biblipohile, died a short while ago. His beneficiaries, smacking their lips over beautiful leather-bound editions of Shaw, Joyce, Hemingway, Faulkner, etc., expected to realize a tidy sum from their disposal. A Los Angeles bookman examined the collection carefully last month. Sixty-two of the costliest bindings encased copies of "The Life of Alfred M. Landon."

"Grant a man the Godsent taste for books — and the means of gratifying it," wrote Sir John Hershchel back in 1833, "and you can hardly fail to make him a very happy man. You place him in contact with the best society in every period of history, with the wisest and wittiest, the tenderest and bravest who have adorned humanity. You make him a denizen of all nations, a contemporary of all ages."

'I Love Revues...'

By John Crosby

I love revues and I'm happy to see the intimate revue form taking root again in the cabarets and off-Broadway. Another great enthusiast for the revue is Ben Bagley, who produced the "Shoe String Revue" in 1955 and "The Littlest Revue" in 1956 and in 1957 another "Shoe String Revue," bringing along such now established people as Dody Goodman, Chita Rivera, Tammy Grimes, and Bea Arthur in the process. In these revues, Charles Strouse, and Lee Adams, lyricist and composer of "Bye Bye Birdie," and Mike Stuart, composer and lyricist of "Carnival," also cut their eye-teeth.

Bagley is now back working on a new "Shoe String" and the other day he talked about the art of the revue as he felt it: "When you do a revue, it should be in a small theater," he stated flatly. "There's more contact with the audience. I wish we had the setup here they have in London, where they have small theaters in the West End specifically for small revues.

"My revues didn't deal with world problems. They dealth with personalities — many of whom are responsible for the world problems. I don't like world problems thrown at me when I'm in the audience; it depresses me. A revue should be more than four or five or six people coming out and singing. A revue should have dancing and attractive women, scenery, costumes. It should be pleasant and pretty and it should have a certain amount of sex. It depresses me when so many of the girls are covered up with high necklines and long gloves. Sin should be not just saucy but impudent. Satire should be done in a hokey and high comedy way.

"A revue should be the most exciting thing in the world. I wouldn't call The Premise or Second City or Julie Monk's Upstairs at the Downstairs revues. Many of them are beautifully performed, but they're just not revues."

Bagley feels that television has done a lot of excellent revues. (In fact, some say that television killed revue on Broadway because TV can get there fustest with the mostest money.) "People often talk about how bad television is — but I don't agree. At least three or four times a week I see something worthwhile. They've done marvellous revues. The Art Carney shows. 'Four for Tonight.' I love Ernie Kovacs. He is the only man who has used TV the way it should be used. What a mind!

"But that kind of television has increased the sophistication of the people in Omaha. I have loved revues all my life. I love the whole idea of being impudent and doing satire on other shows. But the satire should never be obvious. You don't have to hit people over the head.

"A revue is many things to me. You get to know people in your audience and by the end of the evening, they know you. That's why it's almost mandatory to play revue in small theaters. But there should be make believe involved, too—because that's what is exciting about the theater."

Like a good many folk both in and out of show business, Bagley is increasingly discontented with off-Broadway. "Off-Broadway has got enormous since I've been away and I'm very much against what's been going on down there. Practically everyone who can raise a little money can get on the boards. People go to see the good things and they get discouraged and don't go back when so often all they find is a kind of vanity theater. Too many performers off-Broadway are getting opportunities before they're ready.

"I wouldn't do a show down there, because I'm not after that kind of audience. Also the critics have gone down there so often. I think the critics are getting disillusioned with the way people often throw a show together because Poppa has a little money."

Bagley has formed his own recording company which has just turned out an album of old Rodgers and Hart tunes, some of which have never been recorded. "The sheet music to many of these songs is out of print," he explained. "But these are beautiful songs and I felt they should be heard." The album is called "Rodgers and Hart Revisited" and on it Dorothy Loudon, Danny Meehan, Charlotte Rae and Cy Young sing fifteen obscure songs, some of which even avid Rodgers and Hart fans never heard of.

The Other Side Of The U.N. Coin

The Sixteenth Session of the United Nations General Assembly, as a British statesman put it just before the Christmas recess, "started tragically and ended on a note of sadness." The references were to the death of Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold and the Indian extirpation of Goa and two other Portuguese enclaves by military force.

But the session, which resumes on Monday, can hardly be considered a complete failure. Teetering on the brink of bankruptcy for several months, the U.N. was assured of at least another year of solvency by the General Assembly's authorization of a $200 million bond issue, half of which the U.S. will take up, with the reluctant support of Great Britain. An $80 million appropriation will cover a further eight months' expenditure in the Congo.

When the session began the U.N. had 99 members. It now has 104, a development which may not be entirely on the plus side. But as the London Economist put it, even though half the General Assembly's seats now are occupied by Afro-Asian delegates, the record shows that they have not "cast all political sense aside."

The two big issues remaining on the agenda are Portuguese Angola and the uncertain future of Belgian-ruled Ruanda Urundi. Action on these will give some clues to the direction the Assembly is likely to take in the future.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

How To Write A Speech

Sherman Adams, in his book, "First Hand Report," tells how he went about preparing a speech for President Eisenhower. It is said that a President has too little time to write his own speeches, that he hires men who lay down the policies of state for him. It seems a very wasteful effort, for if a man really has something to say, he ought to be able to say it. As an example, he shows how a speech was prepared on agriculture:

"I told Hall that I would see what I could do, and immediately summoned the indispensable Hauge and a few experts from the Department of Agriculture to see if we could work out a plan for a speech. In this instance we agreed to steer clear of any partisan approach and work in a world peace theme stressing the contribution of the American farmer. A few days later we met again to study the first draft of the writing and decided that the slant was right but it needed better brushwork and stronger treatment. So it was agreed that I should call a farm expert in Des Moines and ask him to come and help."

Then comes this shocking paragraph:

> "In preparations like this, Eisenhower would not know about the plans in progress. Indeed, until an acceptable working draft had been prepared and tentative plans drawn up by myself and the staff, he would not want to know. I found early in the game that Eisenhower expected anyone who proposed a speech to him to have the reasons for making it thoroughly thought out, a draft on paper and the trip phased into his calendar so that it did not disturb other commitments. 'What is it that needs to be said?' Eisenhower would say. 'I am not going out there just to listen to my tongue clatter!'

Hall and I and the rest of the staff learned that we had to have a finished draft in shape and in the President's hands at least two weeks before it was to be delivered so that he could put it into his desk drawer and brood over it at his leisure. The preparation usually meant days, sometimes weeks, of staff work.

Since, in the meantime, anything could happen to change the picture, we learned to keep our own counsel until we had plans in apple-pie order. Then Hall and I, probably with Persons and Hauge, would tell Tom Stephens that we wanted fifteen uninterrupted minutes with the President. Before such a conference took place, Hall, Persons and I would decide who was going to carry the argument. If I was chosen to take the responsibility for the project I would start out by telling Eisenhower the purpose of our appointment and ask Hall, in the example I have cited, to sum up quickly the state of affairs in the farm belt."

So, we come to the moment when Eisenhower actually sees the speech. This is the way Sherman Adams described it:

"Eisenhower would glance at the speech, read a few lines, and ask a question or two about the reasons why Hall had reported such distress with the Benson farm program. 'I don't believe for a minute the farmer wants the government to be his boss,' Eisenhower would say, tossing the draft into his desk drawer. I knew the discussion was over and that the President wanted to mull it over.

> A few days later, the President would call Hauge or myself into his office. The speech would be on his desk. 'This moves along pretty well,' he would say, handing back the draft, 'but it seems to labor too much in trying to meet a lot of picayune criticism. After all the farmer wants to understand his role in America and in the world today. A farmer is like any other American. When he understands his responsibilities he will meet them as well or better than any other citizen. Can't we get the feel of that more into it?'

"That would mean more hours of brain-racking and writing by Hauge. Finally, Eisenhower would sit down at his desk alone and think about what he wanted to say, marking up the revised draft himself and dictating to Ann Whitman the changes he was making."

Put together, one can only say that these speeches were written by committees. I do not know how President Kennedy prepares his speeches, but I have watched Herbert Hoover do it. He writes the first draft with a yellow pencil on yellow legal paper. The speech is then typed, revised by Hoover and sent ot a printer to be set. When it comes back from the printer, Hoover sends copies to friends and experts who make suggestions. He then sends a revised copy to the printer. This may go on five or six times. But he always wrote his own from beginning to end.

Confessions Of Bernard Goldfine's Secretary Closely Guarded Secret

Featured in the controversial activities of the gift-giving Goldfine was the construction of a garage under Boston Commons. Ex-Mayor Hynes said that he had collected $35,000 penalty payment from Goldfine on behalf of the city for failing to finish the work on time.

Dr. Charles Furcolo, father of the ex-Governor of Massachusetts, a Democrat, was reported to have received $14,000 of Goldfine money for his son. The senior Furcolo admitted he had received funds from Goldfine, but insisted it wasn't as much as $14,000. The doctor swore he received the money for setting up a welfare-and-health plan for Goldfine's companies.

He also insisted that he had endorsed none of the money over to his son, the governor, and had reported all of it to internal revenue. He asknowledged that revenue agents had asked him about it a couple of years ago.

"Whatever I received was for that purpose," he said, referring to the welfare plan.

Dr. Furcolo was most anxious to get off the phone.

This is part—but only part—of the interesting record of the man who once kept President Eisenhower waiting to fill an appointment Sherman Adams had arranged for him and who at one time was able to walk into government offices almost as if he belonged there.

Just what Attorney General Kennedy will do with the hot Paperman memorandum remains to be seen.

Vice President Johnson gave wristwatches as Christmas presents to close friends. On the dial was printed, "do unto others as you would have them do unto you." . . . Gen. Frank Armstrong, whose heroic raids on Berlin inspired the dramatic movie "Twelve O'clock High," has moved from one extreme to the other. He was commander of the U.S. forces in Alaska, now is an official of the Automatic Merchandising Corp. in Tampa, Fla. . . . Gore Vidal, the Broadway playwright who was related by marriage to the Kennedy family, speaks of dining with his ex-inlaws as "Dining with the royal family." . . . . Sen. Harry Byrd of Virginia, the great economizer, helps to get 93 per cent of all U.S. taxes collected in Virginia back to the State of Virginia in federal grants. JFK Fails To Win Confidence Of Businessmen

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON — Confidence is a many-sided and elusive thing An administration may readily boast of why it has won the confidence of the country, but isn't always so sure of the reasons when that same confidence is lost.

The Kennedy Administration may show up well on Gallup Polls, but the sad truth is that it has failed to win the confidence of the numerically small roster of men who operate every day the economy of the United States. They are the businessmen who must borrow money and risk capital for new plants or for the development of new markets. They are the men who are responsible for attaining profit margins that will attract investors. They are also the men whose ingenuity and planning ability result in the creation of more and more jobs.

Today the unemployment problems — according to figures just released — shows no signs of being solved. The stock market is sagging. Anxiety among businessmen is widespread. There is a prospect of another steel strike and possibly another retardation of the economy as a whole.

Why is President Kennedy not making headway on this front? He is personally cordial to businessmen and to everybody else. He is earnest and sincere. He is trying hard to make good. But when it comes to an understanding of what makes the wheels go round in business, his education as a President has not progressed far enough for him to recognice the true weakness of his own administration.

Mr. Kennedy is often torn between the conflicting viewpoints of his advisers. Most of them are alert-minded and forward-looking, and want to do everything possible to make the Kennedy Administration succeed. But they are novices in the practical field of government operations as well as in the perplexing tasks involved in getting new legislation approved by the people's representatives in Congress.

It seems startling and hard to realize, but there is not a single adviser on economic matters at the President's side, either in the cabinet or in the unofficial cabinet, who has had any experience as the actual head of a really large business.

Secretary of Defense McNamara has had a few years of such contacts, but he is not charged by the President with the responsibility for making economic policy.

The President's words in his many speeches and messages have set forth the desirable goals in eloquent fashion. But the words have become meaningless in the absence of concrete action that is based on the everyday facts of business progress.

Mr. Kennedy has failed signally on the labor-management front. It is not what he has done, but what he has failed to do, that counts.

While the President has been occupying himself largely with foreign-policy matters, he has not perceived the real reason why the challenge of the common market in Europe can wind up in a big failure for the American economy. The reason is simple — the chaos on the labor-management front in America. Bernard Baruch, in a book he wrote a few years ago called "Public Affairs," describes trenchantly the wage-price spiral as follows:

"By abusing its powers, labor injures not only itself but the whole country. While it is the proper concern of union leaders to improve the lot of their followers, they must recognize that their demands must be economically justified. If wage and other demands are not acompanied by increasing productivity, inevitably prices will be driven out of reach, and foreign competition encouraged, to the detriment of the entire economy. American workers will wind up as the highest-paid unemployed workers in the world.

"At present we are already feeling the pinch resulting from the influx of foreign cars, steel, and other products. Unless labor leaders recognize this threat, they may well wind up 'unionizing' unemployment."

Mr. Kennedy has failed also in the matter of tax reform and especially in planning that would stimulate an increased volume of business out of which the government could derive more and more tax receipts. He has failed, moreover, to furnish a comprehensive plan of how he is going to deal with the businesses that would be injured by low tariffs. All this adds up finally to a loss of confidence.

Much of the difficulty is the fact that half-baked plans are launched without being thought through. The proposal to lower tariffs has many champions, even among businessmen, but this doesn't solve the problems of those who are going to be hurt by such action. Likewise, when the Administration is reported to be planning to ask Congress for power to raise or lower taxes at will, there is little thought given to the psychological damage such a proposal can do to public confidence.

Only the President can restore the confidence he has lost. If he fails to win it, then the election next Autumn of another political party to the majority position in Congress would not be surprising. For Mr. Kennedy's leadership or lack of it is bound to be the issue in November, particularly because the economic apparatus which was expected to boom this year isn't getting off dead center as yet. Meanwhile, the stock market, as a forecaster of events to gloomy view of the future. It certainly is a time for some experienced and broad-visioned businessmen to be summoned to help steer the ship of state.

Inside Washington

By Henry Cathcart

LOBBYISTS — Lobbyists in Washington are often termed the "third branch of Congress." And judging by their numbers and varying activities it doesn't appear to be an understatement.

Under law, individuals and organization frankly in the business of influencing legislation must register with the clerk of the House of Representatives and the secretary of the Senate. Last year nearly 350 of them did, an increase of more than 100 over 1960.

Some of the lobbyists are in Washington permanently. They represent all sorts of groups: labor, management, farmers, political parties—almost anything you can think of. Others come to Washington to deal with a specific legislative situation and disappear once it has been resolved.

The reason generally given for the large increase in their numbers last year is President Kennedy's political victory. This brought changes in government concepts, new emphasis on certain programs, particularly medical care for the aged, and changes in top government personnel requiring a greater degree of lobbying activity.

While the word "lobbyist" has fallen into disrepute, many of them serve a legal and honorable function — acquainting legislators with details of specific legislation, particularly from the view of the industry or group they represent.

While the word is often used derisively, lobbyists are notably tough-skinned. On one occasion, one of them was faced with harsh charges of using his influence unethically. He drew himself up to his full height and replied haughtily, but with a gleam in his eye: "I'm no lobbyist, sir. I'm a legislative engineer."

Pinworms Overrated As Disease Producers

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

We have battled pinworms for three years off and on, but the results of the program of cleanliness, carefulness, and medicine seems to last only a month or so in eliminating these pests. My poor children suffer in that I won't allow them in each other's beds or let them invite friends to stay overnight. I nag them constantly to wash their hands and also wash fruits and vegetables.

"I realize cleanliness is good practice at any time but I do get a little ridiculous about it. My children are not living a normal life and I worry constantly over the problem. I have been told many people have pinworms without knowing it." So writes a distracted mother.

Forget the pinworms and concentrate on the physical and emotional needs of your family. Children are more important than these parasites, which are the least serious of all internal worms. Many reputable authorities are convinced these critters are overrated as disease producers and rarely cause symptoms execept for itching.

Consider your problem in its true prospective. You have some insight because you realize that you are being ridiculous about the matter. Some mothers assume an abnormal attitude toward an infestation and make life miserable for all concerned. They are driven by a compulsion to eliminate every egg and worm from the premises. When the house is finally free of worms, it may no longer be a home.

Cleanliness programs are ineffective, no matter how well they are carried out, unless all members of the family, including adults, are treated for pinworms. There are many good remedies. One of the latest, Pripsen, is said to combat pinworms after a single dose. Meanwhile, be reasonable in your efforts and don't take life too seriously.

(Dr. Van Dellen will send leaflet on pinworms if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request.)

RETIRED AND TIRED

S. G. writes: I'm 58 and retired. Moved from Chicago to Florida. Have been tired constantly since coming down here. Do you think it's the climate?

REPLY

No. Boredom, unhappiness, no goals, and being a nobody are the most common psychological causes of fatigue. As a rule, the Florida climate does something for older people; they are invigorated and feel much better. Perhaps your weariness is caused by the same factors that made you retire at 58.

WILLING ONE'S BODY

G. L. W. writes: A few months ago I attempted to will my remains to a medical school and was told this could be done only by the next of kin at the time of death. Please discuss this question.

REPLY

Twenty-four states recognize a will of this type. I suggest that you contact a medical school or a local memorial association for details.

BASAL CELL CANCER

G. E. C. writes: Will removing a basal cell cancer on the nose cause it to spread?

REPLY

No. The object of removal is to eliminate the skin cancer so it won't spread.

X-RAYS AND EMPHYSEMA

W. E. H. writes: Will a mobile chest X-ray show emphysema?

REPLY

Severe emphysema, yes, but not the mild type. The regular, large size chest films show more of the details needed to make this diagnosis.

To the limit of space questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

Try And Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

A great motion picture star, fond of referring to himself as a biblipohile, died a short while ago. His beneficiaries, smacking their lips over beautiful leather-bound editions of Shaw, Joyce, Hemingway, Faulkner, etc., expected to realize a tidy sum from their disposal. A Los Angeles bookman examined the collection carefully last month. Sixty-two of the costliest bindings encased copies of "The Life of Alfred M. Landon."

"Grant a man the Godsent taste for books — and the means of gratifying it," wrote Sir John Hershchel back in 1833, "and you can hardly fail to make him a very happy man. You place him in contact with the best society in every period of history, with the wisest and wittiest, the tenderest and bravest who have adorned humanity. You make him a denizen of all nations, a contemporary of all ages."

'I Love Revues...'

By John Crosby

I love revues and I'm happy to see the intimate revue form taking root again in the cabarets and off-Broadway. Another great enthusiast for the revue is Ben Bagley, who produced the "Shoe String Revue" in 1955 and "The Littlest Revue" in 1956 and in 1957 another "Shoe String Revue," bringing along such now established people as Dody Goodman, Chita Rivera, Tammy Grimes, and Bea Arthur in the process. In these revues, Charles Strouse, and Lee Adams, lyricist and composer of "Bye Bye Birdie," and Mike Stuart, composer and lyricist of "Carnival," also cut their eye-teeth.

Bagley is now back working on a new "Shoe String" and the other day he talked about the art of the revue as he felt it: "When you do a revue, it should be in a small theater," he stated flatly. "There's more contact with the audience. I wish we had the setup here they have in London, where they have small theaters in the West End specifically for small revues.

"My revues didn't deal with world problems. They dealth with personalities — many of whom are responsible for the world problems. I don't like world problems thrown at me when I'm in the audience; it depresses me. A revue should be more than four or five or six people coming out and singing. A revue should have dancing and attractive women, scenery, costumes. It should be pleasant and pretty and it should have a certain amount of sex. It depresses me when so many of the girls are covered up with high necklines and long gloves. Sin should be not just saucy but impudent. Satire should be done in a hokey and high comedy way.

"A revue should be the most exciting thing in the world. I wouldn't call The Premise or Second City or Julie Monk's Upstairs at the Downstairs revues. Many of them are beautifully performed, but they're just not revues."

Bagley feels that television has done a lot of excellent revues. (In fact, some say that television killed revue on Broadway because TV can get there fustest with the mostest money.) "People often talk about how bad television is — but I don't agree. At least three or four times a week I see something worthwhile. They've done marvellous revues. The Art Carney shows. 'Four for Tonight.' I love Ernie Kovacs. He is the only man who has used TV the way it should be used. What a mind!

"But that kind of television has increased the sophistication of the people in Omaha. I have loved revues all my life. I love the whole idea of being impudent and doing satire on other shows. But the satire should never be obvious. You don't have to hit people over the head.

"A revue is many things to me. You get to know people in your audience and by the end of the evening, they know you. That's why it's almost mandatory to play revue in small theaters. But there should be make believe involved, too—because that's what is exciting about the theater."

Like a good many folk both in and out of show business, Bagley is increasingly discontented with off-Broadway. "Off-Broadway has got enormous since I've been away and I'm very much against what's been going on down there. Practically everyone who can raise a little money can get on the boards. People go to see the good things and they get discouraged and don't go back when so often all they find is a kind of vanity theater. Too many performers off-Broadway are getting opportunities before they're ready.

"I wouldn't do a show down there, because I'm not after that kind of audience. Also the critics have gone down there so often. I think the critics are getting disillusioned with the way people often throw a show together because Poppa has a little money."

Bagley has formed his own recording company which has just turned out an album of old Rodgers and Hart tunes, some of which have never been recorded. "The sheet music to many of these songs is out of print," he explained. "But these are beautiful songs and I felt they should be heard." The album is called "Rodgers and Hart Revisited" and on it Dorothy Loudon, Danny Meehan, Charlotte Rae and Cy Young sing fifteen obscure songs, some of which even avid Rodgers and Hart fans never heard of.

Midland Buys Property To Join Streets

Sidewalk Parking Banned In Town

MIDLAND — The town council recently approved the purchase of the Coleman property near St. Joseph's Rectory, according to Mayor Lionel D. Baker.

The property extends from Railroad Street to Broadway Street. Both Railroad and Broadways streets are closed at one end and plans call for razing the structure and opening a street to join the other two thoroughfares. The new street will be paved.

Mayor Baker said the Llewellyn apartment house is located at the end of Railroad Street and a number of families could be endangered there in case of fire or other emergency, because of the difficulty in reaching the area.

The council approved payment of $2,000 to the Cumberland Contracting Company for work done paving and grading streets.

Robert Turner reported he had collected all Christmas trees that were set out Saturday.

Council instructed Charles McGowan, town constable, to tag all cars parked on Main Street and on sidewalks. Sidewalks are being damaged by this indiscriminate parking, the mayor said.

Legislators Test Sentiment On Pipeline

West Virginians End First Week

By JERRY GOULD

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—The West Virginia Legislature wound up its first week of activity Friday and members headed home to test public sentiment on its most controversial issues—the coal-carrying pipeline and extension of the 3 per cent consumer sales tax.

Both the House and Senate held only brief sessions Friday morning, with a flurry of debate on a routine resolution authorizing payment of House attaches the only non-routine activity.

The Senate will reconvene Monday at 1 p.m. and the House an hour later.

The coal pipeline will be aired next Thursday night in a joint public hearing by the House and Senate judiciary committees.

When the lawmakers return to work on Monday, they should have a clearer idea of how the folks at home feel about measures designed to give builders of such lines — carrying a mixture of coal and water — the right to condemn private property.

Next week's hearing will be on half a dozen different pipeline bills plus a resolution calling for a year's delay in consideration of the legislation. The resolution provides for a 22-member committee to study the coal pipeline proposition and report in January, 1963.

The proposed 400-mile line from the Fairmont - Morgantown area to the east coast is considered a "must" by Gov. W. W. Barron and he is depending on the Democratic - controlled Legislature to push it through in the 30-day budget session.

On the other hand, opponents—headed by the railroads are mustering all the strength they can to meet the challenge. The railroads have said building of such lines would rob them of their coal-hauling business and cut deeply into their work force.

Extension of the sales tax headed a package of revenue bills introduced Friday.

The 3-cent levy on all sales over $1 provides about $9.5 million annually. It is scheduled to expire June 30, but the administration deems its continuation essential if it is to continue the Medical Assistance for the Aged (MAA), Emergency Employment and other programs.

The tax was boosted from 2 to 3 cents by the 1961 Legislature for a period ending last Aug. 31. It was extended nine months by a special session last June.

The other extensions, and the approximate amount they would yield, are the 6-cent-a-pack cigarette levy, $1.7 million; 3 per cent insurance premium tax, $1 million; racing tax $780,000, and consumer sales use tax, $100,000.

All of these taxes were requested by the State Board of Public Works in order that its 1962-63 budget of $141.3 million might be balanced.

Del. Nell Walker, D-Fayette, touched off a 10-minute debate when she opposed the attache resolution in the 25 - minute House session. However, it was passed by a voice vote.

She objected mainly to failure of the resolution to set any limit on the number of attaches that could be hired. Mrs. Walker said the House alone spent $151,640 during the 60-day session last year when the number "reached a jackpot of 174."

House Minority Leader George H. Seibert joined Majority Leader W. T. Brotherton in opposing Mrs. Walker. The House also tabled a resolution she introduced calling for a limit of 80 on the number of attaches hired at this session.

Midland Buys Property To Join Streets

Sidewalk Parking Banned In Town

MIDLAND — The town council recently approved the purchase of the Coleman property near St. Joseph's Rectory, according to Mayor Lionel D. Baker.

The property extends from Railroad Street to Broadway Street. Both Railroad and Broadways streets are closed at one end and plans call for razing the structure and opening a street to join the other two thoroughfares. The new street will be paved.

Mayor Baker said the Llewellyn apartment house is located at the end of Railroad Street and a number of families could be endangered there in case of fire or other emergency, because of the difficulty in reaching the area.

The council approved payment of $2,000 to the Cumberland Contracting Company for work done paving and grading streets.

Robert Turner reported he had collected all Christmas trees that were set out Saturday.

Council instructed Charles McGowan, town constable, to tag all cars parked on Main Street and on sidewalks. Sidewalks are being damaged by this indiscriminate parking, the mayor said.

Legislators Test Sentiment On Pipeline

West Virginians End First Week

By JERRY GOULD

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—The West Virginia Legislature wound up its first week of activity Friday and members headed home to test public sentiment on its most controversial issues—the coal-carrying pipeline and extension of the 3 per cent consumer sales tax.

Both the House and Senate held only brief sessions Friday morning, with a flurry of debate on a routine resolution authorizing payment of House attaches the only non-routine activity.

The Senate will reconvene Monday at 1 p.m. and the House an hour later.

The coal pipeline will be aired next Thursday night in a joint public hearing by the House and Senate judiciary committees.

When the lawmakers return to work on Monday, they should have a clearer idea of how the folks at home feel about measures designed to give builders of such lines — carrying a mixture of coal and water — the right to condemn private property.

Next week's hearing will be on half a dozen different pipeline bills plus a resolution calling for a year's delay in consideration of the legislation. The resolution provides for a 22-member committee to study the coal pipeline proposition and report in January, 1963.

The proposed 400-mile line from the Fairmont - Morgantown area to the east coast is considered a "must" by Gov. W. W. Barron and he is depending on the Democratic - controlled Legislature to push it through in the 30-day budget session.

On the other hand, opponents—headed by the railroads are mustering all the strength they can to meet the challenge. The railroads have said building of such lines would rob them of their coal-hauling business and cut deeply into their work force.

Extension of the sales tax headed a package of revenue bills introduced Friday.

The 3-cent levy on all sales over $1 provides about $9.5 million annually. It is scheduled to expire June 30, but the administration deems its continuation essential if it is to continue the Medical Assistance for the Aged (MAA), Emergency Employment and other programs.

The tax was boosted from 2 to 3 cents by the 1961 Legislature for a period ending last Aug. 31. It was extended nine months by a special session last June.

The other extensions, and the approximate amount they would yield, are the 6-cent-a-pack cigarette levy, $1.7 million; 3 per cent insurance premium tax, $1 million; racing tax $780,000, and consumer sales use tax, $100,000.

All of these taxes were requested by the State Board of Public Works in order that its 1962-63 budget of $141.3 million might be balanced.

Del. Nell Walker, D-Fayette, touched off a 10-minute debate when she opposed the attache resolution in the 25 - minute House session. However, it was passed by a voice vote.

She objected mainly to failure of the resolution to set any limit on the number of attaches that could be hired. Mrs. Walker said the House alone spent $151,640 during the 60-day session last year when the number "reached a jackpot of 174."

House Minority Leader George H. Seibert joined Majority Leader W. T. Brotherton in opposing Mrs. Walker. The House also tabled a resolution she introduced calling for a limit of 80 on the number of attaches hired at this session.

Judge Hospitalized

LONACONING — Chief Judge William C. Abbott was taken to Miners Hospital in Frostburg on Thursday night.

Hesen, chief, Harold Smith, assistant chief, Harold Southerly first assistant chief and Ralph Heare, first driver. Jack Smith, second vice-president was unable to be present at the ceremony.

The meeting and installation was held after the annual firemen's banquet.

Beall at Valley
Fort Hill at Mt. Savage
Allegany at Bruce

It didn't take long for the list of unbeaten teams in the WMI League to dissolve completely. Last night was only the third time around for the six schools in WMIL competition and the Mt. Savage Indians, who had enjoyed a brief stay atop the league standings, got the bite put on them by Bruce's Bulldogs in a 63-62 overtime thriller at Westernport.

Allegany nudged Valley, 47-43, in a battle at Campobello that was tied with slightly more than a minute left to play. Fort Hill had a relatively easy time of it in disposing of Beall, 57-49, at Fort Hill.

The outcome of last night's action left four of the half dozen teams tied for first place in a championship race that should go right down to the wire. Mt. Savage, Bruce, Allegany and Fort Hill all have 2-1 records, while Valley is in with a 1-2 mark and the Beall Mountaineers have yet to win in their three circuit outings.

Morris Bruce Hero

Jim Morris was the hero for Bruce in the extra period thriller that drew a "standing room only" crowd to the Bulldogs' Westernport domain.

He tossed in a field goal that tied the score at 58-all in the overtime session, then after Donnie Raines converted a tie-breaking free throw, proceeded to toss in a pair of goals that put the game out of the Indians' reach and sent them down to their second defeat of the season while at the same time snapping a five-game winning streak.

The stage for the overtime period was set when Mt. Savage's Bob Uhl connected on a fielder with 1:20 left in the regulation contest. That tied things up at 54-54 and forced the tight struggle into the extra three-minute session.

Raines paced the scorers with 27 points (top individual output for the evening in league play) on 11 field goals and a 5-7 effort at the foul line. Morris wound up with 10 two-pointers and a pair of free throws for 22 points.

'Savage Sophs Shine

The Indians' one-two sophomore scoring punch of Bobby Robertson and Ralph Wilson again sparked John Thomas' cagers. The latter collected 24 markers and Robertson came through with 17.

Two field goals within three seconds by backcourt man Jim Cox provided the impetus for Allegany's victory over Valley. With 1:16 remaining in the tight battle, Cox hit on a one-hander from behind the key and was fouled in the process. His free throw bounded back into his hands, and the hustling guard put up a jump shot that fell through and pulled the Campers out of a tie into a four-point lead (45-41) in a matter of three seconds.

Clarence Kimble's field goal had tied things up at 41-all with a minute and a half to go. Up to this point, Allegany had led since early in the second quarter when Cox's goal gave the Campers an 11-10 lead.

With 58 seconds remaining, Valley's Fred Sloan came through with a jump shot that cut the margin to 45-43, but Larry Snyder took an assist from Alan Kaplon under the basket and sealed the Campers' victory with 20 seconds left.

Cox Leads Scorers

Cox scored six field goals on 12 attempts and added a pair of free throws to wind up with scoring honors for Allegany with 14 points. Kenny Davis collected 12 tallies and did a bangup job of rebounding before fouling out with 4:22 left in the contest. As a team, the Campers shot a .375 clip with 21 baskets in 56 attempts. Valley hit on 15 of 50, for an even .300 percentage. Danny Young and Kimble, with 14 and 10 points respectively, led the Black Knights' scoring.

Fort Hill got a 23-point performance from Pat Wilson in coasting to victory over Beall's Mountaineers. The Sentinels hopped off to a quick 10-0 lead and had things pretty much their own way throughout. By the end of the third period they had built up a 15-point lead (43-28) and coach Jim Eckard substituted freely in the final quarter.

Wilson caged eight field goals and seven of ten free throws attempts for his 23-point total. Delbert Proudfoot had 14 points and Ronnie Manges 12 for the Sentinels. Alan Eisel paced the losers with 21.

In a conference thriller at Elk Garden, the Elks staved off a late rush by Piedmont High to edge the Lions, 59-58, to sweep the series between the two teams. Elk Garden won the opener at Piedmont, 38-35.

The Elks led throughout the game, although the score was close, finally taking a five-point edge with a minute to play. Two late baskets by Piedmont fell just shy of closing the gap.

Sixth Loss In Row

The loss was the sixth in a row for Mathias which is 2-6 in the league and 2-9 overall.

Gary Strawderman with 15 points and Ed Mongold with 13 were the big guns for the losers.

Moorefield High's Yellowjackets snapped a two-game losing streak by defeating Ridgeley High's Blackhawks, 67-58, last night at Moorefield. The triumph gave the Jackets a 7-3 record—5-3 in the conference.

Moorefield broke the seventh tie of the game at 32-32 with a goal and led the rest of the way. Ridgeley was hampered when Lannie Hinkle and Terry Detrick exited on fouls in the third period.

Johnny Mathias was the high scorer for Moorefield with 17 points while Eddie Litton also had 17 for Ridgeley.

Ridgeley now has lost four in a row and is 4-5 in the PVC and 4-6 overall.

In a pair of conference games at Romney, the Romney Pioneers defeated Southern High's Highlanders, 65-56, and Fort Ashby's Eagles whipped West Virginia School for Deaf, 60-36.

Pioneers Gain Split

Romneys win gave the Pioneers a split with Southern which won the opener at Oakland, 71-61. Don Wade, Hubert High, Monty Mathias and Robert Wolford scored in the double figures for the winners with Wade's 17 points pacing the field. Dave Burdock contributed 17 points for the losers.

Terps To Play Duke Tonight

Blue Devils' Win Would Tie Deacons

By The Associated Press

All eight Atlantic Coast Conference basketball teams fire away Saturday in the last big shooting spree before examinations begin next week.

North Carolina State and South Carolina play at Columbia in a game that will be telecast over a regional network. N. C. State is 2-1 in the conference and South Carolina is 2-2.

Maryland's Terps play at Duke and North Carolina and Virginia tangle in Greensboro's Memorial Coliseum.

In other games, Wake Forest plays at St. Joseph's, Philadelphia, and Clemson travels to Marshall College, W. Va.

By beating Maryland, Duke could move up into a tie with Wake Forest for the conference lead. The Deacons whipped North Carolina 91-72 Wednesday night and slipped into first place with a 4-1 record. Duke is 3-1.

The 10th ranked Duke Blue Devils won a 104-97 scoring battle with Clemson Thursday night, but could find the going tougher against the defense-minded Terps.

After the Saturday night round, conference competition cools for 10 days while the players are busy with semester exams. South Carolina plays at North Carolina and Clemson entertains Furman Monday night, and North Carolina plays host to N. C. State Wednesday. Then, Maryland and N. C. State play a tv game Saturday afternoon in the only further action until Jan. 27.

12,000 See LSU Bow To Kentucky

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) — Kentucky got off to a flying start and captured its 11th straight victory, defeating Louisiana State 84-63 before 12,000 fans Friday night in a Southeastern Conference basketball game.

The nationally third-ranked Wildcats took an 8-0 lead in the first four minutes of play and LSU never recovered. Cotton Nash paced Kentucky with 26 points.

It was Kentucky's 12th victory of the season in 13 starts and third straight in the SEC. LSU is now 7-5 over-all and 2-1 in conference play.

Kentucky hit a hot 50 per cent in the first half while the Tigers could connect on but 22.9 per cent, and that proved the eventual difference.

The Wildcats led 41-22 at intermission after once holding a 21-point lead.

George Nattin, a sharpshooting back court man, paced LSU with 14 points, while Howard Keene and Jack Belcher each had 11.

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Denying that work was heaped upon fullback Jim Brown as part of a trade scheme this past season, Board Chairman Art Modell of the Cleveland Browns said Friday "There must be a misunderstanding somewhere."

Melvin Durslag, Los Angeles Herald-Examiner sports writer, said Brown told him "I made more than 400 rushes and caught 46 passes. It was my roughest year in football." Brown is in Los Angeles for the Pro Bowl game Sunday.

Fight Marks ABL Playoff

Kansas City Wins, Two Are Ejected

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI)—The Kansas City Steers, surviving a fist-swinging melee in the third quarter which cost them the services of Maurice King, defeated the Cleveland Pipers 106-93 Friday night in the first game of the American Basketball League's mid-season playoff.

The Steers, champions of the league's Western Division, were rolling along with a 25-point lead when King and Cleveland's Johnny Cox tangled in a rebound scramble. The two wrestled to the floor, with King on top, and slugged each other until players and coaches from both benches raced in to separate them. Both King and Cox were banished from the game with six minutes remaining in the period.

Without King, who had scored 17 points and played brilliantly on defense, Kansas City's attack faltered. Within four minutes Cleveland reduced the Steers' lead to 10 points, 76-66.

But Bryce Vann came off the bench to take up the slack in Kansas City's game, scoring six points in the last one minute and 30 seconds of the quarter and controlling the defense's rebounds.

The two teams move to Cleveland Saturday for the second game of the best-of-three series. A third game, if necessary, will be played there Sunday.

Hyndman Defeats Everett Quint, 42-39

Hyndman High School's Hornets notched their second straight victory of the season in the Bedford County League by defeating Everett-Southern High School at Everett last night by the score of 42 to 39 in a contest in which the lead changed hands 12 times and the score was knotted on four occasions.

The victory gave Coach John Keller's quint a 3-6 overall mark.

Carl Park's basket put the Hornets ahead at 39-38 late in the final period and his team never relinquished the lead thereafter.

Everett jumped off to a 7-0 lead but trailed at the quarter, 8-7, at halftime, 19-16 and at the close of the third period, 31-28. The score was tied at 10-10, 28-28, 33-33 and 35-35.

Steve Stouffer was Hyndman's "big gun" with nine goals and 21 points while Carl Park contributed 12 points to the winning cause. Ken Pittman headed Everett with 17 tallies.

Pittman fouled out with 3:35 left in the final period and Stouffer exited with 25 seconds remaining.

It didn't take long for the list of unbeaten teams in the WMI League to dissolve completely. Last night was only the third time around for the six schools in WMIL competition and the Mt. Savage Indians, who had enjoyed a brief stay atop the league standings, got the bite put on them by Bruce's Bulldogs in a 63-62 overtime thriller at Westernport.

Allegany nudged Valley, 47-43, in a battle at Campobello that was tied with slightly more than a minute left to play. Fort Hill had a relatively easy time of it in disposing of Beall, 57-49, at Fort Hill.

The outcome of last night's action left four of the half dozen teams tied for first place in a championship race that should go right down to the wire. Mt. Savage, Bruce, Allegany and Fort Hill all have 2-1 records, while Valley is in with a 1-2 mark and the Beall Mountaineers have yet to win in their three circuit outings.

Morris Bruce Hero

Jim Morris was the hero for Bruce in the extra period thriller that drew a "standing room only" crowd to the Bulldogs' Westernport domain.

He tossed in a field goal that tied the score at 58-all in the overtime session, then after Donnie Raines converted a tie-breaking free throw, proceeded to toss in a pair of goals that put the game out of the Indians' reach and sent them down to their second defeat of the season while at the same time snapping a five-game winning streak.

The stage for the overtime period was set when Mt. Savage's Bob Uhl connected on a fielder with 1:20 left in the regulation contest. That tied things up at 54-54 and forced the tight struggle into the extra three-minute session.

Raines paced the scorers with 27 points (top individual output for the evening in league play) on 11 field goals and a 5-7 effort at the foul line. Morris wound up with 10 two-pointers and a pair of free throws for 22 points.

'Savage Sophs Shine

The Indians' one-two sophomore scoring punch of Bobby Robertson and Ralph Wilson again sparked John Thomas' cagers. The latter collected 24 markers and Robertson came through with 17.

Two field goals within three seconds by backcourt man Jim Cox provided the impetus for Allegany's victory over Valley. With 1:16 remaining in the tight battle, Cox hit on a one-hander from behind the key and was fouled in the process. His free throw bounded back into his hands, and the hustling guard put up a jump shot that fell through and pulled the Campers out of a tie into a four-point lead (45-41) in a matter of three seconds.

Clarence Kimble's field goal had tied things up at 41-all with a minute and a half to go. Up to this point, Allegany had led since early in the second quarter when Cox's goal gave the Campers an 11-10 lead.

With 58 seconds remaining, Valley's Fred Sloan came through with a jump shot that cut the margin to 45-43, but Larry Snyder took an assist from Alan Kaplon under the basket and sealed the Campers' victory with 20 seconds left.

Cox Leads Scorers

Cox scored six field goals on 12 attempts and added a pair of free throws to wind up with scoring honors for Allegany with 14 points. Kenny Davis collected 12 tallies and did a bangup job of rebounding before fouling out with 4:22 left in the contest. As a team, the Campers shot a .375 clip with 21 baskets in 56 attempts. Valley hit on 15 of 50, for an even .300 percentage. Danny Young and Kimble, with 14 and 10 points respectively, led the Black Knights' scoring.

Fort Hill got a 23-point performance from Pat Wilson in coasting to victory over Beall's Mountaineers. The Sentinels hopped off to a quick 10-0 lead and had things pretty much their own way throughout. By the end of the third period they had built up a 15-point lead (43-28) and coach Jim Eckard substituted freely in the final quarter.

Wilson caged eight field goals and seven of ten free throws attempts for his 23-point total. Delbert Proudfoot had 14 points and Ronnie Manges 12 for the Sentinels. Alan Eisel paced the losers with 21.

Keyser Cops 7th In PVC, Elk Garden Edges Lions

Paw Paw, Romney, Moorefield And Fort Ashby Win

Keyser High's once-beaten Tornado quint continued to set the pace in the Potomac Valley Conference, chalking up its seventh consecutive league triumph last night, a 77-36 shellacking of the Petersburg High Vikings at Keyser.

Defeated only by Allegany High's Campers in a non-conference encounter, Coach Estel "Eck" Miers' charges now have won four games in a row.

Don Harmon poured in 27 points to lead the Keyser attack as the Tornado five sent Petersburg down to its fifth loss in 10 games. The Vikings are 4-4 in the conference.

Vikings Hold Lead

Petersburg held the lead 14-10 at the quarter, but trailed 29-21 at halftime after Bill Thomas' field goal broke a 17-17 tie to put Keyser ahead to stay. A 48-point splurge by the winners in in the second half put the game out of reach of the Vikings.

John Koontz was the only player to score in the double figures for Petersburg, leading the Vikings with 12 points.

In a conference thriller at Elk Garden, the Elks staved off a late rush by Piedmont High to edge the Lions, 59-58, to sweep the series between the two teams. Elk Garden won the opener at Piedmont, 38-35.

The Elks led throughout the game, although the score was close, finally taking a five-point edge with a minute to play. Two late baskets by Piedmont fell just shy of closing the gap.

Taylor Scores 25 Points

Cliff Knotts, Mike Burke and Don Shillingburg paced the Elk Garden attack with 18, 16 and 14 points. Eugene Taylor dumped in 25 points in a losing cause for Piedmont.

The Elks gained the winning margin at the foul line, converting 11-19 chances to 8-16 for Piedmont who out-goaled the winners, 25-24.

Elk Garden's win was the eighth of the season for the Elks who are 6-2 in the PVC. Piedmont is 6-4 overall and 4-2 in the conference.

Paw Paw's Roland Hamilton tallied 32 points as the Pirates swept their series with Mathias High, 89-55, on the former's court. Paw Paw won the opener at Mathias, 81-63.

Hamilton, aiding his team to its sixth win of the season, hiked his own conference scoring mark to 117 points in four games. The Pirates now are 3-1 in the PVC.

Sixth Loss In Row

The loss was the sixth in a row for Mathias which is 2-6 in the league and 2-9 overall.

Gary Strawderman with 15 points and Ed Mongold with 13 were the big guns for the losers.

Moorefield High's Yellowjackets snapped a two-game losing streak by defeating Ridgeley High's Blackhawks, 67-58, last night at Moorefield. The triumph gave the Jackets a 7-3 record—5-3 in the conference.

Moorefield broke the seventh tie of the game at 32-32 with a goal and led the rest of the way. Ridgeley was hampered when Lannie Hinkle and Terry Detrick exited on fouls in the third period.

Johnny Mathias was the high scorer for Moorefield with 17 points while Eddie Litton also had 17 for Ridgeley.

Ridgeley now has lost four in a row and is 4-5 in the PVC and 4-6 overall.

In a pair of conference games at Romney, the Romney Pioneers defeated Southern High's Highlanders, 65-56, and Fort Ashby's Eagles whipped West Virginia School for Deaf, 60-36.

Pioneers Gain Split

Romneys win gave the Pioneers a split with Southern which won the opener at Oakland, 71-61. Don Wade, Hubert High, Monty Mathias and Robert Wolford scored in the double figures for the winners with Wade's 17 points pacing the field. Dave Burdock contributed 17 points for the losers.

Harold Kerns, the PVC's leading scorer, tallied 22 points for Fort Ashby to bring his conference total to 189 in nine games. The win was the sixth of the season for the Eagles who are 5-4 in the PVC. Tom Jividen was high man for West Virginia Deaf (1-4) with 14 points.

Terps To Play Duke Tonight

Blue Devils' Win Would Tie Deacons

By The Associated Press

All eight Atlantic Coast Conference basketball teams fire away Saturday in the last big shooting spree before examinations begin next week.

North Carolina State and South Carolina play at Columbia in a game that will be telecast over a regional network. N. C. State is 2-1 in the conference and South Carolina is 2-2.

Maryland's Terps play at Duke and North Carolina and Virginia tangle in Greensboro's Memorial Coliseum.

In other games, Wake Forest plays at St. Joseph's, Philadelphia, and Clemson travels to Marshall College, W. Va.

By beating Maryland, Duke could move up into a tie with Wake Forest for the conference lead. The Deacons whipped North Carolina 91-72 Wednesday night and slipped into first place with a 4-1 record. Duke is 3-1.

The 10th ranked Duke Blue Devils won a 104-97 scoring battle with Clemson Thursday night, but could find the going tougher against the defense-minded Terps.

After the Saturday night round, conference competition cools for 10 days while the players are busy with semester exams. South Carolina plays at North Carolina and Clemson entertains Furman Monday night, and North Carolina plays host to N. C. State Wednesday. Then, Maryland and N. C. State play a tv game Saturday afternoon in the only further action until Jan. 27.

12,000 See LSU Bow To Kentucky

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) — Kentucky got off to a flying start and captured its 11th straight victory, defeating Louisiana State 84-63 before 12,000 fans Friday night in a Southeastern Conference basketball game.

The nationally third-ranked Wildcats took an 8-0 lead in the first four minutes of play and LSU never recovered. Cotton Nash paced Kentucky with 26 points.

It was Kentucky's 12th victory of the season in 13 starts and third straight in the SEC. LSU is now 7-5 over-all and 2-1 in conference play.

Kentucky hit a hot 50 per cent in the first half while the Tigers could connect on but 22.9 per cent, and that proved the eventual difference.

The Wildcats led 41-22 at intermission after once holding a 21-point lead.

George Nattin, a sharpshooting back court man, paced LSU with 14 points, while Howard Keene and Jack Belcher each had 11.

Johnny Longden is scheduled to ride Alberta Ranches' Four-and-Twenty in the mile and one-eighth feature for 4 year olds. He was taken off his five mounts Friday because of a touch of flu. At home, under a doctor's care, he said he hopes to ride Saturday.

Cleveland Board Chairman Denies Brown Overworked

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Denying that work was heaped upon fullback Jim Brown as part of a trade scheme this past season, Board Chairman Art Modell of the Cleveland Browns said Friday "There must be a misunderstanding somewhere."

Brown, the National Football League's leading ground gainer, was quoted in Los Angeles Thursday as saying he felt the Browns planned to trade Bobby Mitchell, so Brown was given many of Mitchell's plays.

Melvin Durslag, Los Angeles Herald-Examiner sports writer, said Brown told him "I made more than 400 rushes and caught 46 passes. It was my roughest year in football." Brown is in Los Angeles for the Pro Bowl game Sunday.

The accident fund, a state agency which insures Colt players, requested hearings to determine the extent of injury in each claim. No hearing dates were set.

Chappell pulled down 16 rebounds.

Ed Winters was high man for St. Francis with 24 points.

Boston Tops Cincy 4th Time, 141-125

BOSTON (UPI) — With regulars ham-strung by fouls, the powerful bench force of the champion Boston Celtics took over Friday night for a 141-125 National Basketball Association victory over the Cincinnati Royals.

The Boston victory, fourth in five games with the Royals, came after Willie Naulls' last-minute long shot gave the New York Knicks a 128-126 victory over the St. Louis Hawks before 10,230 in the opener of a Boston Garden doubleheader.

The Celtics, with Bill Russell and Tommy Heinsohn taking control of both backboards, fell to a tie late in the third quarter but sprinted in the final period for what appeared to be an easy victory.

Heinsohn led Boston with 32 points and had 24 rebounds; Russell collected 25 points and a big 35 rebounds. Game scoring honors went to Cincinnati's Oscar Robertson who collected 33 points to edge teammate Jack Twyman with 31.

Fight Marks ABL Playoff

Kansas City Wins, Two Are Ejected

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI)—The Kansas City Steers, surviving a fist-swinging melee in the third quarter which cost them the services of Maurice King, defeated the Cleveland Pipers 106-93 Friday night in the first game of the American Basketball League's mid-season playoff.

The Steers, champions of the league's Western Division, were rolling along with a 25-point lead when King and Cleveland's Johnny Cox tangled in a rebound scramble. The two wrestled to the floor, with King on top, and slugged each other until players and coaches from both benches raced in to separate them. Both King and Cox were banished from the game with six minutes remaining in the period.

Without King, who had scored 17 points and played brilliantly on defense, Kansas City's attack faltered. Within four minutes Cleveland reduced the Steers' lead to 10 points, 76-66.

But Bryce Vann came off the bench to take up the slack in Kansas City's game, scoring six points in the last one minute and 30 seconds of the quarter and controlling the defense's rebounds.

The two teams move to Cleveland Saturday for the second game of the best-of-three series. A third game, if necessary, will be played there Sunday.

Stan Musial Heads Celebrities At 14th Dapper Dan Dinner Sunday

Jack Bahen To Receive Top Award

Coach Finzel To Get Plaque; Pittsburgh's Bob Prince Is Emcee

Stanley Frank Musial, St. Louis Cardinal great, more familiarly known in the baseball world as "Stan, The Man" heads the list of sports celebrities coming here Sunday for the 14th annual dinner of the Cumberland Dapper Dan Club.

The affair, expected to attract over 400 persons, including women for the first time, will be held at St. Mary's Church hall, and will commence at 6 p. m. Proceeds will go to the Allegany County League for Crippled Children.

Plaque For Bahen

John M. "Jack" Bahen, halfback of the University of Miami (Fla.) football team, coached by Andy Gustafson, will be the recipient of the Dapper Dan plaque which goes annually to the athlete who did the most to publicize the Cumberland area by his achievements the previous year.

With Edward C. "Ebbie" Finzel, Beall high school basketball and soccer coach, slated to receive the Dapper Dan special achievement plaque, Bahen receiving the top award and Jack Fisher, Baltimore Orioles' pitcher, among the sports celebrities on hand this year's affair has all the earmarks of "Frostburg Day" as all three hail from the Mountain City.

Bahen is a graduate of LaSalle, where he excelled in three sports and earned the 22nd annual Rapplier Club Award in June 1959. He received another prize at that time for being voted the school's best football player. He was a halfback in football, played a guard position in basketball, was catcher on the baseball team and was nosed out by a single point for the County League batting title although he batted .511 in 14 games.

Nine Of 12 Gridders

Jack is the third Miami football player to be chosen for the Dapper Dan Award. Phil Geatz was selected in 1959 and Jim Crawford was named in 1960.

Bahen is the ninth gridder to be chosen for the award and he will receive the 12th plaque offered since 1952. Other college gridiron stars honored in addition to the three from Miami are John Alderton, twice, Dickie Beard, Lynn Beightol, Paul "Bubbles" Thompson and Rodney Breedlove. Mrs. G. William Bibby, golfer; Joseph W. Hemmis, motorcycle hill climbing champion and Jack Fisher of the Orioles, have been the others. Fisher was the winner a year ago.

Finzel To Get Award

Finzel, who has coached at Beall High School for 27 years, is the sixth county high school mentor to be cited for the special achievement plaque. His predecessors were William P. Hahn, John J. "Bobby" Cavanaugh, John C. Meyers, Walter L. Bowers and Ed Schwarz.

Jack Fisher, who started his baseball career as a Little Leaguer at Frostburg, was unable to attend last year's dinner but he is scheduled to make it this time and will be accompanied by his wife, Judith Ann, and daughter, Debra Ann. Jack has been hurling for Baltimore for two years and owns a 22-24 record. Jack, incidentally, fired the pitch that Roger Maris slammed for his 60th home run last September 26 at Yankee Stadium, enabling the New York out-fielder to equal Babe Ruth's all-time major league high set in 1927. Jack had a 12-11 record in 1960 and was 10-13 last year.

Holds Most Records

The appearance of Stan Musial is the highlight of the program as the Donora, Pa., clouter holds more baseball records than any other living player. He has a total of 3,401 base hits in his career, ranking behind only Tris Speaker, Ty Cobb and Honus Wagner in that department.

Stan, who was nicknamed "The Mann" by Brooklyn Dodger fans because of his consistent belting at Ebbets Field, which is now just a memory, has been with the Cardinals for 20 years, 17 of which he batted .300 or better. He fell below that mark the past three seasons.

The 41-year-old first baseman-outfielder started out in the minors as a pitcher and in 1940 posted an 18-5 record for Daytona Beach in the Florida State League. A left-handed thrower and batter, Stan also hurled for Williamson in the Mountain State League.

Won 7 Batting Titles

Musial has won the National League batting championship seven times, led the loop in slugging six times, was first in triples five times and hit more 2-baggars than any other player on eight occasions. From 1952 to 1957 he played in 895 consecutive games, appeared in 15 all-star contests (more than any other player) participated in four World Series and won the Most Valuable Player Award in 1943, 1946 and 1948. He has clouted more than 400 homers for St. Louis and in 1954 he socked five round-trippers in a doubleheader.

Dick Groat, one-time All-America basketball player at Duke and now Pittsburgh Pirates' shortstop and N. L. batting champion and M. V. P. of 1960, and Ronnie Kline, former Pirates' hurler, now with the Detroit Tigers, are also listed among the celebrities coming here Sunday. Groat has attended all of the dinners since 1956 while Kline will attend for the third straight year.

Former MA Star Coming

Among the new faces slated to appear here for the first time is George McQuinn, scout for the Washington Senators, who was first sacker of the Wheeling Stogies in the early days of the Middle Atlantic Baseball League when Cumberland was represented in that circuit. McQuinn, Gerald Walker, Tommy Bridges, Elon Hogsett and Frank Doljack were among the Wheeling stars who were graduated to the major leagues. Detroit and the New York Yankees had working agreements with Wheeling in those days. McQuinn played with the St. Louis Browns and New York Yankees.

Bob Prince, the voice of the Pittsburgh Pirates on radio and T.V., will act as master of ceremonies while Al Abrams, national president of the Dapper Dans, will be accompanied by a group from the Pittsburgh area.

The Rev. Charles W. Bogan, pastor of St. Mary's Catholic Church, will give the invocation; the Rev. Clifford Johnson, pastor of the First Baptist Church, will speak briefly, and Rabbi Israel Wolmark, of Beth Jacob Congregation, will pronounce the benediction.

Western Maryland Cagers Win, 85-76

WESTMINSTER, Md. (AP) — Western Maryland blew an early 12-point lead but rallied in the second half Friday night to defeat Catholic University 85-76 in a Mason-Dixon Conference basketball game.

The Green Terrors spurted ahead 21-9 in the first seven minutes, but by halftime their lead had been cut to 40-37. The Cardinals edged ahead 52-51 early in the second half, but Dave Martin's three-point play put western Maryland back on top to stay.

Tom O'Malley scored 28 points to pace Western Maryland, while Martin added 21 and Richie Klitzberg 18. Walt Skinner tallied 19 for Catholic, one more than teammate Gene Horan.

CU now has a 5-2 record in the Mason-Dixon's Southern Division and Western Maryland is 4-2 in the North. Both teams are 7-3 in overall competition.

Linda Meyers Clinches Third In Ski Races

GRINDELWALD, Switzerland (AP)—Linda Meyers of Bishop, Calif., tied for sixth in the downhill race Friday and clinched third place in the Alpine combined standings in the Grindelwald International Ski Races.

Competing against 90 of the world's best women skiers from 19 nations, the 24-year-old California student won the giant slalom Wednesday after finishing third in the slalom the day before. This was the first major tuneup for next month's world championships at Chamonix, France.

The combined standings are based on performances in the slalom and downhill events. Two other American girls finished in the top ten of the combined — Barbara Ferries of Aspen, Colo., sixth, and Jean Saubert of Lakeview, Ore., ninth. Joan Hannah of Franconia, N.H., who fell in the slalom races, came in 27th.

Heidi Biebl of West Germany was the combined winner with a score of 8.82, followed by Traudl Hecher of Austria, 9.85, and Miss Meyers, 21.94. These standings are figured on a cascading point scale.

$100,000 Betting Coup Reported At California Track

ARCADIA, Calif. (AP)—A $100,000 betting coup was reported at Santa Anita Race Track Friday as an unidentified patron collected heavily on the $34.20 winner of the second race, Justa Drizzle.

The bettor reportedly purchased $3,000 in win tickets on Justa Drizzle just before post time—good for $51,300. Additionally, the bettor was said to have bet heavily in the daily double on several combinations to Justa Drizzle. Reports said he had 15 winning $10 tickets worth $49,635. A Santa Anita parimutuel department source verified the coup.

The daily double of Discurragh, a $36.80 winner of the first race, to Just a Drizzle was worth $661.80 for each $2 daily double ticket. The unidentified bettor's $49,635 payoff was about half the total daily double pool after deduction of the customary 14 per cent for the track and satte.

Justa Drizzle won by three lengths in 1:10 4-5 for six furlongs, with Bill Harmatz in the saddle.

Eicher To Miss Game At Duke

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (AP) — Bob Eicher, junior guard on the University of Maryland basketball team, will not make the trip to Durham, N.C., for an Atlantic Coast Conference game with Duke's nationally ranked Blue Devils Saturday night.

The 20-year-old from Greensburg, Pa., was ordered to bed Thursday by the team physician because he was suffering after effects of a slight concussion.

Eicher received the concussion here last Saturday night in Maryland's 86-77 overtime loss to South Carolina. He did start in the Georgetown game in Washington Wednesday night but didn't feel too good and came out after four minutes.

Eicher, 6-2, who also is suffering from an earlier back injury and wrist injury, is averaging 13.2 points per game for the Terps and is their No. 2 rebounder. One of the team's top defensive players, he probably would have been assigned to Art Heyman, Duke's high scorer.

Rote, Berra Earn Photog Accolales

NEW YORK (AP)—Kyle Rote, co-captain of the New York football Giants, and Yogi Berra, veteran catcher-outfielder of the champion New York Yankees baseball team, have been chosen "nice guys of the year" by New York Press Photographers.

The two will be guests of honor at the photographers' annual dinner Monday night.

Goalby Holds 2-Stroke Edge At San Diego

Player And Sanders Post 137s For 2nd

SAN DIEGO (UPI) — Steady Bob Goalby survived an erratic putting streak and got help from the weather Friday to retain his lead at the halfway mark in the $25,000 San Diego Open golf tournament with a 36-hole score of 135.

The big man from Crystal River Fla., took advantage of the fine mid-day playing conditions to post a one under par 70 while some of his closest pursuers had to tee off in icy cold morning conditions and others had to finish up with the use of flood lights on the greens in a light drizzle.

Start of Friday's play was delayed an hour and 20 minutes by frost for the second straight day.

South Africa's Gary Player and Doug Sanders of Ojai, Calif., tied for second place with 137s.

But big Mike Souchak, who was in second place Thursday, finished the last couple of holes in virtual darkness, putting by light of floodlights and autos parked around the greens. He bogeyed the final hole and stomped steaming off the course with a one over par 72 and tied with a dozen others at 139.

Those with 138s are Don Massengale, Jacksboro, Tex., Johnny Pott, Ocean Springs, Miss., and Jay Hebert, Miami, Fla.

Defending champion Arnold Palmer had a good round of 69 but was six strokes off the pace with a 141.

Buckeyes To Seek 12th Straight Win

COLUMBUS (UPI) — The undefeated Ohio State Buckeyes will go after their 12th victory of the season and second Big Ten win Saturday night when they host the Michigan Wolverines.

Although Michigan has won only two of 10 outings this year, OSU Coach Fred Taylor did not take the Wolverines lightly. If anything, his practice sessions this week were more strenuous than usual.

Kidd Is Favored In K. Of C. Race

BOSTON (AP) — Young Bruce Kidd, a 132-pound Canadian rocket who never ran a lick until a few years ago, is expected to launch the 1962 indoor track season Saturday night.

The 18-year-old University of Toronto freshman is the defender and favorite in the two-mile run of the 36th Knights of Columbus Track Meet at Boston Garden.

Rookie Cast In Pro Bowl To Include Both Coaches

West Installed 6½-Point Favorite In Sunday Clash

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Four rookies in the pro bowl? It sounds about normal—except that two of them are first-year men in the coaching business.

They're Allie Sherman of New York and Norm Van Brocklin of Minnesota, who'll be guiding the East and West teams Sunday in the National Football League's 12th annual all-star encounter.

The playing rookies are Pittsburgh linebacker Myron Pottios and Chicago end Mike Ditka.

Sherman was no surprise pick to coach the Easterners. His upset showing came in the regular season when he blended five castoffs with a perennially strong but aging Giant team and won the division championship.

Sherman would rather forget the playoff with Green Bay—the Packers won 37-0. He's also aware that the Western Division Detroit Lions walloped Philadelphia in the playoff bowl and that the West is favored here by 6½ points.

But Sherman says hopefully: "It's been an overpowering year for the West, but we hope to reclaim some prestige for the East Sunday."

Van Brocklin, by contrast, won only three games with the Vikings — but that's three more than Dallas won as a first-year team in 1960. Still, says the former Ram and Eagle quarterback:

"You're darned tootin' I was surprised. I didn't have the slightest idea I'd be picked for this honor. But you don't have to coach much with a great bunch of stars like these."

Van Brocklin is no newcomer to the Pro Bowl, however-he played in it eight times.

Ditka, the NFL rookie of the year, caught 56 passes good for 1,076 yards and 12 touchdowns in his first year. His size—6 feet 3, 220 pounds — prompted one workout observer to marvel, "Say, that tackle can really move."

Pottios, an ex-Notre Damer, quickly established himself as one of the strongest linebackers in the league. At 6-2 and 240, he's the biggest linebacker on the East team.

SS. Peter And Paul And St. Patrick's To Clash For Lead

A battle for first place is in store for followers of the Catholic Youth Basketball League when St. Patrick's and SS. Peter and Paul, deadlocked for the loop leadership, tangle Sunday at 2.45 p. m., at SS. Peter and Paul gymnasium.

Both teams have 5-1 records. St. Patrick's only setback came at the hands of SS. Peter and Paul, 52-34, while SS. Peter and Paul's loss was dealt out by St. Peter's, of Westernport, 36-32.

St. Mary's Gaels and St. Patrick's of Mt. Savage, will clash in the first game of the twin bill at 1:30 o'clock.

St. Peter's, trailing the league leaders with a 4-1 record, plays St. Michael's at Frostburg Sunday at 2:30 o'clock.

St. Mary's took the series opener from Mt. Savage, 47-24. The first game scheduled between St. Peter's and St. Michael's was postponed.

Stan Musial Heads Celebrities At 14th Dapper Dan Dinner Sunday

Coach Finzel To Get Plaque; Pittsburgh's Bob Prince Is Emcee

Stanley Frank Musial, St. Louis Cardinal great, more familiarly known in the baseball world as "Stan, The Man" heads the list of sports celebrities coming here Sunday for the 14th annual dinner of the Cumberland Dapper Dan Club.

The affair, expected to attract over 400 persons, including women for the first time, will be held at St. Mary's Church hall, and will commence at 6 p. m. Proceeds will go to the Allegany County League for Crippled Children.

Plaque For Bahen

John M. "Jack" Bahen, halfback of the University of Miami (Fla.) football team, coached by Andy Gustafson, will be the recipient of the Dapper Dan plaque which goes annually to the athlete who did the most to publicize the Cumberland area by his achievements the previous year.

With Edward C. "Ebbie" Finzel, Beall high school basketball and soccer coach, slated to receive the Dapper Dan special achievement plaque, Bahen receiving the top award and Jack Fisher, Baltimore Orioles' pitcher, among the sports celebrities on hand this year's affair has all the earmarks of "Frostburg Day" as all three hail from the Mountain City.

Bahen is a graduate of LaSalle, where he excelled in three sports and earned the 22nd annual Rapplier Club Award in June 1959. He received another prize at that time for being voted the school's best football player. He was a halfback in football, played a guard position in basketball, was catcher on the baseball team and was nosed out by a single point for the County League batting title although he batted .511 in 14 games.

Nine Of 12 Gridders

Jack is the third Miami football player to be chosen for the Dapper Dan Award. Phil Geatz was selected in 1959 and Jim Crawford was named in 1960.

Bahen is the ninth gridder to be chosen for the award and he will receive the 12th plaque offered since 1952. Other college gridiron stars honored in addition to the three from Miami are John Alderton, twice, Dickie Beard, Lynn Beightol, Paul "Bubbles" Thompson and Rodney Breedlove. Mrs. G. William Bibby, golfer; Joseph W. Hemmis, motorcycle hill climbing champion and Jack Fisher of the Orioles, have been the others. Fisher was the winner a year ago.

Finzel To Get Award

Finzel, who has coached at Beall High School for 27 years, is the sixth county high school mentor to be cited for the special achievement plaque. His predecessors were William P. Hahn, John J. "Bobby" Cavanaugh, John C. Meyers, Walter L. Bowers and Ed Schwarz.

Jack Fisher, who started his baseball career as a Little Leaguer at Frostburg, was unable to attend last year's dinner but he is scheduled to make it this time and will be accompanied by his wife, Judith Ann, and daughter, Debra Ann. Jack has been hurling for Baltimore for two years and owns a 22-24 record. Jack, incidentally, fired the pitch that Roger Maris slammed for his 60th home run last September 26 at Yankee Stadium, enabling the New York out-fielder to equal Babe Ruth's all-time major league high set in 1927. Jack had a 12-11 record in 1960 and was 10-13 last year.

Holds Most Records

The appearance of Stan Musial is the highlight of the program as the Donora, Pa., clouter holds more baseball records than any other living player. He has a total of 3,401 base hits in his career, ranking behind only Tris Speaker, Ty Cobb and Honus Wagner in that department.

Stan, who was nicknamed "The Mann" by Brooklyn Dodger fans because of his consistent belting at Ebbets Field, which is now just a memory, has been with the Cardinals for 20 years, 17 of which he batted .300 or better. He fell below that mark the past three seasons.

The 41-year-old first baseman-outfielder started out in the minors as a pitcher and in 1940 posted an 18-5 record for Daytona Beach in the Florida State League. A left-handed thrower and batter, Stan also hurled for Williamson in the Mountain State League.

Won 7 Batting Titles

Musial has won the National League batting championship seven times, led the loop in slugging six times, was first in triples five times and hit more 2-baggars than any other player on eight occasions. From 1952 to 1957 he played in 895 consecutive games, appeared in 15 all-star contests (more than any other player) participated in four World Series and won the Most Valuable Player Award in 1943, 1946 and 1948. He has clouted more than 400 homers for St. Louis and in 1954 he socked five round-trippers in a doubleheader.

Dick Groat, one-time All-America basketball player at Duke and now Pittsburgh Pirates' shortstop and N. L. batting champion and M. V. P. of 1960, and Ronnie Kline, former Pirates' hurler, now with the Detroit Tigers, are also listed among the celebrities coming here Sunday. Groat has attended all of the dinners since 1956 while Kline will attend for the third straight year.

Former MA Star Coming

Among the new faces slated to appear here for the first time is George McQuinn, scout for the Washington Senators, who was first sacker of the Wheeling Stogies in the early days of the Middle Atlantic Baseball League when Cumberland was represented in that circuit. McQuinn, Gerald Walker, Tommy Bridges, Elon Hogsett and Frank Doljack were among the Wheeling stars who were graduated to the major leagues. Detroit and the New York Yankees had working agreements with Wheeling in those days. McQuinn played with the St. Louis Browns and New York Yankees.

Bob Prince, the voice of the Pittsburgh Pirates on radio and T.V., will act as master of ceremonies while Al Abrams, national president of the Dapper Dans, will be accompanied by a group from the Pittsburgh area.

The Rev. Charles W. Bogan, pastor of St. Mary's Catholic Church, will give the invocation: the Rev. Clifford Johnson, pastor of the First Baptist Church, will speak briefly, and Rabbi Israel Wolmark, of Beth Jacob Congregation, will pronounce the benediction.

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Tom Brookshier, defensive star of the Philadelphia Eagles of the National Football League, said Friday he had turned down offers to become an assistant coach or a player with the Denver Broncos of the American Football League.

Brookshier's name was mentioned in Denver among choices to succeed Frank Filchock, fired Thursday as the Broncos' head coach. He said he had not been an applicant for that position.

Western Maryland Cagers Win, 85-76

WESTMINSTER, Md. (AP) — Western Maryland blew an early 12-point lead but rallied in the second half Friday night to defeat Catholic University 85-76 in a Mason-Dixon Conference basketball game.

The Green Terrors spurted ahead 21-9 in the first seven minutes, but by halftime their lead had been cut to 40-37. The Cardinals edged ahead 52-51 early in the second half, but Dave Martin's three-point play put western Maryland back on top to stay.

Tom O'Malley scored 28 points to pace Western Maryland, while Martin added 21 and Richie Klitzberg 18. Walt Skinner tallied 19 for Catholic, one more than teammate Gene Horan.

CU now has a 5-2 record in the Mason-Dixon's Southern Division and Western Maryland is 4-2 in the North. Both teams are 7-3 in overall competition.

Linda Meyers Clinches Third In Ski Races

GRINDELWALD, Switzerland (AP)—Linda Meyers of Bishop, Calif., tied for sixth in the downhill race Friday and clinched third place in the Alpine combined standings in the Grindelwald International Ski Races.

Competing against 90 of the world's best women skiers from 19 nations, the 24-year-old California student won the giant slalom Wednesday after finishing third in the slalom the day before. This was the first major tuneup for next month's world championships at Chamonix, France.

The combined standings are based on performances in the slalom and downhill events. Two other American girls finished in the top ten of the combined — Barbara Ferries of Aspen, Colo., sixth, and Jean Saubert of Lakeview, Ore., ninth. Joan Hannah of Franconia, N.H., who fell in the slalom races, came in 27th.

Heidi Biebl of West Germany was the combined winner with a score of 8.82, followed by Traudl Hecher of Austria, 9.85, and Miss Meyers, 21.94. These standings are figured on a cascading point scale.

$100,000 Betting Coup Reported At California Track

ARCADIA, Calif. (AP)—A $100,000 betting coup was reported at Santa Anita Race Track Friday as an unidentified patron collected heavily on the $34.20 winner of the second race, Justa Drizzle.

The bettor reportedly purchased $3,000 in win tickets on Justa Drizzle just before post time—good for $51,300. Additionally, the bettor was said to have bet heavily in the daily double on several combinations to Justa Drizzle. Reports said he had 15 winning $10 tickets worth $49,635. A Santa Anita parimutuel department source verified the coup.

The daily double of Discurragh, a $36.80 winner of the first race, to Just a Drizzle was worth $661.80 for each $2 daily double ticket. The unidentified bettor's $49,635 payoff was about half the total daily double pool after deduction of the customary 14 per cent for the track and satte.

Justa Drizzle won by three lengths in 1:10 4-5 for six furlongs, with Bill Harmatz in the saddle.

Eicher To Miss Game At Duke

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (AP) — Bob Eicher, junior guard on the University of Maryland basketball team, will not make the trip to Durham, N.C., for an Atlantic Coast Conference game with Duke's nationally ranked Blue Devils Saturday night.

The 20-year-old from Greensburg, Pa., was ordered to bed Thursday by the team physician because he was suffering after effects of a slight concussion.

Eicher received the concussion here last Saturday night in Maryland's 86-77 overtime loss to South Carolina. He did start in the Georgetown game in Washington Wednesday night but didn't feel too good and came out after four minutes.

Eicher, 6-2, who also is suffering from an earlier back injury and wrist injury, is averaging 13.2 points per game for the Terps and is their No. 2 rebounder. One of the team's top defensive players, he probably would have been assigned to Art Heyman, Duke's high scorer.

Rote, Berra Earn Photog Accolales

NEW YORK (AP)—Kyle Rote, co-captain of the New York football Giants, and Yogi Berra, veteran catcher-outfielder of the champion New York Yankees baseball team, have been chosen "nice guys of the year" by New York Press Photographers.

The two will be guests of honor at the photographers' annual dinner Monday night.

Goalby Holds 2-Stroke Edge At San Diego

Player And Sanders Post 137s For 2nd

SAN DIEGO (UPI) — Steady Bob Goalby survived an erratic putting streak and got help from the weather Friday to retain his lead at the halfway mark in the $25,000 San Diego Open golf tournament with a 36-hole score of 135.

The big man from Crystal River Fla., took advantage of the fine mid-day playing conditions to post a one under par 70 while some of his closest pursuers had to tee off in icy cold morning conditions and others had to finish up with the use of flood lights on the greens in a light drizzle.

Start of Friday's play was delayed an hour and 20 minutes by frost for the second straight day.

South Africa's Gary Player and Doug Sanders of Ojai, Calif., tied for second place with 137s.

But big Mike Souchak, who was in second place Thursday, finished the last couple of holes in virtual darkness, putting by light of floodlights and autos parked around the greens. He bogeyed the final hole and stomped steaming off the course with a one over par 72 and tied with a dozen others at 139.

Those with 138s are Don Massengale, Jacksboro, Tex., Johnny Pott, Ocean Springs, Miss., and Jay Hebert, Miami, Fla.

Buckeyes To Seek 12th Straight Win

COLUMBUS (UPI) — The undefeated Ohio State Buckeyes will go after their 12th victory of the season and second Big Ten win Saturday night when they host the Michigan Wolverines.

Although Michigan has won only two of 10 outings this year, OSU Coach Fred Taylor did not take the Wolverines lightly. If anything, his practice sessions this week were more strenuous than usual.

Kidd Is Favored In K. Of C. Race

BOSTON (AP) — Young Bruce Kidd, a 132-pound Canadian rocket who never ran a lick until a few years ago, is expected to launch the 1962 indoor track season Saturday night.

The 18-year-old University of Toronto freshman is the defender and favorite in the two-mile run of the 36th Knights of Columbus Track Meet at Boston Garden.

Rookie Cast In Pro Bowl To Include Both Coaches

West Installed 6½-Point Favorite In Sunday Clash

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Four rookies in the pro bowl? It sounds about normal—except that two of them are first-year men in the coaching business.

They're Allie Sherman of New York and Norm Van Brocklin of Minnesota, who'll be guiding the East and West teams Sunday in the National Football League's 12th annual all-star encounter.

The playing rookies are Pittsburgh linebacker Myron Pottios and Chicago end Mike Ditka.

Sherman was no surprise pick to coach the Easterners. His upset showing came in the regular season when he blended five castoffs with a perennially strong but aging Giant team and won the division championship.

Sherman would rather forget the playoff with Green Bay—the Packers won 37-0. He's also aware that the Western Division Detroit Lions walloped Philadelphia in the playoff bowl and that the West is favored here by 6½ points.

But Sherman says hopefully: "It's been an overpowering year for the West, but we hope to reclaim some prestige for the East Sunday."

Van Brocklin, by contrast, won only three games with the Vikings — but that's three more than Dallas won as a first-year team in 1960. Still, says the former Ram and Eagle quarterback:

"You're darned tootin' I was surprised. I didn't have the slightest idea I'd be picked for this honor. But you don't have to coach much with a great bunch of stars like these."

Van Brocklin is no newcomer to the Pro Bowl, however-he played in it eight times.

Ditka, the NFL rookie of the year, caught 56 passes good for 1,076 yards and 12 touchdowns in his first year. His size—6 feet 3, 220 pounds — prompted one workout observer to marvel, "Say, that tackle can really move."

Pottios, an ex-Notre Damer, quickly established himself as one of the strongest linebackers in the league. At 6-2 and 240, he's the biggest linebacker on the East team.

SS. Peter And Paul And St. Patrick's To Clash For Lead

A battle for first place is in store for followers of the Catholic Youth Basketball League when St. Patrick's and SS. Peter and Paul, deadlocked for the loop leadership, tangle Sunday at 2.45 p. m., at SS. Peter and Paul gymnasium.

Both teams have 5-1 records. St. Patrick's only setback came at the hands of SS. Peter and Paul, 52-34, while SS. Peter and Paul's loss was dealt out by St. Peter's, of Westernport, 36-32.

St. Mary's Gaels and St. Patrick's of Mt. Savage, will clash in the first game of the twin bill at 1:30 o'clock.

St. Peter's, trailing the league leaders with a 4-1 record, plays St. Michael's at Frostburg Sunday at 2:30 o'clock.

St. Mary's took the series opener from Mt. Savage, 47-24. The first game scheduled between St. Peter's and St. Michael's was postponed.

PLYMOUTH

Market Continues Upward Swing Amid Active Trade

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market continued to recover Friday, putting together two straight daily advances for the first time in 1962. Trading was moderately active.

It was the third clear-cut stock rise of the nine market sessions this year.

The list moved higher from the start. Sizable blocks in blue chips were traded at higher prices and it was apparent that the big institutional investors were nibbling again at issues whose prices seemed right to them. The pressure of profit taking seemed largely removed.

The continued rally was apparently based on the same factors as Thursday: namely, President Kennedy's plan for increased spending on missiles, plus the fact that there was nothing disconcerting to Wall Street in the State of the Union message. At the same time, selling to meet the Jan. 15 tax deadline had abated.

The Dow Jones industrial average rose 1.06 to 711.73.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks advanced 1.20 to 257.60, with industrials up 1.30, rails up .50 and utilities up 1.10.

Of 1,277 issues traded, 696 advanced and 357 declined. New highs for 1961-'62 were 13 and new lows 6.

Volume was 3.73 million shares compared with 3.39 million Thursday.

A generally higher trend was displayed on the American Stock Exchange as volume rose to 1.73 million shares from 1.43 million Friday.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:

AXYDLBAAXR
is LONGFELLOW

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

N.Y. Eggs And Butter

NEW YORK (AP) — (USDA)—Wholesale egg offerings adequate on large; short on mediums and smalls. Demand fair Friday.

Whites: Extras (47 lbs min) 38-40; extras medium (40 lbs average) 35½-37; top quality (47 lbs min) 39-43; mediums (41 lbs average) 35½-37½; smalls (36 lbs average) 30-31.

Browns: Extras (47 lbs min) 38-39; top quality (47 lbs min) 39-40½; mediums (41 lbs average) 35½-37½; smalls (36 lbs average) 30-31.

Butter offerings ample. Demand improved. Prices unchanged.

Chicago Grains

CHICAGO (UPI) — Soybeans firmed while other grain futures held within narrow price limits Friday on the Chicago Board of Trade.

Wheat closed unchanged to off ⅛, corn unchanged to up ¼, oats up ⅛ to ¼, rye off ⅜ to up ⅜ and soybeans up ½ to 1.

While scattered liquidation continued in nearby corn and wheat contracts, the heavy pressure of recent sessions was absent. Receipts were small.

Wheat met a mixed trade. Commercial houses bought the March, while prospects of a large pending export trade also helped futures.

Except for the March, most corn contracts displayed a firming tendency. Hedge colume was lighter. Exporters, locals and commercial houses bought corn.

The Commodity Credit Corp. raised its offering price to exporters by 1 cent a bushel. Reports said the CCC sold 17 million bushels of corn Thursday, including 11 million to exporters at Baltimore and New Orleans and 6 million to domestic users.

Oats had little feature. Deferred contracts eased early. Rye largely followed the same pattern.

Soybeans borrowed firmness from oil and meal futures. Northwest houses bought May and sold January.

Exporters said Britain bought 600,000 bushels of corn and Holland 250,000 bushels. Japan took 225,000 bushels of soybeans and Holland 150,000 bushels. West Germany purchased 500,000 bushels of barley.

Outside markets were mixed.

Market Continues Upward Swing Amid Active Trade

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market continued to recover Friday, putting together two straight daily advances for the first time in 1962. Trading was moderately active.

It was the third clear-cut stock rise of the nine market sessions this year.

The list moved higher from the start. Sizable blocks in blue chips were traded at higher prices and it was apparent that the big institutional investors were nibbling again at issues whose prices seemed right to them. The pressure of profit taking seemed largely removed.

The continued rally was apparently based on the same factors as Thursday: namely, President Kennedy's plan for increased spending on missiles, plus the fact that there was nothing disconcerting to Wall Street in the State of the Union message. At the same time, selling to meet the Jan. 15 tax deadline had abated.

The Dow Jones industrial average rose 1.06 to 711.73.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks advanced 1.20 to 257.60, with industrials up 1.30, rails up .50 and utilities up 1.10.

Of 1,277 issues traded, 696 advanced and 357 declined. New highs for 1961-'62 were 13 and new lows 6.

Volume was 3.73 million shares compared with 3.39 million Thursday.

A generally higher trend was displayed on the American Stock Exchange as volume rose to 1.73 million shares from 1.43 million Friday.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Chicago Grains

CHICAGO (UPI) — Soybeans firmed while other grain futures held within narrow price limits Friday on the Chicago Board of Trade.

Wheat closed unchanged to off ⅛, corn unchanged to up ¼, oats up ⅛ to ¼, rye off ⅜ to up ⅜ and soybeans up ½ to 1.

While scattered liquidation continued in nearby corn and wheat contracts, the heavy pressure of recent sessions was absent. Receipts were small.

Wheat met a mixed trade. Commercial houses bought the March, while prospects of a large pending export trade also helped futures.

Except for the March, most corn contracts displayed a firming tendency. Hedge colume was lighter. Exporters, locals and commercial houses bought corn.

The Commodity Credit Corp. raised its offering price to exporters by 1 cent a bushel. Reports said the CCC sold 17 million bushels of corn Thursday, including 11 million to exporters at Baltimore and New Orleans and 6 million to domestic users.

Oats had little feature. Deferred contracts eased early. Rye largely followed the same pattern.

Soybeans borrowed firmness from oil and meal futures. Northwest houses bought May and sold January.

Exporters said Britain bought 600,000 bushels of corn and Holland 250,000 bushels. Japan took 225,000 bushels of soybeans and Holland 150,000 bushels. West Germany purchased 500,000 bushels of barley.

Outside markets were mixed.

1961 Was Good Year, Fire Chief Reports

"1961 was very kind to us," Fire Chief Virgil A. Parker reported yesterday in releasing a report which showed that the Cumberland Fire Department answered 394 alarms last year.

He said the year was marred by few major fires, adding there were a number of mean ones, "but fortunately the boys stopped them before they got too far."

The report showed there were 100 residential fires here last year, five less than the year before.

Fires were reported in nine non-residential places of assembly and in 24 mercantile establishments. Two miscellaneous fires were noted.

65 Grass Fires

Fire fighters here rolled 65 times to quench brush or grass fires within the city. This was down slightly from the number reported in 1960.

Firemen also answered 68 other fires in varied classifications.

False alarms answered last year totaled 55, about the same as the previous year.

Firemen answered 48 other alarms resulting from smoke scares, honest mistakes and from accidental fire alarms.

Is 33 Less

Another 23 calls resulted from the need for first aid, accidents or emergency calls.

Chief Parker said the number of alarms answered was 33 less than in 1960 and that the year was unmarred by deaths resulting from fires.

The report has been submitted to the National Board of Fire Underwriters.

Chief Parker said the department keeps no dollar and cents records of fire damage, since firemen are not experts on estimating fire losses.

He said department records merely list damage as minor, major or complete loss.

Army Enlists Five Area, Local Men

Three Cumberland men and two from Romney enlisted in the Army this week, M/Sgt. Thomas Walbert, local Army recruiter, reported yesterday.

Enlisting Tusday were Gary T. Kidner for combat engineers and Thomas E. Carter, regular army, both of Romney, and Victor A. Winebrenner, city, for communications center operation.

On Wednesday Daniel E. Callis, city, enlisted for radio and carrier repair and George E. Hadley, also of here, for duty with the Army in Europe.

All five men were sent to Fort Knox, Ky., to undergo basic training.

Eagles Sponsor School In Iran

Cumberland Aerie 245, Fraternal Order of Eagles, is cooperating with Eagles elsewhere in sponsoring a training school for Iranian youth at Abadan in south Iran, Alvin C. DeBouck, worthy president, said last night.

He said the Eagle workshop will provide training in electrical work, radio repairing and metalworking. Tools and equipment for the school will be donated by Eagles lodges through the United States and Canada.

Herman L. Myers, local Eagle secretary, has received words of praise from CARE international vice president Judge Robert W. Hansen of Milwaukee, Wis.

Eagle House at Abadan will be a cooperative project of the FOE, CARE, and the Red Lion and Sun Society, the Red Cross Society of Iran.

Gold Is Shipped

LONDON (AP)—A consignment of gold coin arrived Friday for banking in London by the Indonesian government.

Aboard an air freighter, and accompanied by two armed security guards, was about 1,585,000 pounds — $4,438,000 — in gold coin from Jakarta. Last week a larger consignment — $15,453,200 worth —arrived.

The Indonesian Embassy here said it had no information about the consignments.

Scout Troop 6 Schedules Hike, Other Activities

A first class advancement hike on January 21 is among a number of activities planned by Troop Six, Boy Scouts, sponsored by the SS. Peter and Paul Parent Teachers Association.

James L. Conlon, scoutmaster, said last night that on the following day there will be a charter review and inspection of the troop by council headquarter officials.

On January 28 the scouts will check costs at a covered dish supper sponsored by the PTA from 1 p. m. to 5 p. m.

On February 10 and 11 all first class scouts and those with higher rank will attend the winter camporee of Nemacolin Trail District of Potomac Council near Cresaptown.

The troop will assemble at the scout room at 8 a. m. February 10 and will return about noon the following day after attending mass at St. Ambrose Church in Cresaptown.

On February 11 a charter presentation and Court of Honor will be held at 2 p. m. in obesrvance of Scout Sunday.

The entire troop will attend the winter camp at Camp Potomac near Oldtown February 16-18. The members will leave here Friday evening and return on Sunday.

During a recent meeting Rickey Harrison and Robert Fishell were advanced to first class scouts and Perry Bergman was named a tenderfoot.

Young Bergman also received a three-year service pin for three years membership in Cub Pack Six. He is now a member of Troop Six, Boy Scouts.

Russians Return Belgian Plane

BRUSSELS, Belgium (AP) — A Belgian jetliner that was forced down by Soviet fighters when it strayed over the Soviet Union Monday returned to Brussels Friday night.

Five Americans and 13 other passengers of the Sabena plane were flown Thursday to Brussels in a Soviet plane. The Sabena remained in the U.S.S.R until Friday because of mechanical trouble.

Freezing temperatures of salt water is four degrees lower than that of fresh water.

LaVale Firemen Answer Two Calls

LaVale Volunteer Fire Company men and equipment rolled twice yesterday afternoon on calls which included a false alarm and a minor fire.

Seven firemen and a pumper were dispatched to Haystack Mountain at 1 p. m. after a brush fire was reported. Firemen said the alarm resulted from the controlled burning of brush.

Twenty men responded when a fire was reported at the home of E. W. Winters, 38 Walker Road, at 5:15 p. m.

Firemen said the blaze, from the burner of an electric stove, was out on arival but that a smoke ejector was used to clear the home of smoke. Damage was minor.

Gizenga Faces Political Upset By Parliament

LEOPOLDVILLE, the Congo (AP)—Deputy Premier Antoine Gizenga, the leftist political heir of Patrice Lumumba, was formally accused in Parliament Friday of deserting his official tasks here and defying Parliament.

Forty-four deputies, a majority of those present, approved a motion of censure that is expected to come to a vote Monday.

Congolese sources said passage of the motion could mean dismissal of Gizenga from Premier Cyrille Adoula's central government, and perhaps arrest.

Diplomats agreed he is now seriously isolated politically.

A darling of the Communist bloc, Gizenga has been absent without leave from the capital since October.

The censure motion was filed after the expiration of a parliamentary ultimatum calling on Gizenga to return from his self-imposed exile in Stanleyville, 775 miles up the Congo River, and answer charges of secessionism.

Gizenga rejected that summons in a telegram Wednesday, but had a change of heart overnight.

He notified Parliament Thursday he would return shortly to Leopoldville. But he did not set a date.

Advices from usually reliable sources in Stanleyville, Gizenga's old stronghold, said his star was waning among politicians, troops and police.

By those accounts, Gizenga is openly at odds with his onetime army supporter, Gen. Victor Lundula, and Lundula's troops have arrested four of Gizenga's top lieutenants.

Many of Gizenga's former followers backed the censure motion in Parliament. Shouting and pounding their desks, deputies called unsatisfactory his vague and belated agreement to come to Leopoldville.

Charles Badjoko, who got Lumumba's seat after the fiery premier's death, has been one of the leaders in the anti-Gizenga drive.

Blood Center Unit Plans '62 Quotas, Visits

Mrs. Jane Lohnas represented Allegany County Chapter, American Red Cross, at a meeting of the quota and scheduling committee of Johnstown Regional Blood Center in Johnstown this week.

Kenneth O. Thompkins was chairman of the committee which set up quotas and schedules for bloodmobile unit visits, which will be effective July 1. All schedules are set up on a yearly basis.

Mrs. Lohnas has been blood recruitment chairman for Allegany County Chapter for the past several years and heads a group of volunteers who, according to Mrs. Sara Lindsay, executive secretary are the unsung heroes of the blood program. They spend hours on the telephone enlisting donors, making appointments and arrangements between visits of the mobile unit to local plants, and the regular county visits to the Cumberland Eagles Home and the Frostburg and Westernport American Legion homes.

The mobile unit will make a two day visit to Allegany Ballistics Laboratory February 5 and 6. It will be at the Celanese plant in March, and at the Eagles Home in April.

Demo Candidate

he said was a letter from Mahoney.

It listed eight promises by Mahoney in the labor field. It said he would "favor and espouse legislation" for minimum and prevailing wages, and if the occasion arose oppose right-to-work laws.

He also opposed a bill enacted by the last legislature revising the unemployment compensation laws, saying he would favor the various proposals being offered in separate bills.

Strong said that three members of the Tawes ticket, Brewster, Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein and Atty. Gen. Thomas B. Finan urged labor leaders Thursday "for two and a half hours to make no endorsements."

Take Roll Call

"Can we afford to ride the fence?" asked Strong. "I feel we have an obligation to advise the people and not to say to them 'do as you please or stay home.'"

In supporting Strong's plea for an endorsement of "somebody," Jay Turner, president of the Washington Central Labor Council, said "I would rather see a monkey swinging through the trees (as governor) than Tawes."

This line of argument was assailed as a "left handed endorsement" and those for it retorted that no endorsement would amount to one for Tawes.

The 26-member executive board argued four hours and 15 minutes behind closed doors before bringing out the majority report for no endorsement. But the roll call was taken only on the minority report to endorse Mahoney.

1961 Was Good Year, Fire Chief Reports

"1961 was very kind to us," Fire Chief Virgil A. Parker reported yesterday in releasing a report which showed that the Cumberland Fire Department answered 394 alarms last year.

He said the year was marred by few major fires, adding there were a number of mean ones, "but fortunately the boys stopped them before they got too far."

The report showed there were 100 residential fires here last year, five less than the year before.

Fires were reported in nine non-residential places of assembly and in 24 mercantile establishments. Two miscellaneous fires were noted.

65 Grass Fires

Fire fighters here rolled 65 times to quench brush or grass fires within the city. This was down slightly from the number reported in 1960.

Firemen also answered 68 other fires in varied classifications.

False alarms answered last year totaled 55, about the same as the previous year.

Firemen answered 48 other alarms resulting from smoke scares, honest mistakes and from accidental fire alarms.

Is 33 Less

Another 23 calls resulted from the need for first aid, accidents or emergency calls.

Chief Parker said the number of alarms answered was 33 less than in 1960 and that the year was unmarred by deaths resulting from fires.

The report has been submitted to the National Board of Fire Underwriters.

Chief Parker said the department keeps no dollar and cents records of fire damage, since firemen are not experts on estimating fire losses.

He said department records merely list damage as minor, major or complete loss.

Army Enlists Five Area, Local Men

Three Cumberland men and two from Romney enlisted in the Army this week, M/Sgt. Thomas Walbert, local Army recruiter, reported yesterday.

Enlisting Tusday were Gary T. Kidner for combat engineers and Thomas E. Carter, regular army, both of Romney, and Victor A. Winebrenner, city, for communications center operation.

On Wednesday Daniel E. Callis, city, enlisted for radio and carrier repair and George E. Hadley, also of here, for duty with the Army in Europe.

All five men were sent to Fort Knox, Ky., to undergo basic training.

Eagles Sponsor School In Iran

Cumberland Aerie 245, Fraternal Order of Eagles, is cooperating with Eagles elsewhere in sponsoring a training school for Iranian youth at Abadan in south Iran, Alvin C. DeBouck, worthy president, said last night.

He said the Eagle workshop will provide training in electrical work, radio repairing and metalworking. Tools and equipment for the school will be donated by Eagles lodges through the United States and Canada.

Herman L. Myers, local Eagle secretary, has received words of praise from CARE international vice president Judge Robert W. Hansen of Milwaukee, Wis.

Eagle House at Abadan will be a cooperative project of the FOE, CARE, and the Red Lion and Sun Society, the Red Cross Society of Iran.

Russians Return Belgian Plane

BRUSSELS, Belgium (AP) — A Belgian jetliner that was forced down by Soviet fighters when it strayed over the Soviet Union Monday returned to Brussels Friday night.

Five Americans and 13 other passengers of the Sabena plane were flown Thursday to Brussels in a Soviet plane. The Sabena remained in the U.S.S.R until Friday because of mechanical trouble.

LaVale Firemen Answer Two Calls

LaVale Volunteer Fire Company men and equipment rolled twice yesterday afternoon on calls which included a false alarm and a minor fire.

Seven firemen and a pumper were dispatched to Haystack Mountain at 1 p. m. after a brush fire was reported. Firemen said the alarm resulted from the controlled burning of brush.

Twenty men responded when a fire was reported at the home of E. W. Winters, 38 Walker Road, at 5:15 p. m.

Firemen said the blaze, from the burner of an electric stove, was out on arival but that a smoke ejector was used to clear the home of smoke. Damage was minor.

Gizenga Faces Political Upset By Parliament

LEOPOLDVILLE, the Congo (AP)—Deputy Premier Antoine Gizenga, the leftist political heir of Patrice Lumumba, was formally accused in Parliament Friday of deserting his official tasks here and defying Parliament.

Forty-four deputies, a majority of those present, approved a motion of censure that is expected to come to a vote Monday.

Congolese sources said passage of the motion could mean dismissal of Gizenga from Premier Cyrille Adoula's central government, and perhaps arrest.

Diplomats agreed he is now seriously isolated politically.

A darling of the Communist bloc, Gizenga has been absent without leave from the capital since October.

The censure motion was filed after the expiration of a parliamentary ultimatum calling on Gizenga to return from his self-imposed exile in Stanleyville, 775 miles up the Congo River, and answer charges of secessionism.

Gizenga rejected that summons in a telegram Wednesday, but had a change of heart overnight.

He notified Parliament Thursday he would return shortly to Leopoldville. But he did not set a date.

Advices from usually reliable sources in Stanleyville, Gizenga's old stronghold, said his star was waning among politicians, troops and police.

By those accounts, Gizenga is openly at odds with his onetime army supporter, Gen. Victor Lundula, and Lundula's troops have arrested four of Gizenga's top lieutenants.

Many of Gizenga's former followers backed the censure motion in Parliament. Shouting and pounding their desks, deputies called unsatisfactory his vague and belated agreement to come to Leopoldville.

Charles Badjoko, who got Lumumba's seat after the fiery premier's death, has been one of the leaders in the anti-Gizenga drive.

Blood Center Unit Plans '62 Quotas, Visits

Mrs. Jane Lohnas represented Allegany County Chapter, American Red Cross, at a meeting of the quota and scheduling committee of Johnstown Regional Blood Center in Johnstown this week.

Kenneth O. Thompkins was chairman of the committee which set up quotas and schedules for bloodmobile unit visits, which will be effective July 1. All schedules are set up on a yearly basis.

Mrs. Lohnas has been blood recruitment chairman for Allegany County Chapter for the past several years and heads a group of volunteers who, according to Mrs. Sara Lindsay, executive secretary are the unsung heroes of the blood program. They spend hours on the telephone enlisting donors, making appointments and arrangements between visits of the mobile unit to local plants, and the regular county visits to the Cumberland Eagles Home and the Frostburg and Westernport American Legion homes.

The mobile unit will make a two day visit to Allegany Ballistics Laboratory February 5 and 6. It will be at the Celanese plant in March, and at the Eagles Home in April.

Demo Candidate

he said was a letter from Mahoney.

It listed eight promises by Mahoney in the labor field. It said he would "favor and espouse legislation" for minimum and prevailing wages, and if the occasion arose oppose right-to-work laws.

He also opposed a bill enacted by the last legislature revising the unemployment compensation laws, saying he would favor the various proposals being offered in separate bills.

Strong said that three members of the Tawes ticket, Brewster, Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein and Atty. Gen. Thomas B. Finan urged labor leaders Thursday "for two and a half hours to make no endorsements."

Take Roll Call

"Can we afford to ride the fence?" asked Strong. "I feel we have an obligation to advise the people and not to say to them 'do as you please or stay home.'"

In supporting Strong's plea for an endorsement of "somebody," Jay Turner, president of the Washington Central Labor Council, said "I would rather see a monkey swinging through the trees (as governor) than Tawes."

This line of argument was assailed as a "left handed endorsement" and those for it retorted that no endorsement would amount to one for Tawes.

The 26-member executive board argued four hours and 15 minutes behind closed doors before bringing out the majority report for no endorsement. But the roll call was taken only on the minority report to endorse Mahoney.

Red Visit

LONDON (AP)—Anastas I. Mikoyan, first Soviet deputy premier, will visit Morocco as guest of King Hassan II this month after his tour of the Mali Republic, the Soviet News Agency Tass reports.

Mahoney Gets Grudging Endorsement Of AFL-CIO

Demo Candidate Is Backed By Narrow Margin

Action Seen Way To Elect Sickles

By GEORGE BOWEN

BALTIMORE (AP)—George P. Mahoney won the begrudging, narrow state-wide endorsement of the Maryland-DC AFL-CIO Friday as candidate for the Democratic nomination for governor.

A roll-call of the locals was required after a spirited day-long fight, before the labor organization went on record by a margin of only 29 votes out of 796 for formal endorsement of Mahoney.

In doing so, the delegates to a meeting of labor's Committee on Political Education (COPE) reversed a 16-10 vote by their executive board to make no endorsement in the Democratic primary for governor.

The vote to take Mahoney was 389-360 out of a potential maximum vote of about 1,400. The roll-call came shortly after 6 p.m. to climax discussions both behind closed doors and in open sessions that had been going on for eight hours.

Oppose Tawes

The AFL-CIO has 200,000 members in Maryland.

The labor leaders made no bones that they had sought an affiliation with Mahoney in order to provide what they thought was their best chance to elect Sickles who has been a champion of labor in the Maryland House of Delegates. Sickles joined Mahoney's ticket Wednesday.

The AFL-CIO, which had endorsed Gov. Tawes in 1958, emphasized its intention of trying to defeat him in his bid for re-election. The only other candidate for governor the labor leaders considered for endorsement was David Hume, but they decided that it would not be politically practical.

Urge Approval

Two of the top regional officers of the AFL-CIO, President Woodrow Strong and Secretary-Treasurer Charles Della, argued long and vigorously for approval of the Mahoney endorsement.

They said not to do so would amount to repudiation since they, along with Francis X. Filbey, president of the Baltimore Council of the unions, had agreed to the deal.

They noted specifically that the endorsement was limited to Mahoney and Sickles. Excluded were two other members of the Mahoney ticket, Blair Lee III for U. S. Senate and Samuel W. Barrick for attorney general.

Decry Records

Opponents of labor backing for Mahoney decried the voting records of Lee and Barrick on labor legislation in the House of Delegates. Lee is a member of the House and Barrick of the Senate.

Filbey was one of those opposing the Mahoney endorsement who chided the labor leaders for not considering Hume, whom he said they "liked."

During the rousing meeting, copies of a talk Hume made to the Baltimore Council last October were being distributed. Strong stopped the action.

Shows Regret

Strong said that after hearing from Hume he "must confess that the executive board and convention was highly optimistic that here was a man labor could support. We are saddened that development did not come about."

Strong said that after the AFL-CIO convention last August in Washington voted unanimously to work against the re-election of Tawes, labor leaders in Maryland considered it a mandate.

He related their first thought was how to help Sickles. He said they even approached Daniel B. Brewster, candidate for U. S. Senate on the Tawes ticket, about running on a ticket with Hume and Sickles.

"In the interest of having a rallying point and furthering the campaign of Sickles, the decision was made to explore the possibility of the Mahoney ticket," Strong continued.

"It is impractical to be independent.

Lists Promises

"Sure there were conditions. But no commitments from this state council have been made to any candidate for X-number of dollars or anything else."

On the other hand, Strong after being challenged about a "secret document not for public consumption" pulled out and read what

County Roads Supervisor Harry T. Skelly submitted an annual report to the Board of County Commissioners showing that some 12 streets and roads with a total of 3.26 miles were accepted into the county roads system during 1961.

Longest of the roads was the Mexico Farms Road in Election District 16, 1.21 miles. Other roads accepted included Wildcat Hollow Road, District 16, .435 miles; Dawson Cemetery Road, District 31, .45 miles; Bank Avenue, District 6, .04 miles; Gramlich Road, District 29, .144 miles; Helman Drive, District 29, .176 miles; Bane Avenue, District 29, .075 miles; "C" Street, LaVale, District 29, .075 miles; Cedar Street, District 29, .1 miles; "B" Street, Potomac Park, District 6, .24 miles; "C" Street, Potomac Park, District 6, .26 miles, and "F" Street, Potomac Park, District 6, .055 miles.

Mr. Skelly also reported that a total of 4.945 miles of new road were constructed in 1961. Involved were stretches of 16 different roads at a total cost of $41,361.38. Of this amount $21,865.08 was spent for labor and equipment and $19,496.30 for materials.

The county roads supervisor also listed work on six federal aid projects in the county in 1961. Included were Bear Hill Road, Orleans Road, North; High Germany bridge and approach; Oliver Beltz Road, Town Creek Road and Mexico Farms Road. The Oliver Beltz and Town Creek projects are not yet completed.

A total of $176,673.19 was spent on these federal aid projects in 1961 and $22,950 of the cost was paid by the federal funds. That left $153,723.19 from county funds.

The supervisor also stated that seven bridges were reconstructed last year and three others were eliminated and replaced with culverts.

Lewis Voices Opposition Of Area Council

Cites Objection To Blair Lee III

BALTIMORE (AP) — Andrew Lewis Jr., a union leader from Cumberland, was one of the speakers and voters Friday against endorsement of George P. Mahoney by the Maryland-D. C. AFL-CIO.

He cast two negative votes for the Western Maryland Central Labor Council. He is director of its Committee on Political Education.

Lewis, who is a union member at the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Co., said one of the main reasons "at this time" for his council's objection to a Mahoney endorsement was Blair Lee III.

Lee is running for Democratic nomination to the U. S. Senate on Mahoney's ticket.

"Last year when there was an opportunity for Frostburg Teachers College to expand," Lewis recalled, "under the leadership of Lee, this change was defeated.

"I am certain that the people of Western Maryland could not in good conscience support the Mahoney ticket."

Lee was chairman of the House Education Committee which gave an unfavorable report by one vote to a bill to convert Frostburg into a branch of the University of Maryland and expand its liberal arts curriculum. No effort was made to move the bill after the unfavorable committee report although earlier it had full support of Gov. Tawes.

Earlier at the labor meeting, Lewis had reported that State Sen. Charles See, R-Allegany, "had been removed as candidate for re-election by political maneuvering.

"The moneyed interests in our end of the state maneuvered him to seek office as a candidate for the House."

He said George R. Hughes, a former delegate defeated by See for the Senate in 1958, had announced for the post and "it is anticipated that Robert B. Kimble, former unemployment director, also will be a candidate."

Privately, Lewis said he expected William Walsh, now a member of the House, to become the Democratic candidate for Senate and a son of U. S. Republican Senator J. Glenn Beall to run for the House.

The Western Maryland COPE unit was represented by Mr. Lewis and Graydon S. Dunlap, secretary.

The action was taken in line with a decision, made at a meeting of the Western Maryland Central Labor Council, AFL-CIO, here Wednesday night.

At this meeting, the central labor body voted to make no endorsements in the coming election until the COPE Interrogation Committee confers with candidates.

The action has a precedent in the 1958 election, when the Western Maryland Council refused to endorse Rep. John R. Foley for re-election, inspite of the insistence of state and national labor leaders.

Winter Eases Grip On Tri-State Area

The bitterest cold of the winter began to ease its grip on the Tri-State area yesterday.

Last night the thermometer plunged to 11 below in Oakland and Elkins, an even zero in Cumberland, two below on Big Savage and three below in Frostburg.

Mason Denies Criticizing Road Supervisor

Comment Involved Street Quality

County Commissioner John T. Mason yesterday wrote a letter to County Roads Supervisor Harry T. Skelly, explaining that he never made a statement that Mr. Skelly was not not qualified to handle his duties.

Mr. Mason stressed that his principal point at Tuesday's meeting of the Board of County Commissioners that other roads taken into the county system have not been in as good condition as "B", "C", "F" and "G" avenues in McGrawville, a part of Potomac Park.

Mr. Skelly sent a letter to the county commissioners yesterday outlining his qualifications as county road supervisor.

Law Section Read

The discussion Tuesday was prompted when Commissioner John T. Rowan asked the attorney to the board to read the section of the law concerning the procedure to be followed in bringing streets into the county roads system.

The law states that the county roads engineer's recommendation should be taken before action is taken to include a road in the county system. At this point, Commissioner Mason pointed out that Mr. Skelly is not a county roads engineer.

In his letter read at yesterday's meeting, Mr. Skelly said he had two years of training under the GI Bill, primarily in road, bridge and building construction and engineering. He also listed 19 years' service in the Air Force and Air Force Reserve and 15 years' experience with the county roads department.

Mr. Skelly emphasized that he has served as president, treasurer and member of the board of directors of the County Engineers Association of Maryland. He also noted that the law provides that where a county does not have a roads engineer the duties of roads supervisor should be a man of at least 10 years experience in road construction and maintenance.

Letter Quoted

Mr. Mason's letter read as follows:

"I don't believe I ever made a statement to the effect that you were not qualified to handle your job as supervisor of the County Roads System. In fact I think you have been doing a fine job considering some of the things you have to put up with.

"Neither have I ever said that all specifications have been met on "B", "C", "F" and "G" avenues in McGrawville. I only said that there have been other roads taken into the county system that were not in as good condition as the ones in McGrawville.

"I have never made any statements criticizing you or the way you run your department.

"I do feel that the letter you have written to the County Commissioners is ridiculous. I think you are making 'a mountain out of a mole hill.'"

Fire Damages Frame Home On Sunrise Ave.

Two local fire companies yesterday afternon responded to a fire which caused some damage to a dwelling on Sunrise Avenue just off Williams Road.

The cause of the blaze was unknown, according to firemen, who said it originated in a partition between the kitchen and bathroom of the five-room frame home occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Landis.

The fire spread into the second floor of the dwelling and firemen had to hack open the floor and wall to get to the source of the flames.

When the firemen from Central arrived on the scene the blaze was under control. Firemen of South End remained at the address to make sure the fire was completely extinguished.

Fleming Cites Failure To Heed 'Yield' Signs

"Simple carelessness" on the part of motorists who have been failing to heed "yield the right of way" and stop signs is the cause of many accidents in Cumberland, said Police and Fire Commissioner Philmore Fleming and Chief B. Frank Gaffney.

They pointed out yesterday that motorists should take all necessary precautions when approaching a yield right of way sign.

Chief Gaffney said that a stop sign which had been placed at the intersection of Liberty and Frederick streets, was replaced by a yield the right of way in order to prevent a backup of traffic which was occurring.

Traffic at that intersection is now expedited, according to Chief Gaffney, who said that at peak traffic, cars previously would be backed up to North Mechanic Street.

Local authorities are reminding motorists to heed the signs which are located throughout the city and cut down on accidents.

Enforcement Facts, an analysis of traffic law enforcement data, compiled by the Field Service Division, International Association of Chiefs of Police, Washington, disclosed that in urban areas the principal contributing circumstances to accidents was failure to yield the right of way (19.3 per cent); and next was following too closely (14.1 per cent), said Chief Gaffney.

Mahoney Gets Grudging Endorsement Of AFL-CIO

Demo Candidate Is Backed By Narrow Margin

Action Seen Way To Elect Sickles

By GEORGE BOWEN

BALTIMORE (AP)—George P. Mahoney won the begrudging, narrow state-wide endorsement of the Maryland-DC AFL-CIO Friday as candidate for the Democratic nomination for governor.

A roll-call of the locals was required after a spirited day-long fight, before the labor organization went on record by a margin of only 29 votes out of 796 for formal endorsement of Mahoney.

In doing so, the delegates to a meeting of labor's Committee on Political Education (COPE) reversed a 16-10 vote by their executive board to make no endorsement in the Democratic primary for governor.

The vote to take Mahoney was 389-360 out of a potential maximum vote of about 1,400. The roll-call came shortly after 6 p.m. to climax discussions both behind closed doors and in open sessions that had been going on for eight hours.

Oppose Tawes

The only other Democratic candidate endorsed by the labor group was Carlton R. Sickles, candidate for congress-at-large from Prince Georges County.

The AFL-CIO has 200,000 members in Maryland.

The labor leaders made no bones that they had sought an affiliation with Mahoney in order to provide what they thought was their best chance to elect Sickles who has been a champion of labor in the Maryland House of Delegates. Sickles joined Mahoney's ticket Wednesday.

The AFL-CIO, which had endorsed Gov. Tawes in 1958, emphasized its intention of trying to defeat him in his bid for re-election. The only other candidate for governor the labor leaders considered for endorsement was David Hume, but they decided that it would not be politically practical.

Urge Approval

Two of the top regional officers of the AFL-CIO, President Woodrow Strong and Secretary-Treasurer Charles Della, argued long and vigorously for approval of the Mahoney endorsement.

They said not to do so would amount to repudiation since they, along with Francis X. Filbey, president of the Baltimore Council of the unions, had agreed to the deal.

They noted specifically that the endorsement was limited to Mahoney and Sickles. Excluded were two other members of the Mahoney ticket, Blair Lee III for U. S. Senate and Samuel W. Barrick for attorney general.

Decry Records

Opponents of labor backing for Mahoney decried the voting records of Lee and Barrick on labor legislation in the House of Delegates. Lee is a member of the House and Barrick of the Senate.

Filbey was one of those opposing the Mahoney endorsement who chided the labor leaders for not considering Hume, whom he said they "liked."

During the rousing meeting, copies of a talk Hume made to the Baltimore Council last October were being distributed. Strong stopped the action.

Shows Regret

Strong said that after hearing from Hume he "must confess that the executive board and convention was highly optimistic that here was a man labor could support. We are saddened that development did not come about."

Strong said that after the AFL-CIO convention last August in Washington voted unanimously to work against the re-election of Tawes, labor leaders in Maryland considered it a mandate.

He related their first thought was how to help Sickles. He said they even approached Daniel B. Brewster, candidate for U. S. Senate on the Tawes ticket, about running on a ticket with Hume and Sickles.

"In the interest of having a rallying point and furthering the campaign of Sickles, the decision was made to explore the possibility of the Mahoney ticket," Strong continued.

"It is impractical to be independent.

Lists Promises

"Sure there were conditions. But no commitments from this state council have been made to any candidate for X-number of dollars or anything else."

On the other hand, Strong after being challenged about a "secret document not for public consumption" pulled out and read what

Longest of the roads was the Mexico Farms Road in Election District 16, 1.21 miles. Other roads accepted included Wildcat Hollow Road, District 16, .435 miles; Dawson Cemetery Road, District 31, .45 miles; Bank Avenue, District 6, .04 miles; Gramlich Road, District 29, .144 miles; Helman Drive, District 29, .176 miles; Bane Avenue, District 29, .075 miles; "C" Street, LaVale, District 29, .075 miles; Cedar Street, District 29, .1 miles; "B" Street, Potomac Park, District 6, .24 miles; "C" Street, Potomac Park, District 6, .26 miles, and "F" Street, Potomac Park, District 6, .055 miles.

Mr. Skelly also reported that a total of 4.945 miles of new road were constructed in 1961. Involved were stretches of 16 different roads at a total cost of $41,361.38. Of this amount $21,865.08 was spent for labor and equipment and $19,496.30 for materials.

The county roads supervisor also listed work on six federal aid projects in the county in 1961. Included were Bear Hill Road, Orleans Road, North; High Germany bridge and approach; Oliver Beltz Road, Town Creek Road and Mexico Farms Road. The Oliver Beltz and Town Creek projects are not yet completed.

A total of $176,673.19 was spent on these federal aid projects in 1961 and $22,950 of the cost was paid by the federal funds. That left $153,723.19 from county funds.

The supervisor also stated that seven bridges were reconstructed last year and three others were eliminated and replaced with culverts.

During his presidency, the bank building was completely remodeled in 1956.

Lewis Voices Opposition Of Area Council

Cites Objection To Blair Lee III

BALTIMORE (AP) — Andrew Lewis Jr., a union leader from Cumberland, was one of the speakers and voters Friday against endorsement of George P. Mahoney by the Maryland-D. C. AFL-CIO.

He cast two negative votes for the Western Maryland Central Labor Council. He is director of its Committee on Political Education.

Lewis, who is a union member at the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Co., said one of the main reasons "at this time" for his council's objection to a Mahoney endorsement was Blair Lee III.

Lee is running for Democratic nomination to the U. S. Senate on Mahoney's ticket.

"Last year when there was an opportunity for Frostburg Teachers College to expand," Lewis recalled, "under the leadership of Lee, this change was defeated.

"I am certain that the people of Western Maryland could not in good conscience support the Mahoney ticket."

Lee was chairman of the House Education Committee which gave an unfavorable report by one vote to a bill to convert Frostburg into a branch of the University of Maryland and expand its liberal arts curriculum. No effort was made to move the bill after the unfavorable committee report although earlier it had full support of Gov. Tawes.

Earlier at the labor meeting, Lewis had reported that State Sen. Charles See, R-Allegany, "had been removed as candidate for reelection by political maneuvering.

"The moneyed interests in our end of the state maneuvered him to seek office as a candidate for the House."

He said George R. Hughes, a former delegate defeated by See for the Senate in 1958, had announced for the post and "it is anticipated that Robert B. Kimble, former unemployment director, also will be a candidate."

Privately, Lewis said he expected William Walsh, now a member of the House, to become the Democratic candidate for Senate and a son of U. S. Republican Senator J. Glenn Beall to run for the House.

The Western Maryland COPE unit was represented by Mr. Lewis and Graydon S. Dunlap, secretary.

The action was taken in line with a decision, made at a meeting of the Western Maryland Central Labor Council, AFL-CIO, here Wednesday night.

At this meeting, the central labor body voted to make no endorsements in the coming election until the COPE Interrogation Committee confers with candidates.

The action has a precedent in the 1958 election, when the Western Maryland Council refused to endorse Rep. John R. Foley for re-election, inspite of the insistence of state and national labor leaders.

Mason Denies Criticizing Road Supervisor

Comment Involved Street Quality

County Commissioner John T. Mason yesterday wrote a letter to County Roads Supervisor Harry T. Skelly, explaining that he never made a statement that Mr. Skelly was not not qualified to handle his duties.

Mr. Mason stressed that his principal point at Tuesday's meeting of the Board of County Commissioners that other roads taken into the county system have not been in as good condition as "B", "C", "F" and "G" avenues in McGrawville, a part of Potomac Park.

Mr. Skelly sent a letter to the county commissioners yesterday outlining his qualifications as county road supervisor.

Law Section Read

The discussion Tuesday was prompted when Commissioner John T. Rowan asked the attorney to the board to read the section of the law concerning the procedure to be followed in bringing streets into the county roads system.

The law states that the county roads engineer's recommendation should be taken before action is taken to include a road in the county system. At this point, Commissioner Mason pointed out that Mr. Skelly is not a county roads engineer.

In his letter read at yesterday's meeting, Mr. Skelly said he had two years of training under the GI Bill, primarily in road, bridge and building construction and engineering. He also listed 19 years' service in the Air Force and Air Force Reserve and 15 years' experience with the county roads department.

Mr. Skelly emphasized that he has served as president, treasurer and member of the board of directors of the County Engineers Association of Maryland. He also noted that the law provides that where a county does not have a roads engineer the duties of roads supervisor should be a man of at least 10 years experience in road construction and maintenance.

Letter Quoted

Mr. Mason's letter read as follows:

"I don't believe I ever made a statement to the effect that you were not qualified to handle your job as supervisor of the County Roads System. In fact I think you have been doing a fine job considering some of the things you have to put up with.

"Neither have I ever said that all specifications have been met on "B", "C", "F" and "G" avenues in McGrawville. I only said that there have been other roads taken into the county system that were not in as good condition as the ones in McGrawville.

"I have never made any statements criticizing you or the way you run your department.

"I do feel that the letter you have written to the County Commissioners is ridiculous. I think you are making 'a mountain out of a mole hill.'"

Fleming Cites Failure To Heed 'Yield' Signs

"Simple carelessness" on the part of motorists who have been failing to heed "yield the right of way" and stop signs is the cause of many accidents in Cumberland, said Police and Fire Commissioner Philmore Fleming and Chief B. Frank Gaffney.

They pointed out yesterday that motorists should take all necessary precautions when approaching a yield right of way sign.

Chief Gaffney said that a stop sign which had been placed at the intersection of Liberty and Frederick streets, was replaced by a yield the right of way in order to prevent a backup of traffic which was occurring.

Traffic at that intersection is now expedited, according to Chief Gaffney, who said that at peak traffic, cars previously would be backed up to North Mechanic Street.

Local authorities are reminding motorists to heed the signs which are located throughout the city and cut down on accidents.

Enforcement Facts, an analysis of traffic law enforcement data, compiled by the Field Service Division, International Association of Chiefs of Police, Washington, disclosed that in urban areas the principal contributing circumstances to accidents was failure to yield the right of way (19.3 per cent); and next was following too closely (14.1 per cent), said Chief Gaffney.
